This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

In publishing a sixth catalogue of the books of the Mercantile Library Association, its directors think it well to prefix a succinct account of the origin, progress, and present state of the institution.

The persuasion, that to liberalize the minds of that great body of young men who form the rising hope of our active and varied commerce; to enlarge and invigorate their capacity by solid knowledge; to elevate their spirits and their morals by familiarizing their moments of leisure with whatever is fair in the actions of other times or excellent in science, was the truest method of advancing, not only their individual respectability, but their utility to others and their own ultimate success, led the clerks in general, of New-York, to set on foot, in the year 1820, the existing association.

To its original formation, certain prejudices (now happily disappearing) that clung to a narrow routine and strict ignorance of everything else, as the only true resources of mercantile skill, at first opposed themselves. The impediments, however, which these could offer, were not enough to hold back the better spirit of our commercial class from an object so worthy; and the organization of the society went successfully forward, until, in 1823, it obtained the more permanent form of a corporate body.

At the first opening of the institution, a collection, amounting to about seven hundred volumes, derived principally from personal donation, was found to have been assembled. In 1821 this number had risen to about a thousand volumes, and the association embraced two hundred and four members. The detailed progress of the next five years can be but imperfectly traced, in records then rather irregularly kept. In January, 1826, however, we find the number of associates risen to four hundred and thirty-eight, and that of volumes in the collection to twenty-two hundred. A still better impulse seems to have been felt in the affairs of the association during the ensuing year; since it more than doubled its number of members before the return of its next anniversary, and added more than a thousand volumes to its library. In January, 1828, three hundred and sixty new members and twelve hundred added volumes are reported; and four hundred and five of the former, and six hundred of the latter, in 1829.

Meanwhile, the accomplishment, by our institution, of a highly salutary and useful effect, had become so marked and certain, that many leading merchants of our city grew warmly solicitous for its advancement. Of that solicitude they proceeded to give us a solid token, by establishing the fund from which the stately edifice, now devoted to our gratuitous use, was erected. These fine halls, and the spacious lecture-rooms which, since 1830, we enjoy, will long form a noble monument of the enlightened views and the munificent spirit of which merchants are capable.

In January, 1831, our roll was swelled by the accession of four hundred and fifty-one new members; but our annual gain in books was this year lessened, by the necessity of repairing, out of a special appropriation, such losses or injuries in sets of books as had supervened since our foundation. In January, 1832, we had gained five hundred and seven new members and seven hundred and fifty fresh volumes; and, before the next anniversary, eight hundred and sixty-four of the latter and three hundred and eighty-three of the former. The next year brought us three hundred and eighty-two members and thirteen hundred and ninety-seven volumes; and the succeeding one, three hundred and ninety-three members and one thousand and ninety volumes; leaving the number of actual associates in January, 1835, fifteen hundred and fifty-four, and the volumes in possession nine thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight. Our accession of members, in 1835, was six hundred and eighty, and of books, fifteen hundred and twenty-two; and that of 1836, eight hundred and thirty-three of the former and eighteen hundred and forty-five of the latter; a rate of augmentation in both far more considerable than that of any previous year. The present number of members, including annual subscribers and stockholders, may be stated at three thousand five hundred; and the volumes actually in our library at fourteen thousand five hundred.

These leading facts in the history of our association ascertain a rapidity of progress in its prosperity, a recognised utility and efficiency, and a growing popularity, full of pride for those who have been the patrons of our institution, and full of hope for those who reap its benefits. Apart from the usual advantages of literary bodies and the pomp of learned names, we have created, out of the zeal, the taste, and the liberal spirit of a class, held almost careless of any praise but that of gain, an institution diffusing knowledge and the refined sentiments to a body of youth more numerous, and of a destination more important to the general offices of life than the greatest and most frequented university of Europe nourishes with science. Nor is the rising usefulness of our association far from a point at which its well-attended lectures and its rapidly-augmented collection will become of important aid to men of science themselves, and to all who, more maturely than our immediate members can yet pretend to do, cultivate the better studies. The additions to our library go on at a pace which bids fair to render it, in a few years, one of the best in the country.

The catalogues heretofore published, at intervals of three or four years, were, except the last, mere unmethodized alphabetic lists of our books; such as, for any purpose of assisting study, were almost destitute of any utility. That of 1834 was of far better design, and has done not a little towards giving some shape and form to the knowledge which our associates obtain from their books. The impression of this has now become exhausted; and additions almost equal to half the library of that time having since occurred, a fresh publication lately became every way indispensable. In devising its form, the directors were led to adopt the idea to which, as far as the necessity of very rapidly preparing it permitted, execution has been given in the present performance. This idea was, of a list in which the books should be enumerated according to the scientific classification of knowledge, and each in that minuter division to which it more directly relates; in such sort that the student may, with no assistance but his catalogue, find, in a body, all that is proper to each matter of learning, and whatever the collection contains to elucidate it. An aid of this kind is indispensable to the usefulness of every collection the instant it reaches a size permitting it to be useful at all. Without this, even he who is most versed in books is forced laboriously to search out and collect, from the mere chaos of volumes, those which relate to the immediate object of his inquiries; while he whose knowledge is yet to form wanders through a labyrinth without a clew. The directors, in a word, were led to consider that a library is useful just in proportion as it possesses a guide to its contents; an index, that, to the savant, saves his time and pains; and to the young adventurer in knowledge, going to sea for the first time, supplies a compass and a chart.

The bibliographic notes attached to nearly all the chapters of the main catalogue form its next feature, and were its chief labour. These will be found to point out the books not possessed by the collection, which, in each matter, are held by the best critics as of leading merit. Such a series of indications was regarded as useful towards shaping the future additions to the library, and as capable of rendering the catalogue serviceable, as a book of reference and a guide in reading, to those no longer possessing access to our collection, or even those attached to other institutions.

The general index at the close affords a key to the systematic list, and enables one to ascertain, at the name of each author, or the title of each anonymous book, whether a particular work belongs or not to the collection; or to what class it is to be assigned.

In the very brief critical remarks which the character of particular works seemed occasionally to demand, the compiler of the catalogue must not be understood to hazard merely an individual judgment. In such cases, he has aimed not to set up his own authority, but simply to give the general sense of the literary world. For the former, this would have been no place; the latter, however, he felt himself competent to state.

HISTORY.

Introduction. The Art of Writing or Studying History.

Bigland: Letters on the Study and Use of History. London, 1805. 12mo.

Bolingbroke, St. John, Lord: Letters on the Study and Use of History. Works, vol. X., among Polygraphs.

———: Letters on English History. Same, vol. VII.

Guide de l'Histoire, à l'usage de la jeunesse, et des Personnes qui veulent la lire avec fruit, ou l'écrire avec succès. Paris. 8vo.

Priestley: Lectures on History and General Policy, &c. See Systems and Collections of HISTORY.

Schlegel, F.: Philosophy of History: from the German. London, 1835. 2 vols. 8vo.

The following are the chief further treatises.

Lucian on the Manner of Writing History; in Francklin's translation of his works. Voss's Ars Historica, which embraces a critical catalogue of the Greek and Roman historians. Du Fresnoy, Méthode pour étudier l'Histoire; which has a very copious catalogue of the writers, ancient and modern. Voltaire, Pyrrhonisme de l'Histoire. Mably, Dialogues on the Manner of Writing History. Ferrand, Esprit de l'Histoire. Taylor's Process of Historical Proof. Idem, Transmission of Ancient Books to Modern Times. Vico, Principii d'una Scienza Nuova. Beaufort, Uncertainty of the first four Centuries of the Roman History. Treatises in the Memoirs de l'Académie des Inscriptions et Belles Lettres, by Anselme (vol. IV. and VI.) De Pouilly and Freret (vol. VI.), Freret (vol. XVIII.), De Burigny (vol. XIX. and XL.) In Rees's Encyclopædia a good succinct course of historical study will be found at the title History. As examples of the application of historical criticism, Bentley's Phalaris, Wolfe's Prolegomena to Homer, and Niebuhr's Rome are most celebrated. The controversies as to Babrius and Æsop; on the Homeric question; on the authenticity of the Ossianic poems and those of Rowley, have also elicited much subtlety and learning as to the methods of historical evidence. Herder has also written a good book on the Philosophy of History, of which there is a translation.

CHAPTER II.

GEOGRAPHY, OR DESCRIPTIVE HISTORY.

Introduction.

Johnson, Dr. James: Change of Air; or, the Philosophy of Travelling: being Autumnal Excursions through France, Switzerland, Italy, Germany, and Belgium, with Observations on the Moral, Physical, and Medicinal Influences of Travelling, Exercise, Change of Scene, Foreign Skies, and Voluntary Expatriation. New-York, 1834. 8vo.

Kitchener has written "the Traveller's Oracle," London, 1827, 2 vols. 12mo; and Gilbert West a poem "on the Use and Abuse of Travelling;" which is found in Anderson's Poets, vol. IX., p. 481.

Pinkerton: See his Collection of Voyages and Travels for a History of Geography and Discovery.

Another, more compendious, is found in Locke's Works (among Polygraphs), drawn up for Churchill's Collection of Voyages and Travels. Clarke also gave the first part of a History of Discovery; but it was ill received, and abandoned. Du Fresnoy has left a Méthode pour étudier la Géographie: and Vaugondi, an Essai sur l'Historie de la Géographie. A short one is prefixed to Blair's Chronology.

Maps, or Figured Geography.

*American Atlas; being a Guide to the History of North and South America and the West Indies, on the Plan of Lavoisne's Atlas, and intended as a Companion to it. Philadelphia, 1827. Folio.

*General Atlas; consisting of a Series of Geographical Designs, and a Collection of Maps and Charts. Edinburgh, 1817. Folio.

*Historical Map of Palestine.

*Historical, Geographical, and Statistical View of the United States; (a chart.)

*Lavoisne's Complete Genealogical, Historical, Chronological, and Geographical Atlas; being a General Guide to Ancient and Modern History. Philadelphia, 1821. Folio.

*Map of Liverpool; with a View of the Principal Public Buildings.

*Melish, John: Military and Topographical Atlas of the United States, including the British Possessions and Florida: to which are added, a List of the Military Districts, a Register of the Army, and a List of the Navy of the United States. Philadelphia, 1813. 8vo.

Hawkesworth, Dr. John: Account of the Voyage of Discovery in the Southern Hemisphere, by Captains Byron, Wallis, Carteret, and Cook. London, 1773. 3 ols. 4to.

This forms the first part of an important collection; to complete which the following are necessary.

Cook's Voyage towards the South Pole and round the World, in 1772, 3, 4, 5, written by himself, with Capt. Furneaux's Narrative of the Voyage of the Adventure while separated. London, 1777. 2 vols. 4to—forming vols. IV. and V.

Voyage to the Pacific (to explore a Northwest Passage), by Captains Cook, Clarke, and Gore: the 1st and 2d vol. by Cook; the 3d by Captain King. London, 1784. 3 vols. 4to—forming vols. VI., VII., VIII.

Kippis: Life of Cook, London, 1788, 4to, vol. IX.

The Voyages of the two Forsters (John Reinhold and George), the companions of Cook, should also be annexed—the former, London, 1778. 4to: the latter, 1777. 2 vols. 4to. Dr. Hawkesworth received from the government 6000*l.* for lending to a part of the narrative the charms of his composition; which, nevertheless, are generally regarded as, in such a work, inopportune.

History of Maritime and Inland Discovery: Lardner's Cabinet Cyclopedia. London, 1833. 3 vols. 12mo.

Journal of the Royal Geographical Society of London. London, 1831–5. 5 vols. 8vo.

Kerr, Robert: General History and Collection of Voyages and Travels, arranged in Systematic Order. Edinburgh, 1811. 17 vols. 8vo.

This esteemed collection should, I believe, have one volume more.

Modern Traveller: a Popular Description, Geographical, Historical, and Topographical, of the various Countries of the Globe. Boston, 1830. 10 vols. 12mo.

See Conder, above. This is an incomplete reprint.

Pinkerton, John: General Collection of Voyages and Travels in all Parts of the World. Philadelphia, 1811. 6 vols. 4to.

Remarkable Shipwrecks; or, a Collection of interesting Accounts of Naval Disasters, selected from Authentic Sources. Hartford, 1813. 12mo.

Voyages and Travels: a Collection of Modern and Contemporary, containing Translations from Foreign Languages of Voyages and Travels never before translated. London, 1805. 11 vols. 8vo.

Voyages and Travels: consisting of Originals, Translations, and Abridgments, with an Index and Historical Preface. London. 9 vols. 8vo.

Vol. I. Missing.

Vol. II. Travels in Egypt, 1817–18.—M'Keevor's Voyage to Hudson's Bay, in 1812.—Dumont's Thirty-four Years' Slavery in Africa.—Portenger's Wreck on the Shores of Abyssinia.—Burckhardt's Travels in Egypt and Nubia.—Prior's Voyage along the Eastern Coast of Africa.—Cordova's Voyage of Discovery to the Straits of Magellan.—Waller's Voyage to the West Indies.

Vol. III. Sansom's Travels in Canada.—Cornelius's Tour in Virginia.—Mollien's Travels in Africa.—Graham's in Portugal and Spain.—Nuewied's in Brazil, in 1817.—Castellen's in Italy.—Brackenridge's Voyage to Buenos Ayres.

Vol. IV. Pertusier's Promenades in and near Constantinople.—

Gaurbillon's Travels in Sicily.—Sommiere's Travels in Monte Negro.—Pouqueville's Travels in Northern Greece.—Schoolcraft's Tour in Missouri towards the Rocky Mountains.—Key's Voyage to Cochin China.—Kelsall's Excursion from Rome to Arpino.

Vol. V. Missing.

Vol. VI. Kotzebue's Voyage of Discovery to Behring's Straits.—Saussure's Travels in Scotland.—Travels in Switzerland and France.—Narrative of a Journey from Hainan to Canton.—Shipwreck of the Brig Sophia on the Coast of Africa.

Vol VII. Pouqueville's Travels in Southern Epirus, &c.—Adventures among the Calmucs.—Voyage to St. Petersburgh, in 1814.—Simond's Travels in Switzerland.—Travels in the Oasis of Thebes, &c.—Silliman's Tour to Quebec.—Dupin's Tour through the Naval and Military Establishments of Great Britain.

Vol. VIII. Muller's Journey through Greece and the Ionian Islands.—Journey in Egypt, and an Account of the Zodiac of Dendarah.—Saussure's Voyage to the Hebrides.—Old England, by a New-Englandman.—Scholtz's Travels in Egypt and Libya, in 1821.—Porter's Voyage in the South Seas.—Sieber's Travels in Crete.

Vol. IX. Travels in Germany, Netherlands, and England.—Travels in Hungary.—Tour over the Alps, and in Italy.—Journey in Egypt.—Cramp's Voyage to India.—Recollections of Sicily.—Mission into the Interior of Asia.—Roquefeuil's Voyage round the World.

The following further collections are held in request: Grynæus, Novus Orbis Regionum veteribus incognitarum. Basil, 1555, folio.—Ramusio, Navigatione e Viaggi raccolti. Venice, 1563. 3 vols. folio.—Hakluyt, Principal Navigations of the English Nation. London, 1809-12. 5 vols. 4to.—Purchas his Pilgrims. London, 1626, 5 vols. folio.—De Bry, Collectiones Perigrinationum in Indias. Franckfort, 1590. 25 parts, folio. (The three last are of great importance in American History; but De Bry's is a very dear book.) (Churchill's) Collection of Voyages and Travels. London, 1732. 6 vols. folio.—(Prévost) Histoire Générale des Voyages. Paris, 1746. 20 vols. 4to.

CHAPTER IV.

GEOGRAPHY. Circumnavigations.

Anson, George, Lord: Voyage round the World, in 1740, 1, 2, 3, 4. London, 1748. 8vo.

These are compiled under the name of Richard Walter, chaplain to Anson, who really did attempt the history; but was found to have done it so ill, that Benjamin Robins, the mathematician, was employed, and executed the present book; doing it, certainly, in a very interesting manner. Walter's name was suffered to stand, probably out of personal considerations.

Barnard: Narrative of his Sufferings and Adventures, in a Voyage round the World, during the years 1812–16. New-York, 1829. 8vo.

Bougainville: Voyage round the World. London, 1772. 4to.

Campbell: Voyage round the World. New-York, 1819. 12mo.

Cook's Voyages. Dublin, 1776. 8vo.

———, with an Account of his Life, by A. Kippis. Boston, 1828. 12mo.

These two articles are, of course, both voyages and life, abridgments.

Dampier: New Voyage round the World. London, 1699. 2 vols. 8vo.

This is Gulliver's "Cousin," as he more amusingly, than justly, styles him: for his story is regarded as not less veracious than remarkable. He was, in truth, a member of the society of bucaniers—a genuine successor to Drake and Raleigh, and with much of their heroic spirit, though somewhat more piratical still in his practices. His voyages are also given in Churchill's Collection.

Delano: Narrative of Voyages and Travels around the World. Boston, 1817. 8vo.

Fanning: Voyages round the World. New-York, 1833. 8vo.

An Historical Account of the Circumnavigation of the Globe, &c.; from the Voyage of Magellan to the Death of Cook. (Harpers' Family Library.) New-York, 1837. 18mo.

Holman, James: Voyage round the World; including Travels in Asia, Africa, Australasia, and America, from 1827 to 1832. London, 1834. 4 vols. 8vo.

Labillardiere: Voyage in Search of La Pérouse. London, 1800. 2 vols. 8vo.

There is another account of this voyage, by the commander in it, D'Entrecasteaux. Labillardiere was naturalist to the expedition.

Langsdorff: Voyages and Travels in various Parts of the World, during the years 1803–7. Philadelphia, 1817. 8vo.

He went round the globe with Krusenstern; whose own account of the voyage we also have in German; Petersburgh, 1810. 3 vols. 4to., and atlas, fol.

Morrell, Capt.: Narrative of Four Voyages to the South Sea, North and South Pacific Ocean, &c., &c., in 1822–31. New-York, 1832. 8vo.

———, Mrs. A. J.: Narrative of a Voyage to the Ethiopic and South Atlantic, Indian, and North and South Pacific Oceans, in the years 1829–31. New-York, 1832. 12mo.

The lady is the wife of the preceding, and the elegant and romantic companion of his later (whaling) voyages.

Myers's Life and Travels: detailing his Adventures during four Voyages round the World, &c. London, 1817. 8vo.

Pérouse, La: Voyage round the World, in 1785, 6, 7, 8. London, 1799. 3 vols. 8vo.

Annexed should be an account of Lessep's travels home, from Kamschatka, over land, with La P.'s despatches. The French account (the original) is by Mureau.

Portlock: Voyage round the World, in 1785–8. London, 1789. 4to.

There is another history of the same voyage, by the other captain in it, Dixon

Prior: Collection of all the Voyages round the World, from the first, by Magellan, in 1520, to that of Freycinet, in 1820. With Plates. London. 12mo.

Too meager to serve for anything more than a bibliography.

Reynolds, J. N.: Voyage round the World in the United States Frigate Potomac, in the years 1831, 2, 3, 4. New-York, 1835. 8vo.

See Warriner, below, for another account.

————: Address on the Subject of an Exploring Expedition to the Pacific Ocean and South Seas; with Correspondence and Documents. New-York, 1836. 8vo.

Rogers, Woodes: Voyage round the World, in 1708–11. London, 1712. 12mo.

There is an edition in 8vo., of the same date, with maps and plates.

Roquefeuil: Voyage round the World. See it in vol. IX. of "Voyages and Travels, consisting of Originals," &c. Collections, preceding chapter.

Sparrman, Dr. Andrew: Voyage to the Cape of Good Hope, towards the Antarctic Circle, and round the World, in 1772–6. Dublin, 1785. 2 vols. 8vo.

It is chiefly occupied with a residence among the Hottentots and Caffres. He sailed with Cook.

Turnbull: Voyage round the World. See it in the Contemporary Voyages and Travels, Vol. III. Collections, preceding chapter.

Warriner, Francis: Cruise of the United States Frigate Potomac round the World, in 1831–4. New-York, 1835. 12mo.

Of Magellan's circumnavigation, the best account, by Pigafetta, has been re-edited, in a better form, by Dr. Amoretti; Milan, 1800, 4to., in Italian. Drake's voyage and Cavendish's are found together, in an edition of London, 1741, 8vo. The former is also in Hakluyt, and in Harris's collection, vol. I. Vancouver's excellent voyage is best given in the London edition of 1798, 3 vols. 4to., and atlas, folio. See Cook, and others, in Collections, at his name.

CHAPTER V.

GEOGRAPHY. Travels in several Quarters of the Earth.

Abu Taleb Khan, Mirza: Travels in Asia, Africa, and Europe. From the Persian, by Charles Stewart. London, 1810. 2 vols. 8vo.

These are by an intelligent Asiatic of princely rank. They were published in Persian, at Calcutta, in 1812, by his son.

Benyowsky: Memoirs and Travels. London, 1790. 2 vols. 4to.

A singular detail of very bold and almost romantic adventure and exploit.

Chateaubriand: Travels in Greece, Palestine, Egypt, and Barbary, in 1806, 7. New-York, 1814. 8vo.

Seeing everything in the colours of the imagination only, and far more solicitous to be eloquent than instructive, no traveller, except his imitator, Lamartine, is less to be depended on. See his "Recollections"—Travels in Europe and America.

Clarke, E. D.: Travels in various Parts of Europe, Asia, and Africa. New-York, 1815. 12mo.

Incomplete. The best edition is that of Cambridge (where he was professor of mineralogy), 1810–23. 6 vols. 4to., with plates. It is, perhaps (except Pallas, and Humboldt, and John Bell), the best and soundest book of travels since the days of Tournefort, when wise and learned men went travelling, and coxcombs stayed at home.

Collins: Voyages to Portugal, Spain, Sicily, Malta, Asia Minor, Egypt, &c. Philadelphia, 1809.

Colton, Walter: Ship and Shore; or, a Journal of a Cruise to the Levant. New-York, 1836. 12mo.

Madden: Travels in Turkey, Egypt, Nubia, and Palestine, in 1824–7. Philadelphia, 1830. 2 vols. 12mo.

Mont: Voyage to the Levant. London, 1696.

Rapelye, Geo.: Narrative of Travels in Europe, Asia, and Africa. New-York, 1834. 8vo.

Never traveller went abroad with more ignorance, or returned with that ignorance more undiminished.

Sharon: Voyages and Travels in several Quarters of the Globe. Baltimore, 1808. 12mo.

Shoberl's Turkey: being a Description of the Manners, Customs, and other Peculiarities of the Inhabitants of the Turkish Empire. Philadelphia, 1836. 3 vols. 12mo.

Intended for juvenile readers.

Slade: Travels in Turkey, Greece, &c.: also a Cruise on the Black Sea with the Capitan Pasha, in 1829–31. Philadelphia, 1833. 2 vols. 12mo.

Smith, Capt. John, founder of Virginia: Travels and Adventures in Europe, Asia, Africa, and America, from 1593 to 1629. Richmond, Va., 1819. 2 vols. 8vo.

This edition is copied from the curious narrative of the adventurous captain. London, 1630, folio. It contains the continuation of his History of Virginia (that is, of its planting.) London, 1626, folio. A life of Smith is found in Sparks's American Biography.

Turner: Journal of a Tour in the Levant. London, 1820. 3 vols. 8vo.

Ulloa, Juan de: Adventures in a Voyage to Calcutta, soon after the Discovery of India, by Vasco de Gama. New-York, 1826. 12mo.

Books, even for children, should not carry gross mistakes on their fronts. Vasco de Gama did not discover India, but merely the passage there around the Cape of Good Hope. The affair is fictitious and juvenile.

Webster, James: Travels through the Crimea, Turkey, and Egypt, in 1825–8; including the Particulars of the Death of the Emperor Alexander, and of the Russian Conspiracy in 1825. London, 1830. 2 vols. 8vo.

Wines: Two Years and a half in the Navy, or a Cruise in the Mediterranean, on board the U. S. Frigate Constellation, in 1829–31. Philadelphia, 1831. 2 vols. 12mo.

Woodruff: Journal of a Tour to Malta, Greece, Asia Minor, Carthage, Algiers, Port Mahon, and Spain, in 1828. Hartford, 1831. 12mo.

In this class the following in addition are of leading importance: Marco Polo's Travels in the thirteenth century, in the translation and with the admirable notes of Marsden. London, 1818. 4to. The mere translation will be found in Pinkerton's Collection, and Harris's. Pocoke, Description of the East. London, 1743. 3 vols. folio. P. Lucas, Voyages. Paris and Amsterdam, 1712–20. 6 vols. 12mo. Savary, Relation de Voyages. Paris, 1628, 4to. Pietro della Valle, Viaggi. Rome, 1658. 4 vols. 4to. La Motraye, Voyages. Hague, 1727. 3 vols. folio. Centellas, Voyages et Conquêtes des Rois de Portugal es Indes d'Orient. Paris, 1578. 8vo.

CHAPTER VI.

GEOGRAPHY. Travels in Europe and Asia.

Brocquiere: Travels to Palestine, and return over Land to France, in 1432–3. Translated by T. Jones. Hafod, 1807. Royal 8vo.

Cochrane: Narrative of a Pedestrian Journey through Russia, Siberia, Tartary, to the Frontiers of China and Kamschatka, in 1820–3. Philadelphia, 1824. 8vo.

Costumes of the Russian Empire. London, 1803. 4to.

——— of Turkey. London, 1802. 4to.

Emmerson: Letters from the Ægean. New-York, 1829. 8vo.

Guignes, De: Voyages à Peking, Manille, et l'Isle de France, faits dans l'intervalle de 1784 à 1801. Paris, 1808. 2 vols. 8vo. et Atlas, fol.

Hanway, Jonas: Historical Account of the British Trade over the Caspian Sea, with Travels through Russia and Persia, and back through Russia, Germany, and Holland. London, 1754. 2 vols. 4to.

There should be two more volumes of this book. He also wrote some travels in England, which gave Dr. Johnson occasion to say, "Jonas got some reputation by travelling abroad, but lost it all by travelling at home." Jonas was also the publisher of much philanthropy.

Hobhouse: Journey through Albania and other Provinces of Turkey in Europe and Asia, to Constantinople, in 1809–10. Philadelphia, 1817. 2 vols. 8vo.

He was the companion of Byron in this journey. Of this book, a good notice is found in the Quarterly Review, vol. X.

Keppel, George: Personal Narrative of a Journey from India to England, in 1824. Philadelphia, 1827. 8vo.

Monro, Vere: A Summer Ramble in Syria; with a Tartar Trip to Aleppo and Stamboul. London, 1835. 2 vols. 8vo.

Porter, Commodore David: Constantinople and its Environs. New-York, 1835. 2 vols. 12mo.

Sonnini: Travels in Greece and Turkey. London, 1801. 2 vols. 8vo.

The best books on these regions are none of them in the above list. They are, as to Greece and the Levant, Tournefort, Voyage au Levant. Paris, 1717. 2 vols. 4to. Chishull, Travels in Turkey. London, 1747. Folio. Dallaway, Tour in the Levant. London, 1797. 4to. Sandys, Journey into Turkey, &c. London, 1621. Folio. Hasselquist, Travels in the Levant. London, 1766. 8vo. They are written by Linnæus. As to the Russian States, Persia, &c.; Olearius, Voyages, &c. Amsterdam, 1727. Folio. Le Bruyn, Travels. London, 1737. 2 vols. folio. Bell of Antermony, Travels. Glasgow, 1763. 2 vols. 4to. Tavernier, the Six Voyages. London, 1677. folio. They are in Harris; and Extracts in Pinkerton. Sir John Mandeville's Travailles. London, 1725, 8vo. They are also in Hakluyt. Pallas, Travels in Southern Russian Empire. London, 1802. 2 vols. 4to.

CHAPTER VII.

GEOGRAPHY. Travels in Europe and Africa.

Noah, M. M.: Travels in England, France, Spain, and the Barbary States, in 1813–15. New-York, 1819. 8vo.

Scenes and Impressions in Egypt and Italy. By the author of "Sketches in India."

CHAPTER VIII.

GEOGRAPHY. Travels in Asia and Africa.

Hofland, Mrs.: The Young Pilgrim; Alfred Campbell's return to the East, &c. New-York, 1825. 12mo.

Fictitious juvenile travels.

Jones, George: Excursions to Cairo, Jerusalem, Damascus, and Balbec, from the United States Ship Delaware. New-York, 1836. 12mo.

The following may be referred to in addition:—Shaw's Travels. Oxford, 1738, folio. Irwin, Voyage up the Red Sea. London, 1780. 4to. Rochon, Voyage to Madagascar and the East Indies. London, 1793. 8vo. Light, Travels in Egypt, Syria, &c. London, 1818. 4to. Browne, Travels in Africa. London, 1799. 4to. Lord Valentia, Travels to India, Ceylon, the Red Sea, &c. London, 1809. 3 vols. 4to.; and the Travels of Badia y Leblich, under the assumed name of Ali Bey, in Africa and Asia. Philadelphia, 1816. 2 vols. 8vo.

CHAPTER IX.

GEOGRAPHY. Travels in Asia and America.

Humboldt: Travels and Researches: being a condensed Narrative of his Journey in Equinoctial America and in Asiatic Russia. New-York. (Family Library.) 18mo.

See the first of the works here abridged, under Travels in either America.

Muller's Collection of Voyages from Asia to America, London, 1764, 4to., might be added here.

CHAPTER X.

GEOGRAPHY. Travels in Africa and America.

There is a French collection falling under this division; Recueil de divers Voyages faits en Afrique et en Amérique. Paris, 1764. 4to.

CHAPTER XI.

GEOGRAPHY. Travels in America and Europe.

Chateaubriand: Recollections of Italy, England, and America. Philadelphia, 1816. 8vo.

See, in this, how, at Niagara, he fell from the top to the bottom of the precipice at the Falls; but lighting, luckily, on a smooth rock, only broke his arm.

CHAPTER XII.

GEOGRAPHY. Travels in Several Parts of Europe.

Beckford: Italy; with Sketches of Spain and Portugal. Philadelphia, 1834. 2 vols. 12mo.

Berrian: Travels in France and Italy, in 1817, 18. New-York, 1821. 8vo.

Cadell: Journey in Italy and France. Edinburgh, 1820. 2 vols. 8vo.

Carr, Sir John: Northern Summer; or, Travels round the Baltic, &c., in 1804. Hartford, 1806. 12mo.

Carter: Letters from Europe. New-York, 1827. 2 vols. 8vo.

Coxe: Travels in Poland, Russia, Sweden, and Denmark. London, 1802. 5 vols. 8vo.

Dewey, Orville: The Old World and the New; or, Journal of a Tour in Europe. New-York, 1836. 2 vols. 12mo.

Diary of an Ennuyée. Philadelphia, 1826. 12mo.

By Mrs. Anna Jameson.

Diary of a Desennuyée. 12mo.

Didier: Letters from Paris and other Cities of France, Holland, &c., in 1816–20. New-York, 1821. 8vo.

Evelyn: See his Travels, in his Memoirs, by Bray. BIOGRAPHY.

French Sergeant, Adventures of a, during Campaigns in Italy, Spain, Germany, Russia, &c., 1805–23. Philadelphia, 1826. 12mo.

A narrative that may very well be true; but not known to be authentic.

Gray, Robert: Letters, during a Tour in Germany, Switzerland, and Italy, in 1791, 2. London, 1794. 8vo.

Green: Notes of a Traveller through England, France, and Switzerland, in 1828. New-York, 1831. 3 vols. 12mo.

James: Journal of a Tour in Germany, Sweden, Russia, and Poland, in 1813, 14. London, 1819. 2 vols. 8vo.

Jameson, Mrs. Anna: Visits and Sketches, at Home and Abroad. New-York, 1834. 2 vols. 12mo.

Keysler, I. G.: Travels through Germany, Bohemia, Hungary, Switzerland, Italy, and Lorraine. London, 1760. 4 vols. 8vo.

Montesquieu: Lettres Persannes. In his works, POLYGRAPHS.

Excellent and witty fictitious travels of an Asiatic. Of such, the Letters of a Turkish Spy, orginally in Italian, by John Paul Marana, were the first model. Lord Lyttleton wrote his Persian Letters, Goldsmith his Citizen of the World, and latterly Morier his Hadji Baba in England, upon the same idea.

Moore, Dr. John: View of Society and Manners in France, Switzerland, and Germany: with Anecdotes of some Eminent Characters. London, 1779. 2 vols. 8vo.

His very agreeable Travels in Italy form the sequel to this good book. He is the author of Zeluco, Mordaunt, &c.; and the father of the gallant Sir John Moore.

Puckler, Muskau: Tour in England, Ireland, and France, in 1828, 9. Philadelphia, 1833. 8vo.

——————: Tutti Frutti. New-York, 1834. 12mo.

Quin, Michael: Steam Voyage down the Danube; with Sketches of Hungary, Wallachia, Servia, Turkey, &c. London, 1836. 2 vols. 12mo.

Raffle: Letters during a Tour through France, Savoy, Switzerland, Germany, and the Netherlands, in 1817. New-York, 1818. 12mo.

Silliman: Journal of Travels in England, Holland, and Scotland. Hartford, 1810. 2 vols. 8vo.

Slight Reminiscences of the Rhine, Switzerland, and a Corner of Italy. Philadelphia, 1835. 2 vols. 12mo.

Willard, Mrs.: Journal and Letters from France and Great Britain. Troy, 1833. 12mo.

Wraxall: Tour round the Baltic. London, 1807. 8vo.

Young, Arthur: Travels in 1787, 8, 9, to ascertain the Cultivation, Wealth, Resources, and National Prosperity of France. To which is added the Register of a Tour in Spain. Dublin, 1793. 2 vols. 8vo.

The Travels of Busbequius. Paris, 1748. 3 vols. 12mo.; of Count Stolberg. London, 1796. 2 vols. 4to. Lady Craven's Travels. London, 1789. 4to. Bishop Burnet's Letters from Switzerland, Italy, &c. London, 1724, 8vo., or in Harris's Collection, vol. II. Smollet's Travels. London, 1766. 2 vols. 8vo.; and Matthews's Diary of an Invalid. London, 1820, 8vo., may be advantageously added to this section.

CHAPTER XIII.

GEOGRAPHY. Travels in European Turkey.

Anderson: Observations on the Peloponnesus and Greek Islands, in 1829. Boston, 1830. 12mo.

Barthelemy: Voyage du jeune Anacharsis en Grèce, vers le milieu du 4e. Siècle. Avec Cartes, &c. 7 vols. 12mo., and Atlas, 4to.

A view of Greek institutions and letters, not to be surpassed in either learning, judgment, or taste. Mill has made a like attempt to give, by a fictitious voyage (Travels of Theodore Ducas), the History of Letters and the Fine Arts, at their revival in Europe—which was, indeed, the first plan of Barthelemy. Next to Herodotus, Thucydides, Xenophon, Polybius, and Plutarch (the main original sources), this is the book worthiest of attention, as to Grecian history.

Colton, Walter: Visit to Constantinople and Athens. New-York, 1836. 12mo.

Dallaway: Constantinople, Ancient and Modern. London, 1797. 4to.

De Kay: Sketches of Turkey. New-York, 1833. 8vo.

Leake, Col.: Topography of Athens; with some Remarks on its Antiquities. London, 1821. 8vo.

Pausanias: Description of Greece; translated from the Greek, with Notes, by Thomas Taylor. London, 1794. 3 vols. 8vo.

Picture of Greece in 1825, as exhibited by the Narratives of Count Pecchio, J. Emmerson, and W. Humphreys. New-York, 1826. 2 vols. 12mo.

Porter, Commodore: Constantinople. See Travels, &c., in Europe and Asia.

Post: Visit to Greece and Constantinople, in 1827, 8. New-York, 1830. 8vo.

Walsh: Residence at Constantinople during the Greek and Turkish Revolutions. London, 1836. 2 vols. 8vo.

Wordsworth, Christopher: Athens and Attica: Journal of a Residence there. London, 1836. 8vo.

Pausanias is the main source for the ancient geography of Greece. Pliny, Strabo, Ptolemy, and Stephen of Byzantium, are the other chief classic authorities. D'Anville (see Systems of Geography) and Gosselin are the modern enlighteners of the difficulties of Greek and Roman descriptive history. Emmius, Gerbelius, Gyllius, Cragius, Laurenbergius, Meursius, Schookius, Dousa, have left particular treatises on ancient Greece, which are found in Gronovius's Thesaurus Antiquitatum Græcarum. Ortelius, Cluverius, Cellarius, Bretius, and Varenius were the best writers before D'Anville, but superseded by him. Banduri and Du Cange have more particularly illustrated the antiquities and topography of Constantinople, in their collections subsidiary to the Byzantine historians.

The following are later: Chandler, Revett, and Pars, Ionian Antiquities. London, 1769. 2 vols. in 1, folio: Stuart and Revett, Antiquities of Athens, London, 1761. 4 vols. folio. Gell, Itinerary of Greece. London, 1810. 4to. Idem, Journey in the Morea. London, 1823. 8vo. Savary, Letters on Greece. London, 1788. 8vo. Sonnini, Travels in Greece. London, 1801. 4to. Wheler and Spon, Voyage d'Italie, de Dalmatie, de Grèce, &c. Hague, 1723, 4. 4 vols. 12mo. Guys, Voyage Littéraire de la Grèce. Paris, 1783. 4 vols. 8vo. Choiseul-Gouffier, Voyage Pittoresque de la Grèce. Paris, 1782. 2 vols. folio, with Discours Préliminaire, 1783, 18mo. Pouqueville, Voyage en Morée. Paris, 1805. 3 vols. 8vo.

Morgan, Lady Sidney: Italy. New-York, 1821. 2 vols. 8vo.

Abused by the critics; praised by Lord Byron: the latter the best judge.

Peale, Rembrandt: Notes on Italy, in 1829, 30. Philadelphia, 1831. 8vo.

Pompeii. Boston, 1833. 12mo.

Staël, Madame de: Corinne; ou l'Italie. See it in her works, among POLYGRAPHS.

Sass: Journey to Rome and Naples, in 1817. New-York, 1818. 12mo.

Tegenwoordige Staat van Italie. Amsterdam, 1761. 8vo.

Waldie, Miss: Rome in the 19th Century. New-York, 1827. 2 vols. 12mo.

A good and sensible guide to the city, ancient and modern.

For the ancient geography of Italy, consult Strabo, books 5 and 6; Pliny, chapters 5 to 19 of his 3d book; Pomponius Mela; Ptolemy, &c.; Cluverius, Italia Antiqua; Bergier, Grand chemins des Romains. As a guide to the monuments of Rome, Nardini is the best, and Vasi the latest.

The following further books are the most esteemed: Barthelemy, Travels in Italy. London, 1802. 8vo. Blunt, Vestiges of Ancient Manners in Italy. London, 1823. 8vo. Brydone, Tour in Italy and Sicily. London, 1774. 2 vols. 8vo. Condamine, Tour in Italy. London, 1768. 12mo. Eustace, Classical Tour. London, 1821. 4 vols. 8vo. Hoare, Classical Tour. London, 1819. 2 vols. 8vo. Hamilton's Etruscan Antiquities, by D'Hancarville. Naples, 1766. 4 vols. folio. Montfaucon, Italian Diary. London, 1725. folio. Roscoe's Landscape Annual, 1830, 1, 2, 3. Simond, Tour in Italy. London, 1828. 8vo. Forsyth's Italy. London, 1816. 8vo. Spallanzani, Travels. London, 1798. 4 vols. 8vo. Swinburne, Travels in Italy and Sicily. London, 1790. 4 vols. 8vo. Denon, Voyage en Sicile. Paris, 1788. 8vo. Saussure, Voyage dans les Alpes. Neuchatel, 1774. 4 vols. 4to. St. Non, Voyage Pittoresque de Naples et de Sicile. Paris, 1781. 5 vols. folio. Millin, Voyage en Savoie, &c. Paris, 1818. 2 vols. 8vo. Idem, Voyage dans le Millanais, &c. Paris, 1817. 2 vols. 8vo. De Beaumont, Maritime, Lepontine, and Rhætian Alps. London, 1795, 1800, and 1802. 3 vols. folio.

CHAPTER XV.

GEOGRAPHY. Travels in Spain and Portugal.

Chatelet: Travels in Portugal. London, 1809. 2 vols. 8vo.

Halen, Van: Narrative of his Imprisonment by the Inquisition at Madrid; Escape in 1817, 18; Journey to Russia, and return to Spain. New-York, 1828. 8vo.

Laborde, Alexander de: A View of Spain, comprising a Descriptive Itinerary of each Province, and a General Statistical Account of the Country. London, 1809. 5 vols. 8vo.

Madrid in 1835: Sketches of the Metropolis of Spain; and of Society, Manners, &c., in the Peninsula. New-York, 1836. 2 vols. 8vo.

Pardoe, Miss: Traits and Traditions of Portugal; collected during a Residence there. Philadelphia, 1834. 2 vols. 12mo.

Recollections of the Peninsula. By the Author of "Sketches of India." Philadelphia, 1824. 12mo.

Scenes in Spain. New-York, 1836. 12mo.

Slidell, Lieutenant: A Year in Spain. New-York, 1836. 3 vols. 12mo.

———: Spain Revisited. New-York, 1836. 2 vols. 12mo.

Tegenwoordige Staat van Spanie und Portugal. Amsterdam, 1759. 8vo.

Swinburne's (London, 1779, 4to) are the best and pleasantest travels in this little-illustrated region. Dalrymple, Dillon, Bourganne, Townsend, Carter, Twiss, and Murphy are of little value. Southey's Letters from Spain and Portugal are good and agreeable; Bristol, 1799, 8vo. Roscoe's Landscape Annuals, 1835, 6 (Granada and Andalusia), afford good information. De la Borde's Voyage Pittoresque de l'Espagne, Paris, 1807, 4 vols. folio, with his Itinerary, in Spanish, Madrid, 2 vols. 4to, are complete, but costly illustrations of Spanish scenery. Espinalt y Garcia's Atlante Español, Madrid, 1778, 14 vols. 8vo; Lopez, Geographia Historica de España, Madrid, 1788, 2 vols. 8vo, are worth possessing.

CHAPTER XVI.

GEOGRAPHY. Travels in France.

Boys, Edward: Narrative of a Captivity and Adventures in France. London, 1831. 12mo.

Carr, Sir John: Stranger in France. London, 1803. 4to.

———: The same. Baltimore, 1805. 8vo.

For Lord Byron's very natural dread of being put into the books of this traveller by trade, see his correspondence. See others of his barren tours in other articles.

Expilly: Dictionnaire Geographique, Historique et Politique des Gaules et de la France. Paris, 1762. 6 vols. folio.

(Jouy): Guillaume le Franc-parleur; suite de l'Hermite de la Chaussée d'Antin. Paris. 12mo.

Young, Arthur: Travels in France. See Travels in several Parts of Europe.

Bulwer's France, New-York, 1834, 2 vols. 12mo; Ireland's France for the last Seven Years, London, 1822, 8vo; Brion and others, Voyage dans les 102

Départemens, Paris, 102 parts, in 8vo, with plates; the Nouveau Voyage Pittoresque, Paris, 1817, 8vo; Le Grand d'Aussy's Voyage dans la Haute et Basse Auvergne, Paris, 1795, 3 vols. 8vo, might be added. D'Anville has elucidated its ancient geography in the following—Notice sur l'Ancienne Gaule. Paris, 1760. 4to. Memoires sur les Cartes de l'Ancienne Gaule. Paris, 1779. 4to. There is a very lively and elegant collection, usually known as the Petits Voyages, by Bachaumont and Le Chappelle, La Fontaine, and others, 5 vols. 18mo. Leitch Ritchie's Picturesque Annuals for 1834 and 5 are good and agreeable.

CHAPTER XVII.

GEOGRAPHY. Travels in the British Isles.

Boswell: Tour in the Hebrides. New-York, 1810. 8vo.

Made in company of Dr. Johnson: whose tour see below.

(Lockhart): Peter's Letters to his Kinsfolk. New-York, 1820. 8vo.

Moray: A Survey of the Province of, Historical, Geographical, and Political. Aberdeen. 8vo.

Partington, C. F.: National History and Views of London and its Environs; embracing their Antiquities, Modern Improvements, &c. London, 1835. 2 vols. 8vo.

Picture of Dublin. Dublin. 12mo.

Picture of Liverpool. Liverpool, 1820. 12mo.

Pillet, General: View of England, during a Residence of Ten Years, Six of them as a Prisoner of War. Boston, 1818. 12mo.

Parson Fiddler is fair, and Miss Martineau unprejudiced, in comparison with this furious invective against everything in England.

Raumer, Frederick von: England in 1835. Philadelphia, 1836. 8vo.

The book of an able and accurate man.

Rush, Richard: Memoranda of a Residence at the Court of London. Philadelphia, 1833. 8vo.

Slidell, Lieutenant: An American in England. New-York, 1835. 2 vols. 12mo.

(Southey, Robert): Letters of Don Manuel Espriella. London, 1814. 2 vols. 12mo.

Stewart, C. S.: Sketches of Society in Great Britain and Ireland. New-York, 1834. 2 vols. 12mo.

Thorburn, Grant: Men and Manners in Britain. New-York, 1834. 12mo.

Voyage d'un Français en Angleterre, en 1810, 11. Paris, 1816. 2 vols. 8vo.

White: Letters on England. Philadelphia, 1816. 2 vols. 8vo.

———: The same, London, 1818. 8vo.

Wrightson: New Triennial Directory of Birmingham. Plate. Birmingham, 1818. 8vo.

Mavor has drawn into a single collection, entitled The British Tourist, the best travels in Britain. London, 1798–1800, and 1807. 6 vols. 18mo. It comprehends Pennant's Scotland and the Hebrides; Twiss's Tour in Ireland; Wyndham's Monmouthshire and Wales; Johnson's Hebrides; Hutchinson's Lakes and North of England; Bray's Tour through the Midland Counties, &c.; Young's Tour in Ireland; Pennant's Journey from Chester to London; Sullivan's Tour; Shaw's Tour to the West of England; Newte's in England and Scotland; Hassell's Isle of Wight; Moritz's Travels; Roberts's Isle of Man; Skrine's South Wales, &c.; Idem, North Wales; Grant's Derbyshire and the Lakes; Holme's Southern Counties of Ireland; Faujas de St. Fond's England, Scotland, and the Hebrides; Kett's Lakes of Cumberland and Westmoreland; Mavor's Wales; Pennant's London; Mavor's Oxford; A Student's Cambridge; Tour of the Bathing-places; List of Market-towns. There is an American reprint, in 6 vols. 12mo. The several books of Gilpin, as to forest scenery, &c., are good, in regard to British landscape. Simond's and Saussure's are good travels. Lyson's Environs of London may be joined to Pennant's. Arnot has given a good history of Edinburgh. Grose's Antiquities (and Topography) of England, Wales, and Scotland, are important. Camden's Britannia is indispensable for antiquities and local history. In it, the ancient geography of the islands is well treated; as likewise in the 1st and 2d volumes of Henry's History of Great Britain.

CHAPTER XVIII.

GEOGRAPHY. Travels in the Low Countries.

Semple, Miss: The Costumes of the Netherlands displayed in 30 coloured Engravings, with Descriptions in English and French. London, 1817. Folio.

Simpson: Visit to Flanders, in 1815; being chiefly an Account of the Field of Waterloo, &c. New-York, 1816. 12mo.

Tegenwoordige Staat der Vereenigde Nederlanden. Amsterdam, 1785. 8vo.

Tour in Holland in 1784. By an American. Worcester, Mass., 1790. 8vo.

Trollope, Mrs.: Belgium and Western Germany, in 1833. Philadelphia, 1834. 8vo.

In English, we have Mrs. Radcliff, the novelist's, Journey through Holland and on the Rhine. London, 1795. 4to; and Tomblesone's Views on the Rhine. London, 1834. 8vo; in French, Forster's Voyage Philosophique et Pittoresque sur les Rives du Rhin, &c. Paris, 1795. 2 vols. 8vo; and Libert's Voyage Pittoresque sur le Rhin. Frankfort, 1804. 8vo. The old book of Les Délices des Pays-Bas, Antwerp, 1786, 5 vols. sm. 8vo, is a good general description; as are also Wastelin's Description de la Gaule Belgique, Lille, 1761, 4to, and Parival's Delices de la Hollande, Hague, 1710, 2 vols. 12mo.

CHAPTER XIX.

GEOGRAPHY. Travels in the German States.

Dwight, H. E.: Travels in the North of Germany, in 1825, 6. New-York, 1829. 8vo.

The book of a clever and accurate man.

Geradin: Notices Politiques et Littéraires sur l'Allemagne. Brussells, 1835. 12mo.

Hall, Basil: Skimmings; or, a Winter at Schloss Hainfeld. Philadelphia, 1836. 12mo.

(Head, Sir Francis): Bubbles from the Brunnens, &c. London, 1835. 12mo.

Journal of a Nobleman, in his Residence at Vienna during the Congress. Philadelphia, 1833. 12mo.

Molleville and Dallas: Costumes of the Hereditary States of the House of Austria. London, 1804. 4to.

Notes and Reflections during a Ramble in Germany. Boston, 1829. 12mo.

———: The same, London, 1827. 8vo.

Render: Tour through Germany. London, 1811. 2 vols. 8vo.

Russell: Tour in Germany, in 1820–22. Boston, 1825. 8vo.

Sketches of Germany and the Germans, in 1834–5. By a Resident Englishman. London, 1836. 2 vols. 12mo.

Stael, Madame de: De l'Allemagne. Paris, 1818. 2 vols. 12mo.

Perhaps her best book; but exaggerating everything except the learning and diligence of the Germans. It was the main cause of their coming so much into the fashion they have ever since enjoyed, even in their worst taste and wildest philosophy. To the above may be added Townson's Travels in Hungary; Cogan's Journey on the Rhine; Hodgskin's North of Germany; Cassini's Relation de deux Voyages. Paris, 1765. 4to; and his 2d Relation. Paris, 1775. 4to: Sestini, Viaggio per Valachia, Ungheria, &c.

CHAPTER XX.

GEOGRAPHY. Travels in Switzerland.

Agassiz: Journey to Switzerland. London, 1833. 8vo.

Cooper, J. F.: Sketches of Switzerland. Philadelphia, 1836. 2 vols. 12mo.

———: The same, part second. 1837. 12mo.

Coxe: Travels in Switzerland. Dublin, 1789. 2 vols. 8vo.

He gives the best traveller's account of the political institutions of Switzerland.

Macneven: Ramble through Switzerland, in 1802. Dublin, 1803. 8vo.

Simon: Journal of a Tour and Residence in Switzerland, in 1817–19. Boston, 1822. 2 vols. 8vo.

Stolberg (already mentioned) may be referred to; also, Helen Williams's Travels in Switzerland; Zurlauben's Tableaux de la Suisse; Simmer's Voyage Historique et Littéraire dans la Suisse occidentale; Robert, Voyage dans les treize Cantons; and the picturesque works of Beaumont, already mentioned.

CHAPTER XXI.

GEOGRAPHY. Travels in the Scandinavian and Sclavonic States.

Acerbi: Travels through Sweden, Finland, and Lapland. London, 1802. 2 vols. 4to.

Catteau: General View of Sweden. London, 1790. 8vo.

Henderson; Journal of a Residence in Iceland, in 1814, 15. Boston, 1831. 12mo.

Hooker: Journal of a Tour in Iceland, in 1809. London, 1813. 2 vols. 8vo.

Johnston: Travels through part of Russia and Poland. New-York, 1816. 8vo.

Landor: Adventures in the North of Europe, illustrative of the Poetry and Philosophy of Travel. London, 1836. 2 vols. 12mo.

Norway, Sweden, and Denmark. Constable's Miscellany, vol. 38, Polygraphs.

Porter: Travelling Sketches in Russia and Sweden. Philadelphia, 1809. 8vo.

Ritchie, Leitch: Russia and the Russians. Philadelphia, 1836. 12mo.

Russia and Siberian Tartary. Constable's Miscellany, Polygraphs.

Paulus Jovius's Legatio Moscovitarum (given in Grynæus), and the voyages in the first part of Hakluyt, are the earliest information as to Russia, &c. Chantreau, Coxe, Pleschéef, Sauer, Tooke, Pallas, Guldenstaedt, for Russia: Consett, Molesworth, Swinton, Boisgelin, Thomson, Fabricius, Linnæus, as to Norway, Sweden, and Denmark: Linnæus, as to Lapland: Troil, Stewart Mackenzie, and Henderson, as to Iceland, are the best later authorities. In Bishop Heber's life (by his widow), his Journal of Travels through the countries belonging to this section, and among the Cossacs, may be found. Le Clerc has given, in French, a General History of Russia, Ancient and Modern, 6 vols. 4to., and Atlas folio. Storch has left a good Picture of Petersburg, London, 1801, 8vo.

CHAPTER XXII.

GEOGRAPHY. Travels in Asia, several Parts.

See, in preceding Sections, various Travels in Pinkerton and the other General Collections. Also, among Travels in Several Quarters of the Globe, Abu-Taleb, Clark, Turner, Hanway, De Guignes, Badia y Leblich, Langsdorff, Benyowsky. Also, in Sir W. Jones's Works (Polygraphy), vol. XII., a Geography of Asia.

There is also a collection, printed by Vander Aa, with Introduction by Bergeron, of early voyages in several parts of Asia, entitled Voyages faits principalement en Asie, dans les 12e, 13e, 14e, et 15e siècles. Hague, 1735. 2 vols. 4to. Maritti's Travels in Cyprus, Syria, &c.; Klaproth's Letters on the Caucasus, Georgia, &c.; Morier's First and Second Journeys through Persia, Armenia, &c.; Ouseley's Travels in the East; Kinneir's Journey through Asia Minor, Armenia, and Koordistan; Bernier's Travels, and Stavorinus's, are all much esteemed. The Oriental Geography of Ebn Haukal, translated by Ouseley, and D'Herbelot's Bibliothèque Oriental, Galland's edition, are important; as also Sonnerat's Voyages aux Indes Orientales et à la Chine.

CHAPTER XXIII.

GEOGRAPHY. Travels in Asia Minor and the Levant.

Arundell: Visit to the Seven Churches of Asia; with an Excursion into Pisidia. London, 1828. 8vo.

Leake: Journal of a Tour in Asia Minor. London, 1824. 8vo.

Mengou: Narrative of a Greek Soldier; containing Anecdotes of the Greeks and Turks in Asia Minor, &c. New-York, 1830. 12mo.

Chandler's Travels in Asia Minor; Chishull, Tournefort, and Dallaway (already mentioned); D'Hosson's Tableau de l'Empire Othoman, are important. The much-disputed question as to Troy belongs also to this section. On it, Chevalier's, Bryant's, Moritz's, Wood's books, with Gell's Topography of Troy, are the main books; but good notices upon the matter are also found in Edward Daniel Clark's Travels, and in Hobhouse's Albania. The question, in its philological grounds, is most largely treated in Wolfe's Prolegomena to his Homer. It is more succinctly handled in Heyne's, Knight's, and Trollope's editions of the same poet. Wood's Remains of Palmyra (London, 1753, atlas, folio), and his Ruins of Balbec, 1757, same form, are also important, but expensive books.

CHAPTER XXIV.

GEOGRAPHY. Asia. Travels in Arabia and Syria.

Burckhardt: Travels in Arabia. London, 1829. 2 vols. 8vo.

Helon: Pilgrimage to Jerusalem. Boston, 1825. 2 vols. 12mo.

Hogg, T. J.: Visit to Damascus and Jerusalem during the Campaign of Ibrahim Pacha. London, 1835. 12mo.

James: Christian Researches in Syria and the Holy Land, in 1823, 4. Boston, 1826. 12mo.

Laborde, De: Journey through Arabia Petræa to Mount Sinai, &c. London, 1836. 8vo.

Lamartine, Alphonse de: Pilgrimage to the Holy Land, in 1832, 3. Philadelphia, 1835. 2 vols. 12mo.

———: Narrative of the Residence of Fatalla Sayeghu among the Arabs of the Great Desert. Philadelphia, 1836. 12mo.

Russell: Palestine; or, the Holy Land. (Family Library.) New-York, 1832. 18mo.

(Stephens): Incidents of Travel in Egypt, Arabia Petræa, &c. New-York, 1837. 2 vols. 12mo.

Bochart is the main systematic writer on the geography of the Holy Land. A tract by Eusebius, in St. Jerome's works; the Itinerary, called that of Jerusalem (in Ortelius's Theatrum Geographiæ Vet.); some pieces in Bongarsius's Gesta Dei; Calmet's Dictionary and Commentary; the Apparatus to Walton's Polyglott; parts of the works of Lightfoot, Reland, Bingham, and Usher, form the remaining works of authority. Pococke's, Tournefort's, Hasselquist's, Maundrel's, La Roque's, and other travels, illustrate the matter. Of Arabia, Abulfeda's description is the oldest. The elder Neibuhr's two works, his Description of Arabia and his Travels, are the most esteemed modern books.

CHAPTER XXV.

GEOGRAPHY. Asia. Travels in Persia.

Buckingham: Travels in Assyria, Media, and Persia, &c.; with Illustrations of the Voyage of Nearchus. London, 1830. 2 vols. 8vo.

Burnes, Lieutenant: Travels into Bokhara. Philadelphia, 1835. 2 vols. 12mo.

Kotzebue: Journey into Persia, in the Suite of the Imperial Embassy. Philadelphia, 1820. 8vo.

Rich, Claudius J.: Narrative of a Residence in Koordistan and on the Site of Nineveh; with Voyage down the Tigris to Bagdad; and a Visit to Shiraun and Persepolis. London, 1836. 2 vols. 8vo.

Stoequeler, J. H.: Fifteen Months' Pilgrimage through Untrodden Tracks of Persia, &c., in 1831, 2. London, 1832. 2 vols. 12mo.

See, in preceding sections, Abu Taleb, Badia, Hanway, and the several authors in Pinkerton's and other Collections.

There is a collection in Italian, by the brothers Zeni, Commentarii del Viaggio in Persia; Sestini's two Journeys, da Costantinopoli a Bassora, and Ritorno; the Travels of Mandelso to India from Persia, published by Olearius; Leandro's two Journeys to Persia and Mesopotamia (in Italian); Scott Waring's Tour to Sheeraz; Kotzebue's Voyage en Perse; Morier's two Journeys; Sir R. K. Porter's Travels in Georgia, Persia, and Armenia; Fraser's Khorasan; and especially the old book of Chardin; all of which are of value. Le Bruyn (already mentioned) gives excellent views of the cities and general face of the country. His account of Persepolis is good.

Woodward: Narrative of Himself and Four Seamen, Prisoners to the Malays of Celebes. London, 1805. 8vo.

There are two collections of some importance—of Valentyn, Travels to the East Indies (in Dutch), 5 vols. in 8, folio; and the Recueil des Voyages qui ont servi à l'établissement, &c., de la Compagnie des Indes, Amsterdam, 1754, 7 in 12 vols. 12mo. Hamilton's Description of Hindostan; Malcolm's Central India; Marsden's Sumatra; Rennel's Memoir on the Map of Hindostan; Seely's Wonders of Elora; Cox's Residence in the Burman Empire; Turner's Account of the Embassy to the Court of Thibet; Dellon, Voyage aux Indes Orientales; the Voyages dans les Indes Or. par les Missionaires Danois (Lausanne, 1772, 2 vols. 8vo); Barrow's Voyage to Cochin China, are all of acknowledged merit. The Asiatic Researches contain much important information as to the geography, antiquities, literature, &c., of Hindostan in particular.

CHAPTER XXVII.

GEOGRAPHY. Asia. Travels in China and Japan.

Abeel, David: Journal of a Residence in China and the neighbouring Countries, in 1829-33. 12mo.

Anderson: Narrative of the British Embassy to China, in 1792, 3, 4. London, 1796. 8vo.

Lord Macartney's Embassy; of which Sir G. Staunton has given a far better history. The best editions are London, 1797. 2 vols. 4to., with Atlas folio; and 1802. 3 vols. 8vo. Of the Embassy of Lord Amherst, Ellis has given the account. London, 1817, 4to; 1818, 2 vols. 8vo.

Grosier: Description of China. London, 1788. 2 vols. 8vo.

Gutzlaff: Journal of two Voyages along the Coast of China, in 1831, 2.

Hall, Basil: Voyage to the Western Coast of Corea and Loo Choo. Philadelphia, 1818. 8vo.

M'Leod: Voyage of the Alceste to China, Corea, and Loo Choo; with her Shipwreck. London, 1819. 8vo.

Mason, G. H.: Costumes of China. London, 1800. 4to.

White: History of a Voyage to the China Sea. Boston, 1826. 8vo.

Wood: Sketches of China, with Drawings. Philadelphia, 1830. 12mo.

Of China, Du Halde's able and learned book is the great general source of information. There is an English translation. London, 1738. 2 vols. folio. Van Braam's History of the Dutch Embassy; the Travels of the Jesuits in China; Timkowski's Russian Embassy; Nieuhoff's Ambassade vers l'Empereur de la Chine—are the further books of authority. As to Japan, Kæmpfer's History translated (London, 1728, 2 vols. folio) is almost the only book of importance. The Embassade de la Compagnie des Indes vers l'Empereur du Japon; Thunberg's Voyage au Japon; and Golovnin's Voyage chez les Japonois en 1811–13, are, with Titsingh's Illustrations of Japan (London, 1822, 4to), all that are worth mention.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

GEOGRAPHY. Asia. Travels in Tartary, Siberia, and Kamschatka.

Russia and Siberian Tartary. Vols. 36, 37, Constable's Miscellany, Polygraphs.

The Voyage en Sibérie of Gmelin (Paris, 1767. 2 vols. 12mo); Chappe d'Auteroche's Voyage en Sibérie (Paris, 1768. 3 vols. 4to., and Atlas, folio); with Patrin's Voyage au Mont d'Altaice (St. Petersburg, 1788. 8vo), and the Voyages of Lesseps, of Benyowsky, Timkowsky, Humboldt, and Pallas, are all, of any note, that relate to this region.

CHAPTER XXIX.

GEOGRAPHY. Australia and Polynesia.

Beechey, Captain: Voyage to the Pacific. Philadelphia, 1832. 8vo.

Burney: Chronological History of the Discoveries in the Pacific Ocean, from 1579 to 1723; with Charts. London, 1803. 4 vols. 4to.

Collins: Account of the English Colony of New South Wales, from its first Settlement, in 1788, to 1801. London, 1804. 4to.

Ellis, William: Polynesian Researches. London, 1831. 4 vols. 12mo.

Keate: Account of the Pelew Islands, from the Journal of Captain Wilson. London, 1788. 4to.

Kotzebue: Voyage of Discovery in the South Sea and to Behring's Straits, in 1815–18. London, 1821. 8vo.

Lang: Account of New South Wales. London, 1834. 2 vols. 8vo.

Martin: Mariner's Account of the Tonga Islands. Boston, 1820. 8vo.

See also vols. 13, 14 of Constable's Miscellany, Polygraphs.

Missionary Voyage of the Ship Duff to the South Pacific, in 1796–8. London, 1799. 4to.

This is attributed to Wilson, captain of the Duff.

Nicholas: Narrative of a Voyage to New Zealand, in 1814, 15. London, 1827. 2 vols. 8vo.

Paulding, Lieut.: Journal of a Cruise in the U. S. Schooner Dolphin among the Islands of the Pacific. New-York, 1831. 12mo.

Pitcairn's Island, Description of: with an Account of the Mutiny of the Ship Bounty. (Harpers' Family Library.) New-York, 1832. 18mo.

Porter, Commodore: Journal of a Cruise to the Pacific in the U. S. Frigate Essex, in 1812–14. New-York, 1822. 2 vols. 8vo.

Smith: Journal of a Missionary Voyage in the Ship Duff, in 1796–1802: with an Account of the Disasters of the first Effort of the London Missionary Society. New-York, 1818. 12mo.

See "Missionary Voyage," above.

South Sea Islander: Containing many interesting Facts as to the State of Otaheite, with Remarks on the best Mode of Civilizing the Heathen. New-York, 1820. 12mo.

A similar book has been written by the Abbé Dubois on the State of India.

Stewart, C. S.: Voyage to the Pacific Ocean, and Residence in the Sandwich Islands, in 1822–5. New-York, 1828. 12mo.

———: Visit to the South Seas in the U. S. Ship Vincennes, in 1829, 30. New-York, 1831. 2 vols. 12mo.

Three years in the Pacific. New-York, 1833. 8vo.

Tyerman and Bennet: Journal of Voyages and Travels in the South Sea Islands, China, India, &c., in 1821–9, by the Deputies of the London Missionary Society. Compiled by James Montgomery. Boston, 1832. 3 vols. 12mo.

Burney's excellent collection had been preceded by the imperfect one of Dalrymple, London, 1770, 1. 2 vols. 4to. Philips's Voyage to Botany Bay; Bligh's Voyage of the Bounty; Cunningham's Two Years in New South Wales; Kerguelen's Relation de deux Voyages dans les mers Australes; Peron's Voyage de Découvertes dans les terres Australes; Fleurieu's Découvertes des Français dans la Nouvelle Guineé; and the excellent work of Freycinet, his Voyage de Découverte aux terres Australes, Paris, 1807, 3 vols. 4to, and Atlas, folio, are the further books worthy to be mentioned and possessed.

CHAPTER XXX.

GEOGRAPHY. Africa. Travels in Several Parts.

Denham and Clapperton: Travels and Discoveries in Northern and Central Africa, in 1822–4. Boston, 1826. 8vo.

Murray, Hugh: Historical Account of Discoveries and Travels in Africa; by the late John Leyden, M.D., enlarged and completed to the Present Time, with Illustrations of its Geography and Natural History, as well as of the Moral and Social Condition of its Inhabitants. Edinburgh, 1817. 2 vols. 8vo.

Narrative of Discovery and Adventure in Africa, from the Earliest Ages to the Present Time. (Family Library.) New-York, 1831. 18mo.

Owen: Voyages to Explore the Shores of Africa, Arabia, and Madagascar. 2 vols. 12mo.

There are two important Arabian writers: Abulfeda's Description of Africa, and Edrisi's. But they are untranslated, except the latter, into Latin. Shaw's travels concern only Egypt and Northern Africa; but contain a translation of the geography of Africa, as known to the ancients, from Ptolemy, Pliny, &c. Bruce belongs chiefly to Abyssinia and Park to Central Africa; but are indispensable to a collection. Of the former, the Edinburgh edition of Alexander Murray, 1805, 7 vols. 8vo, and plates 4to, is the best. See also, in Biography, Sparks's Life of Ledyard; of whose attempts an account is found in the Proceedings of the African Association, London, 1790, 4to. See further details in the next sections.

CHAPTER XXXI.

GEOGRAPHY. Africa. Travels in Egypt, Nubia, and Abyssinia.

Belzoni: Narrative of the Operations and Discoveries within the Pyramids, Temples, Tombs, &c., in Egypt and Nubia; with a Journey to the Coast of the Red Sea in search of the Ancient Berenice, and another to the Oasis of Jupiter Ammon. London, 1822. 2 vols. 8vo.

Denon: Travels in Upper and Lower Egypt with the Army of General Bonaparte. London, 1803. 3 vols. 8vo.

Minutoli, Baroness Von: Recollections of Egypt. Philadelphia, 1827. 12mo.

Russel, Michael: View of Ancient and Modern Egypt. (Family Library.) New-York, 1831. 18mo.

———: Nubia and Abyssinia. (Family Library.) New-York, 1835. 18mo.

Salt, Henry: Voyage to Abyssinia, and Travels in its Interior, in 1809, 10. Philadelphia, 1816. 8vo.

———: The same. London, 1814. 4to.

Savary: Letters on Egypt. London, 1799. 2 vols. 8vo.

Sonnini: Travels in Upper and Lower Egypt. London, 1799. 3 vols. 8vo.

White: Ægyptiaca. Oxford, 1801. 4to.

There is a sequel.

Besides Belzoni and Denon's books (the latter in 2 vols. folio, in the French edition, with plates), the expedition of Bonaparte produced the magnificent literary result of the imperial publication, known as the Description de l'Egypte, Paris, 1709–18, 9 vols. folio, and Atlas—a work costing 3600 francs. Norden's old book is more expensive than useful. Volney's Travels in Syria and Egypt; Horneman's Travels; Leigh's Travels up the Nile; D'Anville's Mémoire sur l'Egypte; The Ægyptiaca of White and of Hamilton; Quatremere's Mémoires Géographiques et Historiques sur l'Egypte, are of admitted value. There are two good Arabian accounts, that of Abulfeda, published at Gottingen, 1776, in 8vo, Arabic and Latin, and the Compendium of Abdollatif, translated in the second part of White's Ægyptiaca. De Sacy has given a French version. Of the Abyssinian regions, Ludulf, Lobo (translated by Dr. Johnson, whence his Rasselas), Tellez, Alvarez, Poncet, and Pearce formed, before Bruce, nearly all that was known.

CHAPTER XXXII.

GEOGRAPHY. Africa. Travels in Northern Africa.

Barton, Lord Percival: Algiers; with Notes of the Neighbouring States of Barbary. London, 1835. 2 vols. 12mo.

Campbell, Thomas: Letters from the South, during a Visit to Algiers. Philadelphia, 1836. 12mo.

Foss: Journal of his Captivity during Several Years at Algiers. 12mo.

Glass, George: History of the Discovery of the Canary Islands, &c. London, 1764. 4to.

This is said to be translated from a Spanish MS. found in the Isle of Palms. There is, by Bory Saint Vincent, an Essai sur les Isles Fortunées et l'Antique Atlantide. Paris, 1803. 4to; and Bailly's learned but fanciful Recherches, sur l'Atlantide.

Jackson: Account of the Empire of Morocco, of Suse, and of Timbuctoo. Philadelphia, 1810. 12mo.

Noah: See his Travels in Travels in Europe and Africa.

Paddock: Narrative of the Shipwreck of the Oswego, on the Coast of Barbary, &c. New-York, 1818. 8vo.

Russell: Present Condition of the Barbary States, &c. (Family Library.) New-York, 1835. 18mo.

Shaler: Sketches of Algiers. Boston, 1826. 8vo.

Webster, W.: Description of the Island of St. Michael; with Remarks on the other Azores. Boston, 1821. 8vo.

Shaw has been already referred to; the edition, Oxford, 1738, 2 vols. folio, with copious illustrations in antiquities, natural history, &c. The old description of Leo Africanus (one of the earliest of modern travellers in Africa) is often cited. There is a pretty little Elzevir Edition, Latiné. The Voyages of Fathers Cromelin and Philemon (French); of Poiret; of Brooks; of Lempriere, and of M'Carthy; Chenier's History of Morocco; Laugier de Tassy's Histoire Générale du royaume d'Alger; Rehbinder's Nachrichten und Bemerkungen ueber den Algierschen Staat; and Pananti's Aventure ed Osservazione sopra la costa di Barbaria, are worthy of note; and, for the period since the French occupation of Algiers, Rozet's Voyage dans la Régence d'Algers.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

GEOGRAPHY. Africa. Travels in Central and Southern.

Adams, Robert: Narrative of his Shipwreck on the Western Coast of Africa, in 1810. Boston, 1817. 8vo.

Barrow: Travels in South Africa. New-York, 1802. 8vo.

Bonaparte: Voyage to St. Helena. Boston, 1833. 12mo.

Caille: Travels through Central Africa to Timbucto, in 1824–8. London, 1830. 2 vols. 8vo.

Campbell: Travels in South Africa. Andover, 1816. 8vo.

Kay: Travels and Researches in Caffraria. New-York, 1834. 12mo.

Laing: Travels in Western Africa. London, 1825. 8vo.

Lander: Journal of an Expedition to Explore the Source of the Niger. (Family Library.) New-York, 1832. 2 vols. 18mo.

Park, Mungo: Travels in Interior Africa, in 1795–7. New-York, 1813. 12mo.

———: The same. 8vo.

The London edition of 1815, 2 vols. 4to, contains his journey of 1805. It has, besides, Illustrations of the Geography of Africa, by Major Rennell.

Philips: Researches in South Africa. London, 1828. 2 vols. 8vo.

Pringle: Narrative of a Residence in South Africa. London, 1835. 12mo.

Riley: Narrative of the Loss of the Brig Commerce on the Western Coast of Africa, in 1815; with an Account of the Sufferings of her Crew, &c. New-York, 1818. 8vo.

Capt. Riley is said to be a lineal descendant of Capt. Lemuel Gulliver; but not so good a writer.

State of the Cape of Good Hope. London, 1823. 8vo.

Steedman, Andrew: Wanderings and Adventures in the Interior of Southern Africa. London, 1835. 2 vols. 8vo.

Tuckey: Narrative of an Expedition to Explore the River Zaire or Congo, in 1816. New-York, 1818. 8vo.

See also, for the Hottentots, Sparman, already mentioned, and Langsdorff.

Vaillant's two journeys (Travels in the Interior of Africa. London, 1796. 2 vols. 8vo, and the Sequel. London, 1796. 3 vols. 8vo) are very good. The forged travels of Damberger may be here mentioned, that they may be avoided. Rochon's Voyage to Madagascar; Grant's History of Mauritius; Bory de Saint-Vincent's Voyage dans les Quatre Principales Isles des mers d'Afrique; Bernardin de St. Pierre's Voyage à l'Isle de France; and Alberti's Description Physique et Historique des Cafres, are the further books of repute.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

GEOGRAPHY. America. Travels in Either America.

Alexander, Capt. J. E.: Transatlantic Sketches; North and South America; and the West Indies; with Notes on Negro Slavery and Canadian Emigration. Philadelphia, 1833. 8vo.

Amérique Septentrionale et Méridionale; une Descriptione, &c. Paris, 1835. 8vo.

Gage: Travels in the West Indies and South America. London, 1699. 12mo.

Gordon: History of the Spanish Discoveries in America. Philadelphia, 1831. 2 vols. 12mo.

Hall, Basil: Extracts from Journal written on the Coasts of Chili, Peru, and Mexico, in 1820–22. Philadelphia, 1824. 2 vols. 12mo.

Humboldt: Personal Narrative of Travels to the Equinoctial Regions of America, in 1789–1804. London, 1822. 7 vols. 8vo.

See an abridgment of it in Travels in America and Asia. We owe to him the best researches in the languages, mineralogy, and antiquities of America.

M'Kenzie: View of the United States, Canada, Mexico, and South America. Newcastle, 1819. 8vo.

Pinkerton: Collection of Voyages and Travels in Various Parts of America. Philadelphia, 1811. 4 vols. 4to.

For books relating to America generally, consult Rich's two excellent catalogues—his "Catalogue of Books relating principally to America" (London, 1832, 8vo), which comes down to the year 1600, and his "Bibliotheca Americana Nova" (London, 1835, 8vo), which extends from the previous date to 1800.

The following tracts as to Columbus do not come within his enumeration: Galeani Napioni, Della patria di Cristoforo Colombo. Florence, 1808. 8vo. Idem, Del primo Scopritore del Continente del Nuovo Mondo. Florence, 1809, 8vo. There is a curious original Life of Columbus, with which Mr. Irving does not appear to be acquainted: that found in a long note (about eight pages 8vo), in Giustiniani's Trilingual Psalter, published at Genoa, in 1516. It is introduced in comment upon the 4th verse of the 19th Psalm; which it says he habitually appealed to, as a prophecy of his undertaking. Beloe has given the entire note in his Anecdotes of Literature.

Of Amerigo Vespucci, the letters and life were published by Bandini, Florence, 1745, sm. 4to. They are far from sustaining his claim to the discovery of the Continent.

Alcedo's Diccionario Geografico de las Indias Occidentales is a main general authority.

Abbot's Letters from Cuba; Bellin's Description Géographique des Isles Antilles; Bryan Edwards's and Beckford's Descriptions of Jamaica; Moreau de Saint Méry's Description de la Partie Française de St. Domingue; the same, Description de la Partie Espagnole; Wimpfen's St. Domingo; Bryan Edwards's Historical Survey of St. Domingo; Rainsford's Account of the Black Empire of Hayti; Sotomayor's Historia Geografica, &c., de Puerto Rico; and Poyer's History of Barbados, would give a proper collection in this department.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

GEOGRAPHY. America. Travels in South.

Andrews: Journey from Buenos Ayres through Cordova, Tucuman, and Salta, to Potosi: thence by the Desert of Caranja to Arrica, Santiago de Chile, and Coquimbo: on behalf of the Chilian and Peruvian Mining Association, in 1825, 6. London, 1820. 2 vols. 12mo.

Bingley: Travels in South America. London, 1820. 12mo.

Breckenridge: Voyage to South America. Baltimore, 1819. 2 vols. 8vo.

Depon: Voyage to the Eastern Part of Terra Firma. New-York, 1806. 3 vols. 8vo.

Dobrizzhoffer, Martin: An Account of the Abipones, an Equestrian People of Paraguay. Translated from the Latin. London, 1822. 3 vols. 8vo.

Dobrizzhoffer resided for eighteen years as a missionary among the remarkable people of whom he has left us so curious a description. They are really the mythological tale of the Centaurs realized.

Helms: Travels from Buenos Ayres, by Potosi, to Lima. London, 1807. 12mo.

Head: Journey across the Pampas and Andes. Boston, 1827. 12mo.

Hippisley: Narrative of Expedition to the Rivers Orinoco and Apure. London, 1819. 8vo.

Koster: Travels in Brazil. London, 1817. 2 vols. 8vo.

Pazo: Letters on the United Provinces of South America. London, 1819. 8vo.

Renger and Longchamps: Reign of Dr. Francia in Paraguay, being an Account of Six Years' Residence there, in 1819–25. From the French. London, 1827. 8vo.

Robinson: Expedition 1400 miles up the Orinoco and 300 up the Aranca. London, 1822. 8vo.

Smyth, W. L.: Journey from Lima to Para across the Andes and down the Amazon, to ascertain the Practicability of a Navigable Communication, &c. London, 1836. 8vo.

Temple: Travels in Peru. London, 1830. 2 vols. 8vo.

———: The same. Philadelphia, 1833. 2 vols. 12mo.

Alcedo is already referred to for the geography of Spanish America. Acuña's Nuevo descubriemento del Gran Rio de las Amazones; Gumilla's Orenoco illustrado; and his Historia de las Naciones del Orenoco; Caulin's Historia Corografica de la Nueva Andalucia; Father Charlevoix' Histoire du Paraguay; Lafitau's Histoire des Découvertes des Portugais dans le Nouveau Monde; Ayres de Cazul's Geografia Brazilica; Bellin's Description Géographique de la Guyane; and Fermin's Description Générale de la Colonie de Surinam, would render tolerably complete the survey of the countries belonging to this chapter.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

GEOGRAPHY. Polar. Travels towards either Pole.

Back, Capt.: Narrative of the Arctic Land Expedition to the Mouth of the Great Fish River, &c., in the years 1833, 4, 5. Philadelphia, 1836. 8vo.

Beaufoy's North Pole. New-York, 1818. 8vo.

Franklin: Second Expedition to the Shores of the Polar Sea, in 1825, 6, 7. Philadelphia, 1828. 8vo.

———: The same, London, 1829. 4 vols. 12mo.

Lyon: Private Journal during Parry's Voyage. Boston, 1824. 12mo.

O'Reilly: Greenland, the adjacent Seas, and the Northwest Passage illustrated in a Voyage to Davis's Straits, in 1817. New-York, 1818. 8vo.

Parry: Journal of a Voyage for the Discovery of a Northwest Passage, in 1819, 20. Philadelphia, 1821. 8vo.

———: Second Voyage, in 1821–3. New-York, 1824. 8vo.

———: Third Voyage, in 1824, 5. Philadelphia, 1826. 8vo.

Polar Seas and Regions: Narrative of Discovery and Adventure in, with Illustrations of their Natural History, and an Account of the Whale Fishery. (Family Library.) New-York, 1831. 18mo.

Ross, Sir J.: Second Voyage in search of a Northwest Passage, 1829, 30, 1, 2, 3. Philadelphia, 1835. 8vo.

Supplement to the "Second Voyage," &c., of Sir J. Ross; containing the suppressed Facts, &c. By J. Braithwaite. London, 1835. 4to.

Snelling: Polar Regions of the Western Continent Explored. Boston, 1831. 8vo.

Tytler: Historical View of the Progress of Discovery on the more Northern Coast of America. (Family Library.) New-York, 1833. 18mo.

The last book may be consulted for the names and voyages of the chief Arctic discoverers; and that entitled "Polar Regions" for those of the opposite hemisphere. There are also the following collections: Recueil de Voyages au Nord. Amsterdam, 1731. 10 vols. 12mo. Nouveau Recueil de Voyages au Nord de l'Europe et de l'Asie. Geneva, 1783. 3 vols. 4to. Coxe, Account of the Russian Discoveries between Asia and America. London, 1804. 4to. Muller, Voyages in Search of a Northeast Passage.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

CIVIL HISTORY. Chronology.

Lavoisne: Atlas, Chronological, &c. See Maps.

Nicholas, Sir Harris: Chronology of History (forming part of Lardner's Cabinet Cyclopædia.) London, 1833. 12mo.

Putnam, George P.: Chronology, or an Introduction and Index to Universal History, Biography, and Useful Knowledge, from the Earliest Period to the Present Time: with copious Lists of Remarkable Persons, &c.: to which are added Valpy's Poetical Retrospect, Literary Chronology, the latest Statistical Views of the World, and a Chart of History. New-York, 1833. 12mo.

The author of this useful little compilation was lately librarian to this institution.

Salmon, Thomas the younger: The Chronological Historian; containing a regular Account of all Material Transactions and Occurrences, Ecclesiastical, Civil, and Military, relating to English Affairs, from the Invasion of the Romans to the Present Time. London, 1723. 8vo.

Tegg: A Dictionary of Chronology, &c. London, 1835. 12mo.

Toone, Wm.: The Chronological Historian, or a Record of Public Events, Historical, Political, Biographical, Literary, &c.; principally illustrative of the Ecclesiastical, Civil, Naval, and Military History of Great Britain and its Dependances, from the Invasion of Julius Cæsar to the Present Time. London, 1828. 2 vols. 8vo.

*Worcester: Historical Atlas, containing Charts of History, Ancient and Modern, Chronology of European Sovereigns, of Biography, Mythology, and Chronological and Historical Charts of England, France, and America. Folio.

Eusebius, or rather Julius Africanus, whose fragments he preserves, may be said to be the earliest chronological writer. Scaliger led the way among modern chronologists, by his De Emendatione Temporum. Geneva, 1629. folio. Labbe's laborious work—Chronologia Technica et Historica—came some time after. Paris, 1670. 5 vols. folio. Newton gave his Chronology of Ancient Kingdoms. London, 1728. 4to. The Benedictine System—the best and exactest of all—L'Art de Vérifier les Dates, came out, in the completest edition, Paris, 1818–20, in 23 vols. 8vo. It is the joint labour of Dom Maurice d'Antine, Dom Clémencet, Dom Durand, and Dom Clément. The chronology of certain kingdoms and nations has been treated by the following more distinguished authors. Marsham, Chronicus, Canon Ægyptiacus, Hebraicus, &c. Dodwell, De Veteribus Græcorum Romanorumque Cyclis—Corsini, Fasti Attici—Idem, Dissertationes IV. agonisticæ—Usher, De Vetere anno Macedonum et Asianorum Solari. The Fasti Hellenici of Clinton, London, 1824 and 1835, 2 vols. 4to, has a just repute. Boyle's Universal Chronologist, London, 1826, 8vo, is useful for common purposes. Blair's and Playfair's Historical Tables, and Bredow's (translated by Bell), deserve to be mentioned.

CHAPTER XL.

UNIVERSAL HISTORY. Ancient and Modern.

*Anquetil, M.: Summary of Universal History, exhibiting the Rise, Decline, and Revolutions of the different Nations of the World, from the Creation to the Present Time. Philadelphia, 1806. 9 vols. 8vo.

Bigland: View of the World, Geographical and Historical. See it in Systems of Geography.

Bossuet, M.: Universal History from the Beginning of the World to the Empire of Charlemagne, translated from the 13th edition of the Original, by Elphinstone. New-York, 1821. 12mo.

The "Essais sur les Mœurs" of Voltaire are a continuation of this eloquent book; but upon an opposite spirit, of referring events to human causes.

Butler, Frederick: Sketches of Universal History, Sacred and Profane, from the Creation of the World to the Year 1818 of the Christian Era, in three Parts, with an Appendix, and a Chronological Table of Contents. Hartford, 1821. 12mo.

Ferguson: An Essay on the History of Civil Society. Philadelphia, 1819. 8vo.

Historical Letters, originally written and published in the Virginia Argus, including a Brief but General View of the History of the World, Civil, Military, and Religious, from the Earliest Times to the Year 1811. Richmond, 1812. 12mo.

Hooke, N.: Historical Pocket Library, containing, 1st, Heathen Mythology; 2d, Ancient History; 3d, Grecian History; 4th, Roman History; 5th, History of England. Boston, 1818. 5 vols. 12mo.

Mavor, William: Universal History, Ancient and Modern, from the Earliest Record of Time to the General Peace of 1801. New-York, 1804. 25 vols. 12mo.

Millot, Abbé: Elements of General History, Ancient and Modern, translated from the French. Salem, 1796. 5 vols. 8vo.

Muller, John Van: Universal History. Boston, 1831. 4 vols. 12mo.

Priestley, Joseph: Lectures on History and General Policy, to which are prefixed an Essay upon a Course of Liberal Education for Civil and Active Life, and an Additional Lecture on the Constitution of the United States, the whole corrected, and improved, and enlarged, with a Chart of History and a Chart of Biography. Philadelphia, 1803. 2 vols. 8vo.

Raleigh, Sir Walter: History of the World. London, folio.

———: The same. Edinburgh, 1820. 6 vols. 8vo.

This is universally esteemed as a very noble piece of learning and eloquence. See Note, at his Life. Biography.

Robbins, Royal: Outlines of Ancient and Modern History. Hartford, 1830. 12mo.

Ross, Alexander: Continuation of Sir Walter Raleigh's History of the World to 1640. London, 1652. Folio.

This is that very various, busy, voluminous writer, of whom it is spoken in Hudibras:

"There was an ancient, sage philosopher,
That had read Alexander Ross over."

The like feat is by no means to be recommended as to his attempt to complete Sir Walter Raleigh, of whom he is but a sad continuator; in such sort, that Granger very justly compares his sequel to a piece of bad Gothic tacked to a magnificent pile of Roman architecture.

Whelpley, Samuel: Compend of History from the Earliest Times, comprehending a General View of the Present State of the World with respect to Civilization, Religion, and Government, and a brief Dissertation on the Importance of Historical Knowledge. Philadelphia, 1808. 12mo.

Worcester, J. E.: Elements of History, Ancient and Modern, with an Historical Chart. Boston, 12mo.

The two last, Robbins, the Historical Letters, and Butler, are spiritless and tasteless compends of what cannot be learned by compend.

The most esteemed Universal History is that executed by Sale, Psalmanazar, and others. London, 1747–65. 67 vols. 8vo. This edition is preferred to the folio one.

CHAPTER XLI.

ANCIENT HISTORY. General.

Cory, Isaac P.: Ancient Fragments of the Phœnician, Chaldæan, Egyptian, Tyrian, Charthaginian, Indian, Persian, and other Writers; with an introductory Dissertation, and an Inquiry into the Philosophy and Trinity of the Ancients. London, 1832. 8vo.

Contains the genuine fragments (not Annius of Viterbo's) of Manetho, Sanconiathon, Berosus, Ctesias, &c., translated. The rest is formed out of passages concinnated from the ancient writers.

Heeren, A. H. L.: History of the States of Antiquity. Northampton, Mass., 1828. 8vo.

A judicious manual; containing a good survey of the sources from which a knowledge of ancient history is to be drawn.

———: Historical researches into the Politics, Intercourse, and Trade of the Principal Nations of Antiquity. Oxford, 1832. 5 vols. 8vo.

This is a translation of his "Ideen;" out of which the preceding manual is extracted.

———: Reflections on the Politics of Ancient Greece. See Politics.

See, also, Herman's Manual of Political Antiquities of Greece.

Histoire Ancienne abrégée, à l'Usage de l'École Royale Militaire. Brussels, 1833. 12mo.

Plutarch: Lives of Greeks and Romans. See the original in his works, among Polygraphs; and the translation, in Biography.

Polybius's General History, translated by James Hampton. Oxford, 1823. 2 vols. 8vo.

Rollin, Charles: Ancient History of the Egyptians, Carthaginians, Assyrians, Babylonians, Medes and Persians, Grecians and Macedonians. London, 1817. 8 vols. 8vo.

————: The same. New-York, 1824. 8 vols. 12mo.

————: The same. New-York, 1828. 4 vols. 8vo.

————: History of the Arts and Sciences of the Ancients. With Notes and Suppliments by James Bell. Glasgow, 1832. 8vo.

This is the complement to his history, found in all the French editions, down to that of Letronne, in 1823. It has been heretofore omitted in all the English editions except the first, and all the American ones except the last—that of Harper and Brothers, 1837. 2 vols. 8vo. It forms, nevertheless, a very important and agreeable part of his work.

Russell, William: History of Ancient Europe, with a View of the Revolutions in Asia and Africa. Philadelphia, 1811. 2 vols. 8vo.

Sabbathier: Institutions, Manners, and Customs of the Ancient Nations. Translated by P. Stockdale. London, 1776. 8vo.

CHAPTER XLII.

HISTORY. Ancient States. Greece.

Arrian: Expedition of Alexander. Translated by J. Rooke. London, 1814. 2 vols. 8vo.

It contains, also, his "Indica" and Le Clerc's Criticism on Quintus Curtius. The version and notes are both much esteemed. See Williams, below.

Barthelemi, I. I.: Travels of Anacharsis the Younger in Greece. London, 1796. 4 vols. 8vo.

The introduction forms an excellent abridgment of Greek history to the time of Philip of Macedon. The maps annexed to the work were expressly prepared for it by Barbié du Bocage, and are highly esteemed. The views of Grecian art and science, the account of the philosophic sects, of music, dramatic art, poetry, and of nearly every part of the Greek manners or institutions, are much admired.

Bulwer: Athens: Its Rise and Fall, &c. New-York, 1837. 2 vols. 12mo.

On the whole, a good and clever book.

Compendio de la Historia Griega, traducido del Ingles de Goldsmith. Paris, 1825. 2 vols. 12mo.

ΕΠΙΤΟΜΗ ΙΣΤΟΡΙΑΣ ΤΗΣ ΕΛΛΑΔΟΣ. Venice, 1807. 8vo.

Frost, John: History of Ancient and Modern Greece, with Maps and Engravings. Boston, 1831. 8vo.

Gillies, John: History of Ancient and Modern Greece. Philadelphia, 1832. New-York, 1814. 4 vols. 8vo.

A good and rather agreeable book, written upon republican views; to which Mitford's (below) was written in an opposite sense. G's history closes with Alexander. From this point he continues it in a separate book—his History of the World.

Heeren: History of Modern Greece, with a View of the Geography, Antiquities, and Present Condition of that Country, from the London Edition, with a Continuation to the Present Time. Boston, 1827. 8vo.

———: Reflections on the Politics of Ancient Greece. Boston, 1824. 8vo.

Hermann, Charles: Manual of the Political Antiquities of Greece, Historically considered. From the German. Oxford, 1836. 8vo.

Herodoti Halicarnassei, Historiarum Libri novem, Græcé. Leipsic, 1819. 8vo.

———: The same, translated, with Notes. By W. Beloe. London, 1791. 4 vols. 8vo.

An approved translation, with useful notes. There are many commentaries; among which those of Valcknaer and Larcher are most esteemed. The latter has been printed apart from the text. London, 1820. 2 vols. 8vo. It has many geographic elucidations. Rennel and Niebuhr have also written in illustration of his geographical system; the former copiously.

Hooke, N.: History of Greece from the Earliest Times to its final Subjection to Rome. London, 1829. 8vo.

Howe, Samuel: An Historical Sketch of the Greek Revolution. New-York, 1828. 8vo.

Mengou: Narrative of a Greek Soldier. See Biography.

Miller: Condition of Greece, in 1827, 8. New-York, 1828. 12mo.

Mitford, William: History of Greece. Boston, 1823. 8 vols. 8vo.

Written upon violent anti-republican notions; and much praised by Lord Byron for its partiality: a praise (if it be such) which it richly deserves; for his partialities are everywhere enlisted against the Greeks, simply because theirs were not monarchical states. His book may, indeed, be said to be devoted to the idle thesis, that states which rose, under a certain form of government, to a height of glory and power so remarkable in proportion to their size—in which arms, freedom, and the arts all flourished so incomparably—would have done better to take a differently settled polity.

ΠΑΥΣΑΝΙΟΥ ΕΛΛΑΔΟΣ ΠΕΡΙΗΓΗΣΙΣ. Græcé. Lipsiæ.

———: The same, translated from the Greek, with Notes, in which much of the Mythology of the Greeks is unfolded, from a Theory which has been for many Ages unknown. With Maps and Views. London, 1724. 3 vols. 8vo.

Of the original, the best editions are those of Siebelis, Leipsig, 1822–8, 5 vols. 8vo; of Facius, Leipsig, 1794–7, 4 vols. 8vo; and of Clavier, Paris, 1814–20, 8vo, completed by Courier and Corai. The latter has the advantage of an esteemed French version. Pausanias is already given, in Geography, Greece; but is also of much historical importance; and contains, too, very copious notices as to Greek art and mythology.

Thirlwall, Connop: History of Greece (Lardner's Cabinet Cyclopædia.) London, 1835. 3 vols. 12mo.

Thucydides de bollo Peloponnesiaco Libri octo Græcé. Lipsiæ, 1820. sm. 8vo.

———: The same, translated by William Smith. Philadelphia, 1818. 2 vols. 8vo.

This is an esteemed translation. There is an old one by Hobbes, of Malmesbury, and a recent one, by Dr. Blomfield, with valuable notes. London, 1829. 3 vols. 8vo. Of the original, Bekker's is esteemed the best edition. Oxford, 1821. 4 vols. 8vo.

Thucydides is, in point of style and general manner, the admitted model of historical composition; an able politician and a finished orator. Though writing of events in which he took a conspicuous part, he is held signally impartial, and not less exact than well-informed.

Goldsmith, Dr. Oliver: Grecian History, from the Earliest Times to the Death of Alexander the Great. Revised by W. Grimshaw. Philadelphia, 1823. 12mo.

This, from its posthumous publication, was long supposed the work of Goldsmith only in part. It is now known, however, to have been all his own, and its printing finished before his death.

Williams: Life of Alexander the Great. (Harpers' Family Library.) New-York, 1830. 18mo.

The excellent and copious book of St. Croix, Examen des Historiens d'Alexandre le Grand, has been translated by Sir Richard Clayton, Bath, 1793, 4to. See Arrian, above. The main further sources of information are Plutarch and Quintus Curtius. The latter is not worthy to be depended upon.

Xenophon: See his Hellenica, in his Works (Græcé), among Polygraphs.

This has been translated by Spelman, London, 1770, 4to.

———: Anabasis. See his Works as before.

———: The same, translated by Spelman; with his Cyropædia. (Harpers' Family Classical Library.) 2 vols. 18mo. 1831.

Rennel has given illustrations of the Anabasis, London, 1816, 4to.

The following are the further original sources of Grecian history. The fragments of Ctesias, Agatharchides, Memnon, &c., Græcè, by Stephanus, 1557, 8vo. Creuzer, Fragmenta Historicorum Græcorum. Heidelberg, 1806. 8vo. (It embraces Hecatæus Milesius, Charon Lampsacenus, Hellanicus Lesbius, &c.) Pherecydis Fragmenta. Gera, 1798. 8vo. Heraclidis Fragmenta. Halle, 1808. 8vo. Gemisthus Pletho. Leipsig, 1770. 8vo. Herodes Atticus. Œphori Cumæi Fragmenta, edente Marx. Carlsruhe, 1815. 8vo. Itinerarium Alexandri Magni, &c., à Maio. Milan, 1817. 8vo. Selecta principum Historicorum Græcorum, à Wyttenbachio. Amsterdam, 1794. 8vo. Diodorus Siculus, à Wesselingio. Amsterdam, 1746. 2 vols. folio. There is a good translation by Booth.

Of moderns, the following are the chief in esteem. Muller, History of the Dorians. Clavier, Histoire des premiers temps de la Grèce. De Pauw, Recherches sur les Grecs. Rabaut St. Etienne, Lettre à Bailly, sur l'Histoire primitive de la Grèce. Young, History of Athens. For the political divisions of Greece before Homer, Schlegel's De Gegeoraphia Homeri. There are various important tracts, in Gronovius's Thesaurus Antiquitatum Græcarum. On the Grecian confederations, there is a book by St. Croix, Les Gouvernemens Fédératifs de l'Antiquité, and another by Titman, Ueber der Bund den Amphicktyonen. For minuter details, consult the references in Heeren's Manual.

Appendix.

Lempriere: Classical Dictionary, a New Edition, with Additions, by Charles Anthon. New-York, 1812. 2 vols. 8vo.

Library of Entertaining Knowledge: Elgin and Phigaleian Marbles. London, 1833. 2 vols. 12mo.

Potter, John: Antiquities of Greece. New-York, 1825. 8vo.

Robinson, Rev. John: Antiquities of Greece. London, 1807. 8vo.

The great Collections of Gronovius and Polen; the Inscriptions of Gruter; Selden and Prideaux Marmora Arundeliana; Montfaucon's Antiquité Expliquée; the Dissertations of Hyde and Van Dale; with the works referred to in Mythology, Architecture, &c., are necessary.

CHAPTER XLIII.

HISTORY. Ancient States. Rome.

Cæsar: De Bello Gallico. New-York. 12mo.

Cæsar: Commentaries, translated into English, by William Duncan. (Family Library.) New-York, 1833. 2 vols. 18mo.

Of the original, Oudendorp's edition, Leyden, 1737, 2 vols. 4to, is the best.

Dionysius Hallicarnensis: Roman Antiquities. Translated, with Notes and Dissertations, by E. Spelman. London, 1758. 4 vols. 4to.

Of the original, Reiske's edition, Græco-latiné, Leipsig, 1774, 6 vols. 8vo, is the most esteemed. The translation of Spelman is good, and his notes upon this author—out of whom are drawn a large part of the corrections to Livy—are valuable.

Ferguson, Adam: History of the Progress and Termination of the Roman Republic. Philadelphia, 1805. 3 vols. 8vo.

Gibbon, Edward: History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. London, 1821. 12 vols. 8vo.

———: The same. Philadelphia, 1804. 8 vols. 8vo.

Goldsmith, Oliver: Abridged History of Rome. 12mo.

Hooke, N.: Roman History from the Building of Rome to the Ruin of the Commonwealth. With Maps and Engravings. London. 3 vols. 8vo.

Histoire Romaine abrégée, à l'Usage de l'Ecole Royale Militaire. Paris, 1819. 12mo.

Justin: Roman History. Translated (with the Latin text) by Clarke. London, 1780. 8vo.

He is the epitomator of the lost work of Trogus Pompeius. Of his text Gronovius's edition, Leyden, 1719, is perhaps the best.

Livy: History of Rome, translated by G. Baker, with Notes and Illustrations. Philadelphia, 1823. 6 vols. 8vo.

Of the original, Drackenborch's edition, Amsterdam, 1738–46, 7 vols. 4to, is the best. See Niebuhr, below; who is the great dissipator of Livy's beautiful and heroical fables. Also, the next article.

Machiavelli: Discorsi sopra Tito Livio. See his works, Polygraphs.

They are able and acute lectures on the character and policy of the Romans.

Middleton, Conyers: Life of Cicero. Boston, 1818. 3 vols. 8vo.

The passages of Cicero's own works, which afford the main materials for this excellent and polished piece of biography, had been collected in the almost forgotten books of Bellendenus, "De statu prisci orbis," and "De tribus luminibus Romanorum." Of the former, there has been a revival, since Middleton's time, in an edition by Doctor Samuel Parr, to which he gave a curious preface, remarkable at once for its elegant latinity and for its party violence. London, 1787. 8vo. Of the preface Beloe gave (anonymously) an English translation. London, 1788. 8vo.

Montesquieu, Baron de: Reflections on the Causes of the Rise and Fall of the Roman Empire, translated from the French. Glasgow, 1752. 12mo.

Niebuhr, B. G.: History of Rome. Cambridge, 1831. 2 vols. 8vo.

These form a learned and acute series of dissertations, rather than a history. Cluverius, Vico, Freret, De Pouilly, and Beaufort had advanced many of those opinions, which are regarded as novel in him; and Heyne showed him the way, as to the Agrarian Laws.

Rogers, Eliza: Lives of the Twelve Cæsars. London, 1811. 5 vols. 8vo.

Rollin: Histoire Romaine. Paris, 1816. 20 vols. 12mo.

Rollin, Charles: History of Rome, from its Foundation to the Battle of Actium, or the End of the Commonwealth. London, 1754. 16 vols. 8vo.

The first seven volumes only are Rollin's; the sixth and seventh being posthumous. The rest is by Crevier (the editor of Livy), whose "Histoire des Empereurs Romains" forms the sequel of Rollin. It has been translated by John Mill. Le Beau's "Historie du Bas Empire" is also employed to complete Rollin.

Sallust: Jugurthine War and Catalinarian Conspiracy. Translated by Henry Stewart. Philadelphia, 1824. 8vo.

Havercamp is usually esteemed the best editor of Sallust's text. Amsterdam. 1742. 2 vols. 4to. The handsome and well-edited little edition of Professor Anthon is the only respectable American one.

Sismondi, J. C. L. de: History of the Fall of the Roman Empire. Philadelphia, 1835. 8vo.

Tacitus: Works, with an Essay on his Life and Genius, by Arthur Murphy. New-York, 1822. 6 vols. 8vo.

The best, but a sufficiently lifeless translation. Nor can the versions in other languages, though attempted by Rousseau, D'Alembert, and other masters in style, be said to give the slightest image of his manner. Montesquieu, if he had deigned to translate, could perhaps have succeeded in rendering him with something of his own spirit. Of his text, Brotier is perhaps the best editor. Paris, 1771. 4 vols. 4to.

Vertot, Abbé: History of the Revolutions that happened in the Government of the Roman Republic. London, 1770. 2 vols. 8vo.

See also, in the preceding section, Polybius for a part of the transactions from the beginning of the second Punic War to the reduction of Macedon into a Roman province; and Plutarch for the lives of Roman kings and generals.

The following are the further original authors, in their better editions: Paterculus, Historia, à Ruhnken. Leyden, 1779. 2 vols. 8vo. Florus, Epitome; à Duker. Leyden, 1744. 2 vols. 8vo. Eutropius, Breviarium; à Sylburgio. Leyden, 1762. 8vo. Sextus Ruffus, Breviarium; à Cellario. Halle, 1698. 8vo. Aurelius Victor, Compendium; ab Arntzenio. Amsterdam, 1733. 4to. Appian, Historiæ; à Schweighæuser. Leipsig, 1785. 3 vols. 8vo. Suetonius, Duodecim Cæsares; à Crusio. Leipsig, 1816–18. 3 vols. 8vo. Dion Cassius, and Xiphilinus, Historiæ; à Fabricio. Hamburg, 1751. 2 vols. folio. Herodian, Historiæ; ab Irmisch. Leipsig, 1789. 5 vols. 8vo. Zozimus, Historia Nova; à Cellario. Jena, 1720. 8vo. Ammianus Marcellinus, à Wagner. Leipsig, 1808. 3 vols. 8vo. Historiæ Augustæ Scriptores sex. Paris, 1620.

folio. Cornelius Nepos, à Tzschuke. Gottingen, 1804. 2 vols. 8vo. Orosius, Historiæ; à Havercamp. Leyden, 1767. 4to. Valerius Maximus; à Torrenio. Leyden, 1726. 2 vols. 4to.

The modern authors we shall not attempt to enumerate; mentioning only here, for important researches in the early Roman history, Micali's Italia, avanti il Dominio de, Romani. Florence, 1810. 4 vols. 8vo, and atlas; and Beaufort's Incertitude des Cinq Premiers siècles de l'Histoire Romaine. Hague, 1750. 2 vols. in one, 8vo.

Appendix.

Adam, Alexander: Roman Antiquities, or an Account of the Manners and Customs of the Romans. New-York, 1814. 8vo.

———: The same, another copy.

Kennett, Basil: Romæ Antiquæ Notitia; or the Antiquities of Rome. To which are prefixed two Essays concerning the Roman Learning and the Roman Education. Edinburgh, 1812. 8vo.

———: The same. Philadelphia, 1822. 8vo.

Of everything relating to Roman Antiquities, their religious rites, laws, military system, household economy, food, drinks, dress, arms, amusements, &c., an ample body exists in the collection of Grævius, entitled Thesaurus Antiquitatum Romanarum. Utrecht, 1694–1709. 12 vols. folio, and its suppliments, Pitiscus, Lexicon Antiquitatum Romanarum, and Sallengre, Thesaurus. These, with Grævius, Polen, and Gruter, form the proper series of works in Roman and Greek antiquities. In illustration of Roman manners, Lockhart has written a novel, Valerius; Sismondi another, Julia Severa; and Bulwer, his Pompeii; Florian, his Numa Pompilius. Greek manners have, in the same way, been imbodied in Ramsay's Voyages du Jeune Cyrus; by Lantier, in his Voyages d'Antenor; and by Chaussard, in his Fêtes et Courtisanes de la Grèce.

CHAPTER XLIV.

ANCIENT HISTORY. Barbarian States.

Crichton, Andrew: History of Arabia, Ancient and Modern. (Harpers' Family Library.) New-York, 1834. 2 vols. 18mo.

Fraser: History of Persia. See it in Geography.

Josephus: Jewish Antiquities. Translated by W. Whiston. New-York, 1824. 6 vols. 12mo.

———: The same. Baltimore, 1830. 8vo.

Milman, Rev. H. H.: History of the Jews from the Earliest to the Present Time, with Maps and Engravings. (Harpers' Family Library.) 1830. 3 vols. 18mo.

Russell, Michael: View of Ancient and Modern Egypt. (Harpers' Family Library.) New-York, 1831. 18mo.

———: Palestine, or the Holy Land, from the Earliest Period to the Present Time. (Harpers' Family Library.) New-York, 1832. 18mo.

Ware: Letters of Lucius M. Piso, from Palmyra, to his Friend, Marcus Curtius, at Rome. New-York, 1837. 2 vols. 12mo.

A fictitious correspondence, describing the manners, &c., of ancient Palmyra.

Xenophon: Descent and Retreat of the Ten Thousand. See History of Greece.

See also, in Collections of Ancient History, Ancient Fragments of the Egyptian, Phœnician, and Persian historians; and the history of particular states, in Raleigh, Mavor, Rollin, Anquetil, &c. Of these, the best general body is found in Sale and Psalmanazar's Universal History, already mentioned. For the Jews, see further, in Ecclesiastical History, Prideaux and Shuckford. There is a copious and esteemed history, by Basnage, translated. London, 1708. Folio. Of the Arabians, their own historians, Abulfeda and Abulfarage, are the best. There are various partial translations into Latin and French. Of Egypt and Assyria, Perizonius, Reland, Drummond, D'Origny, De Pauw, Leprevoet d'Iray, Reynier, Champollion, and Ameilhon have written curiously and learnedly. The Researches of Heeren are important, as to all the African and Asiatic nations.

Appendix.

Brown, William: Antiquities of the Jews. Philadelphia, 1823. 2 vols. 8vo.

Lewis, Thomas: Origines Hebreæ: the Antiquities of the Hebrew Republic. London, 1724. 4 vols. 8vo.

He also edited Abdollatif's Egypt, Arabic and Latin. Oxford, 1800. 4to; and Pococke's "Specimen Historiæ Arabum." Oxford, 1806. 4to.

See also, under History of Hindostan, Maurice. For the antiquities depending upon hieroglyphics, see Diplomatic Art, among Technical Arts.

CHAPTER XLV.

Byzantine History.

Gibbon: Decline and Fall. See Roman History.

Sismondi: Fall of the Roman Empire.

For the detail of the authors forming this important body of history, see Clarke's Bibliographical Dictionary (Liverpool, 1806. 8 vols. 12mo); or the Catalogue of the South Carolina College Library. Columbia, 1836. 8vo. Besides their immediate subject, they furnish much important matter as to ecclesiastical history; that of the crusades; of the Goths, and the other barbarian nations of the middle ages; and of the Turks.

CHAPTER XLVI.

MODERN HISTORY. General.

Annual Register; or, a View of History, Politics, and Literature, from the Year 1758 to 1833. London, continued. 67 vols. 8vo.

This is usually known as "Dodsley's," and was edited by Burke, from its foundation to 1790. In that year it was sold, in such a manner that two different continuations were established, the one by Rivington, the other by Otridge. The former is most esteemed. In 1780, a new chronicle of the same sort was established under the title of The New Annual Register. Dr. Kippis was long its editor. In 1808, a Scotch enterprise of the same kind was started; the Edinburgh Annual Register, with Sir Walter Scott as its supposed editor. Hence the rapid and newspaper-like compilation of his Life of Napoleon.

Puffendorf: Introduction à l'Histoire Générale de l'Univers. Amsterdam, 1743. 11 vols. 12mo.

Salmon, Thomas, the Younger: Modern History, or Present State of all Nations; describing their Respective Situations, Persons, Habits, Manners, &c.; their Arts, and Sciences, Trade, Laws, Religion, Natural History, &c. London, 1724–39. 32 vols. 8vo.

See, further, the works in the class of Universal History.

CHAPTER XLVII.

MODERN HISTORY. Europe. General.

Alison, Archibald, Dr.: History of Europe from the Commencement of the French Revolution in 1789 to the Restoration of the Bourbons in 1815. London, 1835. 4 vols. 8vo.

Froissart, Sir John: Chronicles of England, France, Spain, Portugal, Scotland, Brittany, Flanders, and the adjoining Countries: translated from the French, at the command of King Henry VIII. By John Bourchier, Lord Berners. Reprinted from Pynson's Edition of 1523 and 5; to which are added a Memoir of the Translator, and a copious Index. London, 1812. 2 vols. 4to.

Hallam, Henry: View of the State of Europe during the Middle Ages. Philadelphia, 1824. 2 vols.

Heeren, A. L. H.: Historical Treatises; the Political Consequences of the Reformation; the Rise, Progress, and Influences of Political Theories; the Rise and Growth of the Continental Interests of Great Britain. From the German. Oxford, 1836. 8vo.

Historical and Political Review of the Late Revolution in France, and of the Consequent Events in Belgium, Poland, Great Britain, and other Parts of Europe. 2 vols. 12mo.

Robertson, William: History of the Reign of Charles V., with a View of the Progress of Society in Europe, from the Subversion of the Roman Empire to the beginning of the 16th Century. New-York, 1830. 8vo.

Russell, William: The History of Modern Europe, with a View of the Progress of Society, from the Rise of the Modern Kingdoms to the Peace of Paris, 1763, with a Continuation to the Present Time. By William Jones, Esq., with Annotations by an American. New-York, 1830. 3 vols. 8vo.

———: The same, continued to the Pacification of Paris in 1815. Keene, 1822. 12mo.

Voltaire: Essais sur les Mœurs. In his Works, Polygraphs.

For the crusades, see Ecclesiastical History. To understand the History of the Middle Ages, the Geographical Disquisition of D'Anville, Etats formés en Europe après la chute de l'Empire Romain en Occident. Paris, 1771, 4to, is necessary. Eccard has given a Corpus Historicum Medii Ævi. Leipsig, 1723. 3 vols. folio. Koch's Tableau des Revolutions en Europe, depuis le Bouleversement de l'Empire Romain en Occident, is valuable; as is the work of the late able Prussian minister, Ancillon, Tableau des Revolutions du Système Politique de l'Europe, depuis le 15e Siècle. The able and virtuous De Thou's History of his own Time exists in an English version, as well as in French, and the original Latin. The modern part of the several universal histories already enumerated may be consulted.

CHAPTER XLVIII.

MODERN HISTORY. Italy.

Botta, Carlo: History of Italy during the Consulate of Napoleon Bonaparte. From the Italian. London, 1828. 2 vols. 8vo.

———: The same. Philadelphia, 1829. 8vo.

Da Ponte, Lorenzo: History of the Florentine Republic, and of the Age and Rule of the Medici. New-York, 1833. 2 vols.

Machiavel, Nicholas: History of Florence; containing an Account of the Heroic Enterprises, Public and Private Transactions, with the Civil Dissensions and Changes in that Government. From the Italian. London, 1694. Folio.

———: The same, in his Italian Works. Polygraphs.

This forms his picture of democratic government; as his Discourses on Livy do of aristocratic, and his Prince, of monarchical rule.

Malespini, Ricordano: Historia Antica dall'edificazione di Fiorenza, per insino all'anno 1281; con l'aggiunta di Giaccheto, per insino al 1286. Florence, 1826. 4to.

Roscoe, Wm.: Life of Lorenzo de Medici. Philadelphia, 1803. 2 vols. 8vo.

To complete this edition of this elegant and learned biography, it is necessary to have "Illustrations, Historical and Critical, of the Life of Lorenzo de Medici." London, 1822. 8vo. Tenhove's "Memoirs of the House of Medici," translated by Sir Richard Clayton (Bath, 1797, 2 vols. 4to), are important and curious.

———: Life and Pontificate of Leo X. London, 1806. 6 vols. 8vo.

These two, besides their importance as to civil history, form, together, an excellent body of the history of letters in Italy at the period of their revival. Of the Greek scholars, who were the more immediate agents of this introduction of learning, the best account is found in Hody's (or Hodius's) "De Græcis illustribus, Linguæ Græcæ Instauratoribus," London, 1742. Greswell's Life of Politian; Shepherd's Life of Poggio; and Duppa's Life of Michael Angelo, are also good adjuncts to Roscoe's books.

Sforzosi: Compendious History of Italy. Translated by Greene. (Harpers' Family Library.) New-York, 1837. 18mo.

Sismondi, J. C. L.: History of the Italian Republics, being a View of the Rise, Progress, and Fall of Italian Freedom. Philadelphia, 1833. 12mo.

This is an abridgment of his own Histoire des Républiques Italiénnes du Moyen Age.

Venice, under the Yoke of France and Austria, with Memoirs of the Courts, Governments, and People of Italy, presenting a faithful Picture of her Present Condition. London, 1824. 3 vols. 8vo.

Venetian History. (Family Library.) New-York. 2 vols. 18mo.

To Italian history, the great collection of Muratori, Rerum Italicarum Scriptores, Milan, 1723, 28 vols. folio, is indispensable. It has been continued by the following: Ad Scriptores, &c., Accessiones Historicæ; Venice, 1771, folio: Tartinius, Rerum Ital. Scriptores; Florence, 1748, 2 vols. folio. Assemanus, Italicæ Histoiræ Scriptores. Rome, 1751. 4 vols. 4to. The Annali of Muratori are also important; and, as to Sicily, Grævius's Collection, Thesaurus Antiq. et Historiarum Italiæ. Leyden, 1723. 15 vols. folio. It embraces much curious history, as to the Saracenic and Norman domination in that island. Of the Italian Thucydides, Guicciardini, there are several English translations. Of Venice, the old history of Nani is still esteemed. Daru's Histoire de la République de Venise, Paris, 1810, 7 vols. 8vo, is of great merit. Saint-Réal's Conjuration des Espagnols contre Venise is well known, as rivalling Sallust himself in the brilliant conciseness of its style. Florence is rich in historians. The investigations of Micali relate largely to its original races, the Etrurians. Leonardo Aretini, Poggio, Giovani and Matteo Villani, Nerli, are, besides Macchiavelli and Guicciardini, writers of its annals. For Rome, see Lives of the Popes, &c., in Ecclesiastical History. For Naples, Giannone's History is esteemed, and has an English translation. Miss Berry's Life of Queen Joanna illustrates one of its more interesting periods. De Burigny has given a good Histoire Générale de Sicile. There is a History of the Revolutions of Genoa, by De Brequigny, in French. For Fiesco's Conspiracy, see De Retz's account, in his Memoirs, and Robertson, in his Charles V. Of the smaller Italian states, we have not space to give the historians. The larger work of Sismondi, mentioned above (16 vols. 8vo), is reduced, with much research, from their local histories, and is highly instructive and interesting.

CHAPTER XLIX.

MODERN HISTORY. Spain and Portugal.

Beckford, William: History of Spain from the Establishment of the Colony of the Gaeles by the Phœnicians to the Death of Ferdinand. Dublin, 1793. 2 vols. 8vo.

History of Spain and Portugal. Philadelphia, 1832. 5 vols. 12mo.

Napier: History of the Peninsular War. London, 1832, &c. 4 vols. 8vo.

Rodd, Thomas: Civil Wars of Granada. London, 1811. 2 vols. 8vo.

Southey, Robert, Poet Laureate: History of the Peninsular War.

Subaltern, or the Sketches of the Peninsular War during the Campaigns of 1813 and 1814, by an Eyewitness. New-York, 1825. 12mo.

Vacani: Storia delle Campagne e degli assedj deg l'Italiani in Ispagna, dal 1808 al 1813. Milan, 1823. 3 vols. 4to.

Vertot: History of the Revolutions in Spain (from the French). London, 1724. 5 vols. 12mo.

See, also, in Robertson's Charles V., the parts relating to Spanish affairs.

There are the following further works in English. Watson, Histories of Philip II. and III. Coxe, Memoirs of the Kings of Spain of the Bourbon race. Murphy, History of the Mohammedan Empire in Spain. Idem, Antiquities of the Arabs in Spain. Bourke, History of the Moors in Spain.

The Spanish Chronicles are too numerous for mention. The chief are the Arabian ones of Tarif: La verdadera Historia del rey don Rodrigo; and of Bleda, Coronica de los Moros en España. Chronica del Cid. Coronica del rey don Rodrigo. Chronica del gran Capitan Gonzalo de Cordova. Cronica de los reyes Fernando y Isabel. There are several lives of Cardinal Ximenes; among which is one in French, by Fléchier. The best of their historians is Mariana. As to the Moorish domination, the Spanish of Condé, Dominacion de los Arabes in España, is the main modern book. It has been abridged, by De Marles, in his Domination des Arabes en Espagne. There are, also, Marmol's Historia de los Moriscos de Grenada: Mendoza's Guerra de Granada; and the Historia de los Vendos de los Zagaris y Abencerrages, Cavalleros Moros de Granada, by Ginez Perez de Hita; one of the books spared by the curate, in the conflagration of Don Quixote's library.

W.: History of France, from the Accession of Henry III., in 1574, to the Death of Henry IV. in 1610; preceded by a View of the Civil, Military, and Political State of Europe between the Middle and Close of the 16th Century; and followed by a View of the State of Europe at the Accession of Louis XIII. London, 1814. 6 vols. 8vo.

See also, in Biography, the Memoirs of De Retz, Sully, Du Barry, the Bonapartes, Roche Jacquelin, Fouché, Ney, Du Hausset, Lafayette, Moreau, and others.

There are several important collections—as the Collection Universelle de Mémoires relatifs à l'Histoire de France. Paris, 1819. To form about 89 vols. 8vo. It embraces Villehardouin, Joinville, the Faits de du Guesclin, Boucicaut, Bayard, &c., Christine de Pisan, De Comines, Brantome, the series relating to the Maid of Orleans, to Henry IV., &c., &c. The Chronicles of Monstrelet, Eginhart's Life of Charlemagne, Thierry's Histoire des Gaulois, Mezeray's Histoire de France, Lacretelle's Histoire de France pendant le 18e Siècle, and his Guerres de Religion, Davila's able Storia delle guerre Civile de Francia, Daru's excellent Histoire des Ducs de Bourgogne, and Dulaure's instructive Histoire de Paris, are all too important not to find a place in every collection.

CHAPTER LI.

MODERN HISTORY. British Islands.

Aikin, Dr. John: Annals of the Reign of George III., from its Commencement in the Year 1760 to his Death in 1820. London, 1825. 3 vols. 8vo.

Brown, J. H.: Scenes in Scotland; with Sketches and Illustrations, Historical, Biographical, and Literary. Glasgow, 1833. 12mo.

Burnet, Bishop: History of his own Times. London, 1734. 2 vols. folio.

Burton, Thomas: Cromwellian Diary of a Member in the Parliaments of Oliver and Richard Cromwell, from 1656 to 1659: from the Original Autograph MSS., with an Introduction containing an Account of the Parliament of 1654, from the Journal of Guibon Goddard, M. P. Edited and illustrated with Notes, Historical and Biographical, by J. T. Rutt. London, 1828. 4 vols. 8vo.

Camden, Wm.: Britannia, or a Chorographical Description of Great Britain and Ireland, together with the adjacent Islands. Translated from the Latin by Wm. Gibson, D.D. London, 1772. 2 vols. folio.

This important book as to British antiquities and local history had been translated, it is said, under Camden's own eye, by Philemon Holland, the translator-general of his times. The later editions of his version, in 1722 and 59, contain additions; but not so extensive as those introduced into Gibson's translation. Gough's still later ones of 1789 (London, 3 vols. folio) and 1807 (4 vols. folio) are still further improved. There is an abridgment of Camden by Lirizæus, in 12mo. The following three works are proper to complete the series of Camden's books:—his "Anglica, Hibernica, Normannica, Cambrica, à Veteribus Scripta; ex quibus Asser Menevensis, Anonymus de vita Gulielmi Conquestoris, Thomas Walsinghame, Thomas de la More, Gulielmus Gemiticensis, Giraldus Cambrensis, etc. Franckfort, 1603, folio." "Annales Rerum Anglicarum et Hibernicarum, regnante Elizabetha, ad Annum 1589. London, 1717. 3 vols. 8vo, edidit T. Hearne." "Remains of a Greater Work concerning Britain, the Inhabitants thereof, their Language, Names, Emprises, Wise Speeches, Poesies, and Epitaphs. Last edition (the 7th). London, 1674. 8vo."

Civil Wars of Ireland. Constable's Miscellany, vols. 73, 4, Polygraphs.

Coxe, Roger: Detection of the Court and State of England during the Reigns of King James I., Charles I. and II., and James II., as also the interregnum, consisting of Private Memoirs, &c.; with Observations and Reflections; also, a more impartial Account of the Civil Wars in England than has been given. London, 1719. 3 vols. 12mo.

Croly, George: Life and Times of George IV. (Family Library.) New-York, 1831. 18mo.

Cromwell, Thomas: Oliver Cromwell and his Times. London, 1822. 8vo.

There is another history of the protector by Oliver Cromwell, his descendant. It is entitled, "Memoirs of the Protector, Oliver Cromwell, and of his Sons, Richard and Henry, with original Letters and Family Papers." London, 1823. 2 vols. 8vo. Both these books defend, with great effect, this ruler; the ablest, and, upon the whole, one of the best that has, since Alfred, sat on the English throne.

Leland, Dr. Thomas: History of Ireland, from the Invasion of Henry II. Dublin, 1774. 3 vols. 8vo.

To this Edmund Spencer's Chronicle of Ireland should be added; with, perhaps, those historical reveries of Vallancey and O'Connor which the former has entitled "The History of Ireland," and the latter, "Chronicles of Eri." O'Connor carries the Irish history back to the flood.

Library of Entertaining Knowledge: History of British Costume. London, 1834. 12mo.

Lingard, John: The History of England. London, 1827. 10 vols. 8vo.

Logan, James: The Scottish Gaël; or, Celtic Manners, as preserved among the Highlanders: being an Historical and Descriptive Account of the Inhabitants, Antiquities, and National Peculiarities of Scotland. Boston, 1833. 8vo.

Lyttleton, Lord George: History of the Life of King Henry II., and of the Age in which he lived. To which is prefixed, a History of the Revolutions of England from the Death of Edward the Confessor to the Birth of Henry II. Dublin, 1763. 2 vols. 8vo.

This is the elder Lord Lyttleton—he to whom the elegant "Letters of a Nobleman to his Son, on English History," were long ascribed. They are now known to be the production of Oliver Goldsmith. To his book on Henry II. the Rev. Joseph Berington wrote a counter-history, vindicating the character of Thomas à Becket. Birmingham, 1790. 4to.

Mackintosh, Sir James: History of England. Philadelphia, 1830. 3 vols. 12mo.

Mackintosh: History of the Revolution in England in 1688: comprising a View of the Reign of James II. from his Accession to the Enterprise of the Prince of Orange: completed to the Settlement of the Crown. Philadelphia, 1835. 8vo.

The concluding part, though done from the materials left by Sir James, is in a totally opposite spirit. Its author remains unknown in this country.

Macleay, H.: Historical Memoirs of Rob Roy and the Clan M'Gregor; including Original Notices of Lady Grange; with an Introductory Sketch, illustrative of the Condition of the Highlands prior to 1745. Philadelphia, 1819. 12mo.

Miller, I. R.: History of Great Britain, from the Death of George II. to the Coronation of George IV.; designed as the Continuation of Hume and Smollett. London, 1827. 8vo.

Millot: Elémens de l'Histoire d'Angleterre, depuis la Conquête des Romains jusqu'à George II. Paris, 1783. 3 vols. 12mo.

Milton: History of England. Works, among Polygraphs.

Moore, Thomas: History of Ireland. (Forming part of Lardner's Cabinet Cyclopædia.) Philadelphia, 1835. 12mo.

(Another volume has lately appeared in England.)

Musgrave, Richard: Memoirs of the Different Rebellions in Ireland, from the Arrival of the English: also a Particular Detail of that which broke out May 23, 1798; with the History of the Conspiracy which preceded it. Dublin, 1802. 2 vols. 8vo.

Nicholls, John: Recollections and Reflections, Personal and Political, as Connected with Public Affairs during the Reign of George III. Philadelphia, 1822. 12mo.

Noble, Mark: Biographical History of England, from the Revolution to the End of George the First's Reign. London, 1806.

This was intended as a continuation of Granger's work (which see above); and was in part formed from the materials left by him at his death.

Parliamentary, or Constitutional History of England, from the Earliest Times to the Restoration of King Charles II.: Collected from the Records, Rolls of Parliament, the Journal of both Houses, the Public Libraries, Original MSS., &c. London, 1763. 24 vols. 8vo.

Plowden, Francis: History of Ireland, from the Union (1801) to October, 1810. Dublin, 1811. 3 vols. 8vo.

The Memoirs of Theobold Wolfe Tone, by his son; Moore's Life of Lord Edward Fitzgerald; with the autobiography of William Sampson, and the State Trials, may be advantageously consulted in this part of Irish history.

Raumer, Frederic Von: Political History of England during the 16th, 17th, and 18th Centuries. London, 1837. 2 vols. 8vo.

Rapin de Thoyras, Paul: History of England, as well Ecclesiastical as Civil. London, 1725–31. 15 vols. 8vo.

———: The same. London, 1732. 2 vols. folio.

In both these editions, the continuations of Ledyard and of Nicholas Tindal are wanting. The latter is the translator of both. The editions of 1743 and 1784 (the latter by Harrison) in 5 vols. folio, with heads by Vertue and Houbra-ken, are the best. At the close of Rapin's part, there is an able historical dissertation on the whig and tory parties.

Robertson, William: History of Scotland during the Reigns of Queen Mary and of James VI., till his Acceptance of the Crown of England; with a Review of Scottish History previous to that Period. New-York, 1829. 8vo.

Taylor, W. C.: History of Ireland, from the Anglo-Norman Invasion till the Union: with Additions by Wm. Sampson. (Part of Harpers' Family Library.) New-York, 1833. 2 vols. 18mo.

The best view of the sources of Irish history is found in Bishop Nicolson's Historical Library. London, 1776. 4to.

Temple, Sir William: Letters of State while abroad, from 1665 to 1672. London, 1740. 2 vols. folio.

Thierry: Histoire de la Conquête de l'Angleterre par les Normans. Brussels, 1835. 8vo.

Turner, Sharon: History of the Anglo-Saxons, from the Earliest Period to the Norman Conquest. London, 1836. 3 vols. 8vo.—Idem. England during the Middle Ages; with a View of its Language, Literature, &c. London, 1830. 5 vols. 8vo. —Idem. Reign of Henry VIII. London, 1828. 2 vols. 8vo. —Idem. Reigns of Edward VI., Mary, and Elizabeth. London, 1835. 2 vols. 8vo. In all, 12 vols. 8vo.

For the bibliography of British history, it is sufficient to refer to the excellent and learned book of Bishop Nicolson, the English, Scotch, and Irish Historical Library. London, 1776. 4to. It is indispensable to all exact research or well-directed study in the annals of Britain. A good compend of the matter, drawn chiefly from it, is found in the first of two volumes in Constable's Miscellany, entitled Illustrations of English History. To Thierry's excellent book we may join the mention of two other good works on English history: Le pere d'Orléans Revolution d'Angleterre, and Guizot's work on the English Revolution. Of Hume, it must be said that his history is the unsafest possible guide. Brodie's history makes sad havoc with his credibility. Lingard should be read for the popish version of many facts. Turner and Henry are both sound and minute accounts of that early period of English history so defectively given in Hume.

CHAPTER LII.

MODERN HISTORY. The Low Countries.

Grattan, Thomas Colley: History of the Netherlands. Philadelphia, 1831. 12mo.

Daru's book (already mentioned) is concerned in a part of this history. The following are also of reputation. Grotius, Annales et Historiæ de rebus Belgicis. Dewez, Histoire Générale de la Belgique, depuis la Conquête de Cæsar. Idem, Histoire particuliere des Provinces Belgiques, sous ses Ducs et Comtes. Strada, De Bello Belgico. Bentivoglio, Della Guerra di Fiandra. Histoire du Premier Duc d'Albe. Panckoucke, Abrégé Chronologique de l'Histoire de Flandre. Naeldwyck, Die Cronicke of die Historie van Hollant. Wagenaar, Varderlandsche Histoire. Le Clerc, Histoire des Provinces Unies. Histoire Générale des Provinces Unies, par D. (i. e. Dujardin) and S. (Sellius). Cerisier, Tableau de l'Histoire Générale des Provinces Unies. Basnage, Annales des Provinces Unies, depuis la paix de Munster. Sir Wm. Temple's works afford his "Observations on the United Provinces."

CHAPTER LIII.

MODERN HISTORY. Switzerland.

Cox's Travels in Switzerland has a historic sketch. See Travels.

There is a Latin collection, Scriptores Historiæ Helveticæ, qui Latino Sermone scripserunt clarissimi; and two good histories—that of Müller, in either German or French; and that of Mallet, in French. Planta's History of the Helvetic Confederacy, and d'Ivernois Tableau des Révolutions de Genève are little valued.

CHAPTER LIV.

MODERN HISTORY. German States.

Coxe, William, Archdeacon: History of the House of Austria, from the Foundation of the Monarchy by Rodolph of Hapsburg in 1218 to the Death of Leopold II. in 1792. London, 1820. 5 vols. 8vo.

Denina: Rivoluzioni della Germania. Florence, 1804. 6 vols. 8vo.

Dover, Lord: Memoirs of the Life of Frederic the Great. (Family Library.) New-York, 1832. 2 vols. 18mo.

The life of Frederic is yet further illustrated in the following books: his own "Memoirs of the House of Brandenbourg," found in the second volume of the collection of his "Œuvres Posthumes;" his History of his own Times, in Holcroft's translation of his posthumous works; Samuel Puffendorf's "De Rebus gestis Friderici magni;" Lavaux's "Vie de Frédéric II., Roi de Prusse. Strasburg, 1788. 7 vols. 8vo. And Count Philip de Segur's "Histoire des principaux événemens du Règne de Frédéric-Guillaume II. Paris, 1800. 3 vols. 8vo. The autobiography of his sister, the Margravine of Bareuth (Paris, 1810. 2 vols. 8vo), affords many curious particulars of his youth, and of the domestic life of the king, their father. It has been translated. See it in Biography.

Frederic the Great: Memoirs de la Maison de Brandenburg, &c. In his works, Polygraphs.

Gillies, Dr. William: View of the Reign of Frederic of Prussia; with a Parallel between that Prince and Philip of Macedon. London, 1789. 8vo.

Nugent, Thomas: The History of Vandalia, containing the Ancient and Present State of the Country of Mecklenburg, its Revolutions under the Vandals, the Veneti, and the Saxons, with the Succession and Memorable Actions of its Sovereigns. London, 1769. 2 vols. 4to.

Original Anecdotes of Frederic the Great, his Family, his Court, his Ministers, his Academies, and his Literary Friends; collected during a Familiar Intercourse of Twenty Years with the Prince. Translated from the French. Philadelphia, 1806. 2 vols. 8vo.

This is a translation from Thiebault's "Souvenirs de Berlin." Paris, 1804 and 1813. 5 vols. 8vo. The author was Professor of Belles Lettres in Frederic's Royal Academy of Berlin.

Robertson, Dr. William: History of the Reign of Charles V.: with a View of the Progress of Society in Europe, from the Subversion of the Roman Empire to the 16th Century. New-York, 1830. 8vo.

Schiller: Thirty Years' War in Germany. In Constable's Miscellany, vols. 18, 19, Polygraphs.

Secret History of the Court of Berlin: or, the Character of the present King of Prussia, his Ministers, Mistresses, Generals, Courtiers, Favourites, and the Royal Family of Prussia; with numerous Anecdotes of the Potentates of Europe, especially of the late Frederic II., and an Interesting Picture of the State of Politics, particularly in Prussia, Russia, Germany, and Holland, in a Series of Letters. Translated from the French. London, 1789. 2 vols. 8vo.

This is the work of that extraordinary man, Honoré Gabriel, Count Mirabeau. He also wrote, in conjunction with Mauvillon, another work on Prussia, entitled "De la Monarchie Prussienne sous Frederic le Grand."

The following are the principal authors of German history: Eccard, De Origine Germanorum, eorumque Coloniis, migrationibus ac rebus gestis. The Collection of Pistorius, Rerum Germanicarum Scriptores aliquot insignes. Freher, Rerum Germanicarum Scriptores. Struvius's similar Collection, Corpus Historiæ Germanicæ. Meibomius, Rerum Germanicarum, tomi 3. Schoettgen, Diplomataria et Scriptores Historiæ Germanicæ Medii ævi. The Thirty Years' War of Schiller has been continued by C. L. Woltman. Pez, Scriptores Rerum Austriacarum. Æneas Sylvius, Historia Bohemica. Balbinus, Epitome Historiæ rerum Bohemicarum. De Guignes, Histoire des Huns. De Sacy, Histoire Générale de Hongrie. Mallet, Histoire de Hesse. Leibnitz's Collection, Scriptores Rerum Brunswicensium. Gibbon, Memoirs of the House of Brunswick, in his Miscellaneous Works. Mallet, Histoire de la Maison de Brunswick. Puffendorf, De rebus gestis Frederici Magni. Mallet, Histoire de la ligue Hanséatique.

CHAPTER LV.

MODERN HISTORY. Scandinavia and Russia.

Barrow, John: Life of Peter the Great. (Family Library.) New-York, 1834. 18mo.

We need scarcely refer to Voltaire's excellent and agreeable History of Peter. There are some English lives of him; but none esteemed. His Journal, from 1698 to 1714, has been published in a French version. London, 1773. 2 vols. 8vo. Stæhlin published anecdotes of him. Strasburg, 1787. 8vo.

Fletcher, James: History of Poland from the Earliest Period to the Present Time, with a Narrative of the Recent Events obtained from a Polish Nobleman. (Family Library.) New-York, 1831. 18mo.

History of the Reigns* of Peter III. and Catharine II. of Russia, translated from the French, and Enlarged with Explanatory Notes and Brief Memoirs of Illustrious Persons. London, 1798. 2 vols. 8vo.

Wheaton, Henry: History of the Northmen, or Danes and Normans, from the Earliest Times to the Conquest of England, by William of Normandy.

The following three books are the principal ones upon this subject: Mallet, Histoire de Danemarc; Depping, Expeditions Maritimes des Normans: Thierry, Conquête de l'Angleterre par les Normans. The first and the last of these have been translated into English.

Voltaire: History of Charles XII., King of Sweden. Albany, 1828. 12mo.

———: Histoire de Russie, sous Pierre le Grand. In his Works, Polygraphs.

———: Histoire de l'Empire de Russie sous Pierre le Grand. London, 1830. 12mo.

In Scandinavian history, Mallet has been already referred to. Of the introduction to his book, Bishop Percy gave a sort of translation, embracing the Eddas, London, 1770, 2 vols. 8vo. Pinkerton's Dissertation on the Origin and Progress of the Goths or Scythians. Olaus Magnus, Historiæ de gentibus Septentrionalibus. Jornandes's History of the Goths is in the Byzantine Collection, and has a French Translation, by Drouet de Maupertuy, Paris or Amsterdam, 1603, 12mo. Grotius, Historia Gothorum, Vandalorum, &c. Snorro Sturleson, Historia rerum Septentrionalium. Johnstone, Antiquitates Celto-Normanicæ. Idem, Antiquitates Celto-Scandicæ. Davies, Celtic Researches. Williams, Rise, Progress, and Present State of Northern Governments. Langebeck, Scriptores rerum Danicarum Medii ævi. Saxo Grammaticus, Historia Danica. Olaus Wormius, Fasti Danici. Idem, Monumenta Danica. The several works of Torfæus. Thorkelin's Eyrbyggia Saga. Verelius's Hervarar Saga. Fant's Collection, Scriptores rerum Suecicarum Medii ævi. Vertot's Revolutions of Sweden, translated. Puffendorf, De rebus gestis à Carolo Gustavo. Sigismond, Rerum Moscoviticarum Commentarii. Moscoviticarum rerum Scriptores in unum Corpus congesti, Frankfort-on-Mayne, 1600, folio. Le Clerc's History has been mentioned. Tooke, History of Catharine II. Castera, History of the same. Æneas Sylvius de situ et origine Pruthenorum. Cromer, De origine et gestis Polonorum. Polonicæ Historiæ Corpus. Bale, 1582. 3 vols. folio. Kadlubko's Scriptores Hist. Poloniæ Vetustissimi. Solignac, Histoire Générale de Pologne. Rulhières, Histoire de l'Anarchie de Pologne.

CHAPTER LVI.

MODERN HISTORY. Asia in General.

See the several Universal Histories, and the Asiatic Researches, in Polygraphs.

The Bibliothèque Orientale of D'Herbelot, Hague, 1777, 4 vols. 4to, contains a great mass of Asiatic history. Abul-Pharagius's Historia Dynastiarum Orientis, Arabic and Latin, Oxford, 1663, 2 vols. 4to, is highly important. Michaelis's Orientalische Bibliothek, Frankfort, 1771-9, and its sequel, Gottingen, 1786-91. Kempfer, Amœnitates Exoticæ. De Guignes, Histoire Générale des Huns, des Turcs, des Mogols, &c., Paris, 1756, 5 vols. 4to, already mentioned, under History of the German States.

CHAPTER LVII.

MODERN HISTORY. Asiatic Turkey.

Savage, John, D.D.: Turkish History; comprehending the Origin of that Nation, and the Growth of the Othman Empire, with the Lives and Conquests of their several Kings and Emperors. London, 1704. 2 vols. 8vo.

Tott, Baron de: State of the Turkish Empire and the Crimea during the Late War with Russia; with Numerous Anecdotes, Facts, and Observations on the Manners and Customs of the Turks and Tartars. London, 1786. 2 vols. 8vo.

Leunclavius, Annales Sultanorum Othomanorum; Cantemir, Histoire de l'Empire Ottoman; Knolles, Turkish History; Rycaut, Turkish History; D'Hosson, Tableau Historique de l'Orient; but more especially the able and copious work of Von Hammer, Geschichte des Osmanliches Rieches, may be referred to. Also Gibbon as to their conquests of Constantinople; and Sismondi's Overthrow of the Roman Empire.

CHAPTER LVIII.

MODERN HISTORY. Arabia and Syria.

Crichton: History of Arabia. (Harpers' Family Library.) New-York, 1834. 2 vols. 18mo.

Manners and Customs of the Jews. Hartford, 1833. 12mo.

Milman: History of the Jews. (Harpers' Family Library.) New-York, 1830. 3 vols. 18mo.

Russell: History of Palestine. (Harpers' Family Library.) New-York, 1832. 18mo.

See, also, in Ecclesiastical History, Prideaux, Shuckford, and other writers.

The leading historians of Arabia, &c., are the following. Eichorn, Monumenta Antiquissimæ Historiæ Arabum. Abulfeda, Annales Muslemici, Arabic and Latin. Hafniæ, 1789. 5 vols. 4to. Abul-Pharagius, Specimen Historiæ, Arabum. Oxford, 1650. 4to. Freytag, Selecta ex Historia Halebi, &c., Arabic and Latin. Paris, 1819. 8vo. Abulfeda, Historia Imperii Joctanidarum, Arabic and Latin. Harderovici, 1786. 4to. Elmacin, Historia Saracenica. Leyden, 1625. Folio. Rasmussen, Historia præcipuorum Arabum regnorum. Hafniæ, 1817. 4to. Assemanni, Saggio, sull' origine, &c., degli Arabi avanti Maometto. Ockley, History of the Saracens. See further at the Lives of Mohammed, in Biography.

CHAPTER LIX.

MODERN HISTORY. Persia.

Fraser: History of Persia. (Harpers' Family Library.) New-York, 1834. 18mo.

See, also, the several Universal Histories; and, among Polygraphs, in Jones's works, the Life of Nadir Shah.

In English we have Malcolm's History of Russia, and Ouseley's epitome of the ancient history of the same. De Cerceau has given a Histoire des Révolutions de Perse depuis 1700: and Picault, a like one, pendant le 18e Siècle. The dissertation prefixed by Richardson to his Persian-Arabic-English Dictionary forms a learned and acute examination of the earlier Persian history. Its original sources, as far as yet given to the press in Europe, are the following. Mirchond, Historia priorum Regum Persarum, Persian and Latin. Vienna, 1782. 4to. Idem, Historia Samanidarum, in Persian, Gottingen, 1808. 4to.

Dow, Alexander: History of Hindostan, from the Earliest Times to the Settlement of the Empire under Aurungzebe. Translated from the Persian. Dublin, 1792. 3 vols. 8vo.

This is said, by Lowndes, "to be, without acknowledgment, made up chiefly from Bernier's Travels." This appears a very inconsiderate charge against an esteemed book, when it is remembered that Bernier's Travels do not contain a history of Hindostan, except so far as he relates the transactions of his twelve years' residence at the court of Aurungzebe. How, then, out of these twelve years in Bernier, was Dow to build his book "chiefly?" A little confusion of the memory, probably, had some place in this accusation; for Bernier wrote also a "History of the last Revolution in the States of the Mogul;" and though this is, of course, confined to a single main event, yet Dow has, no doubt, made some use of it, as of sound, authentic material; and hence the imputation of plagiarism against his whole history.

For China, Du Halde must be again referred to as the great source of information. Also, D'Anville's Mémoires sur la Chine; and the collection of the reports of the Jesuit Missionaries, entitled Mémoires concernant les Chinois, par les Missionaires, Paris, 1776, 16 vols. in 4to; together with the Selection of Lettres édifiantes et curieuses; with Ribadeneira's Historia de las Islas del Archipelago y Reynos de China, Tartaria, &c., and Navarete's Tratados Historicos de la Monarchia de China: also, the Histoire de la Conquête de la Chine par les Tartares Manchoux, par Vojeux de Brunem, le Père Jouve. We may here refer also to the Description of the Island of Formosa, published by Psalmanazar, and remarkable as forming a part of that villanous imposture with which he began a literary career that afterward became as virtuous as it was successful. It is the more necessary to mention his forgery, because the exact and skilful Brunet has placed it, without note, among books of authority: a mere oversight, however; for Brunet is rarely ignorant of anything he should know.

CHAPTER LXII.

MODERN HISTORY. Tartar Regions.

See the several Universal Histories. Kamschatka and Siberia can hardly be said to have a history; and Tartary, in general, only that of its great emperor, Timour Beg; of whom there are the following accounts:—Ahmed Abrasiades, Vitæ et rerum gestarum Timuri Historia, Arabic and Latin. Leoward, 1767. 3 vols. small 4to. Cherefeddin Ali, Histoire de Timur Bec, traduite du persan, par Petis de la Croix. Paris, 1722. 4 vols. 12mo. Argote de Molina, Historia del gran Tamerlan. Priest, Josiah: American Antiquities. Albany, 1833. 8vo.

For an ample bibliography of American history, see Rich, as before referred to.

The Spanish writers are the most important, and, inasmuch as little found in collections, the most curious. The following are the chief. Ulloa, Noticias Americanas. Madrid, 1772. 4to. Garcia, Origen de los Indios. Madrid, 1729. Folio. Las Casas's Tracts on the destruction of the Indians; for the detail of which, see Rich's Catalogue. Herrera, Decades. Madrid, 1601. 8 vols. in 4, folio. Gomara, Historia General de las Indias Occidentales. Torquemada, Monarchia Indiana. Madrid, 1723. 3 vols. folio. Barcia, Historiadores primitivos de las Indias Occidentales. The Decades of Peter Martyr (or Aglerius), Madrid, 1516, folio, in Latin, and Laet's Novus Orbis, Leyden, 1633 or 1655, belong more to voyages, but are important.

The Spanish writers are here again of great interest; of greater, indeed, than their historians of their own land. They are as follows:—Villa-Señor, Teatro Americano. Mexico, 1746. 2 vols. folio. Cortez (el conquistador), Historia de la Nueva España. Mexico, 1770. Folio. Diaz, Historia de la Conquista de la Nueva España. Madrid, 1799. 3 vols. 8vo. Venegas, Noticia de la California. Madrid, 1757. 3 vols. 4to. El Inca Garcilasso de la Vega, La Florida. Madrid, 1723. Folio. Cardenas (Barcia), Ensayo para la Historia de la Florida. Madrid, 1723. Folio. Clavigero's (Italian) Conquest of Mexico has a translation.

We may mention here the very good book of Mr. Warden (our former consul at Paris); his Statistical and Historical Account of the United States. Edinburgh, 1819. 3 vols. 8vo. It has an Introduction, written with much ability and elegance; the joint production of G. C. Verplanck and of Wm. C. Preston of South Carolina.

———: Philosophical and Political History of the Settlement and Trade of the Europeans in the East and West Indies. Translated. Edinburgh, 1804. 6 vols. 12mo.

This book was, in some sort, the common production of the sect of philosophers of which Voltaire and Diderot were the chiefs. Breathing their opinions in religion and politics, and written with animation and even eloquence, it obtained a success to which its present reputation does not answer, but much of which it deserved. Diderot is said to have written fully a third of it; and Holbach, Pechmeja, Paulze, Dutasta, Deleyre, the Abbé Martin, Counts Aranda and De Souza, with many others, to have been concerned in it. It is often irreligious, and sometimes impure.

CHAPTER LXXIII.

HISTORY. Ecclesiastical.

Adam, Robert: The Religious World Displayed; or, a View of the Four Grand Systems of Religion: Judaism, Paganism, Christianity, and Mohammedanism, and of the various existing Denominations, Sects, and Parties in the Christian World; to which is subjoined, Deism and Atheism. Bower, Archibald: History of the Popes, from the Foundation of the See of Rome to the Present Time. London, 1749. 4 vols. 4to.

To complete this, three volumes more are necessary. This is the book, of which the apostate fury against popery drew even some Protestant divines to its vindication. The first of these was Douglas, bishop of Salisbury, who, in 1756, published, in a pamphlet, the detection of many of B.'s falsifications of history. It was this which gave occasion to Goldsmith to say, in his "Retaliation" (Douglas being a Scot), that he, "the scourge of imposters, the terror of quacks," being dead,

> "New Lauders and Bowers the Tweed shall cross over,
> No countryman living their tricks to discover."

The Rev. Henry Temple also fell upon him, in 1758, with a pamphlet full of exposures. The Catholic historian, Alban Butler, answered him, also, in Letters on the History of the Popes. He, on his part, defended himself with more skill than a cause so ill should have possessed; but, while the literary war was at its height, Douglas suddenly brought to light proofs that Bower had repostatized—had secretly reunited himself with the Jesuits, whom he had before deserted and betrayed.

He appears finally to have died a Protestant, after thrice apostatizing between the two faiths. His book, in spite of the just reproach it bears, is regarded by Horace Walpole as marked with talent and learning. But what are these worth when you cannot trust them?

Brook, Benjamin: The History of Religious Liberty, from the First Propagation of Christianity in Britain to the Death of George III., including its Successive States, and Beneficial Influence, and Powerful Interruptions. London, 1821. 2 vols. 8vo.

Milton's Areopagitica, 1644, may be said to be the first great enunciation of the principles of toleration. Jeremy Taylor's discourse on the Liberty of Prophecying (1647) has, because directed more immediately towards the matter of religious freedom, been usually celebrated as the foundation of the doctrine. In these two, Locke found ample materials for the argument of his Letters on Toleration.

Eusebius, Pamphilus: The Ancient Ecclesiastical History of the First Six Hundred Years after Christ; from the Greek. London, 1577. folio.

The first edition (but not the best) of this esteemed translation. The folio reprint, London, 1709, is preferred. The version is from the excellent Greek edition of Valesius. It contains the continuations of Socrates and Evagrius, and Dorotheus's Lives of the Prophets, Apostles, and Seventy Disciples. The translator is Meredith Hanmer, Master of Arts.

Fox, or Foxe, John: Universal History of Christian Martyrdom: being a complete and Authentic Account of the Lives, Sufferings, and Triumphant Deaths of the Primitive as well as Protestant Martyrs in all Parts of the World, from the Birth of our Saviour to the latest Period of Popish Persecution; a New Edition, with Additions. London, 1824. 8vo.

It is to be remarked that this, and even more voluminous editions of what is current as Fox's work, are only extracts and abridgments of his proper book. Of it, the tenth edition (London, 1684. 3 vols. folio) is the last complete one. Fox was Prebendary of Salisbury: born 1517; died 1587.

Inquisition, History of the; including the Secret Transactions of those horrid Tribunals. Plates. London, 1810. 4to.

This anonymous affair is probably taken from Lavallée's Histoire des Inquisitions," published at Paris the year before. 2 vols. 8vo. The book of Limborch (translated by Chandler, London, 1731, 2 vols. 4to) is the best account in English. Llorente's "Historia Critica de la Inquisicion" is also much esteemed. It has been translated from the Spanish into French by Pellier. Paris, 1817–18. 4 vols. 8vo. Goujet, Marsolier, Montanus, and others have given histories likewise. Dupin's and Moshiem's ecclesiastical histories afford many particulars.

Mills, Charles: History of the Crusades for the Recovery of the Holy Land. Philadelphia, 1826. 8vo.

His History of Chivalry forms a fellow book. Both are very slight performances, only popular from the want of other books in English. James has written a History of Chivalry and the Crusades, which see in History of Orders. And Vertot's History of the Knights of Malta has been translated. London, 17—. 5 vols. 12mo. The best book on the subject is that of Michaud; Histoire des Croisades. Paris, 1819. 7 vols. 8vo. It includes an account of all the historians of these wars. Heeren has written upon the question of their influence on the subsequent civilization of Europe (in French, Paris, 1808, 8vo), which is also discussed by Robertson in the introductory part of his history of Charles V. See Sismondi below. The collection entitled Gesta Dei per Francos (by Bongarsius), Hanover, 1611, 2 vols. folio, is important. The latter volumes of Gibbon's Decline and Fall, and Sismondi's Overthrow of the Roman Empire, are also useful in this matter. Of the crusades against the Albigenses, some account is found in Vertot's Knights of Malta; and of the persecution against the Waldenses, and a notice of that people, in Gilly's Researches among the Vaudois (or Waldenses), London, 1825, 8vo. Also, a good notice in the Quarterly Review, vol. XXXIII., p. 134.

New-York, 1824. 4 vols. 8vo.

Without having examined this, I take it for granted that it is Maclaine's translation, with Cootes's continuation, from 1700 to 1800. Of the history itself, Bishop Warburton says, "Mosheim's compendium is excellent; the method admirable; in short, it is the only one deserving of the name of an ecclesiastical history." Such is the general judgment upon it. Warburton speaks of it as a compendium, in reference to the great collections of Baronius (Rome, 1588 to 1728. 31 vols. folio), of Natalis Alexander (Paris, 1699. 8 vols. folio), of Lenain de Tillemont (Paris, 1693. 16 vols. 4to), of Fleury and Fabre (Paris, 1691. 37 vols. 4to). Mosheim gave two volumes under a different title, important as a supplement to his work. They have been translated by Vidal, under title of "Commentaries on the affairs of the Christians before the time of Constantine." London, 1813. 2 vols. 8vo.

Mysteries of Popery Unveiled, in the Unparalleled Sufferings of John Coustos, at the Inquisition of Lisbon; to which are added, the Origin of the Inquisition, and its Establishment in various Countries, and the Master Key to Popery, by Anthon Gavin, one of the Catholic Priests of Saragossa; the whole concluded with a Chronological Sketch of the Lives of the Popes. Hartford, 1820. 12mo.

Neal, Daniel: History of the Puritans, abridged by Edward Parsons. London, 1811. 2 vols. 8vo.

The original, of course, is preferable; the best edition of which is that of Toulman. Bath, 1793–7. 5 vols. 8vo. Yet it has often been stigmatized as full of the grossest falsehoods. Such is Warburton's sentence on it; and the Quarterly Review calls it "the most dishonest book in our language—Dodd's Roman Catholic Church History not excepted." Yet Neal was only guilty of taking very sectarian views. Maddox, bishop of St. Asaph, and Dr. Zachary Grey answered him. He has been continued by Benjamin Brook.

Rosetti's late important book, "Sullo Spirito antipapale che produsse la Reforma," London, 1831, 8vo, connects all these persecutions with the existence of an early sect of reformers in Italy, to whom Dante belonged. Aikin, Dr. John: Lives of John Selden and Archbishop Usher; with Notices of the Principal Englishmen with whom they were connected. London, 1812. 8vo.

Selden's Table-talk has been reprinted in this country (Boston) in 12mo. Wood's Athmæ Oxonienses contains a copious account of him. A new life has appeared by Johnson, London, 2 vols. 8vo. Of Usher, a life was published by Dr. Richard Parr, his chaplain, along with the collection of his letters. London, 1686, folio. Another, by Thomas Smith, was prefixed to the Geneva edition of his "Annales V. et N. Testamentorum," 1772, folio.

Barnum, H. L.: The Spy Unmasked; or, Memoirs of Enoch Crosby, alias Harvey Birch. New-York, 1828. 8vo.

This has no sign of anything like authenticity about it. It is an attempt to fix the identity of a character in a novel (Cooper's Spy) with a person known only in very vague local tradition.

Barrington, Sir Jonah: Personal Sketches of his Own Times. Philadelphia, 1827. 8vo.

Black, John: Life of Torquato Tasso; with an Historical and Critical Account of his Writings. Edinburgh, 1810. 2 vols. 4to.

To Charles Knight's edition of Fairfax's translation of the Jerusalem Delivered (Windsor, 1817, small 8vo) he prefixed Lives of Tasso and Fairfax. A life is also prefixed to Wiffen's translation of the same poem. The discovery, in 1836, of the secret correspondence between Tasso and the Princess Leonora of Este has thrown a new and very noble light upon his long-supposed insanity. It proves that he was loved in return; and renders his feigned madness and his total silence a rare instance of romantic gallantry and fidelity.

Bombet, L. A. C.: Lives of Haydn and Mozart; with observations on Metastasio, and on the Present State of Music in France and Italy. Translated from the French. Providence, 1820. 12mo.

This is much esteemed as a piece of musical biography, and the only English work on Haydn or Mozart. Of Metastasio Hoole published a partial translation (18 plays). London, 1800. 3 vols. 8vo. Beloe printed (privately) in 1823 a translation of his Canzonettes. See FINE ARTS, MUSIC.

———: The same, including a Journey to the Hebrides, by the same; with Additions and Notes, by J. Wilson Croker. Boston, 1822. 2 vols. 8vo.

These memoirs present, on the whole, the best literary and critical history of the time to which they relate. Croker's edition imbodies the notices from Mrs. Piozzi's, Hawkins's, and the other lives of Johnson.

Bowen, Henry L.: Memoirs of Tristram Burgess; with Selections from his Speeches and occasional Writings. Providence, 1835. 8vo.

Bower, Alexander: Life of Martin Luther; embracing an Account of the earlier Progress of the Reformation. Philadelphia, 1824. 8vo.

Besides many Latin lives, there are other English ones, as that of Brerely (Saint Omers, 1624, 4to), and that of Thomas Haynes. London, 1648, 4to. The latter is esteemed. The Table-talk of Luther (his Tisch-reden) has also been Englished, under the title of "Colloquia Mensalia, or Divine Discourse at his table, translated by Captain Henrie Bell." London, 1652, folio. For the singular history of this book, see a notice in the Retrospective Review, vol. V., p. 283. There is a good criticism of his works in the same journal, vol. X., p. 160. To a London edition of thirty-four of his sermons (1815, 8vo) a translation is attached of Melancthon's life of him. See, in Ecclesiastical History, Scott.

Bray, William: Memoirs of John Evelyn, comprising his Diary from 1641 to 1705, 6, and a Selection of his Familiar Letters. To which is subjoined, the Private Correspondence between King Charles I. and Sir Edward Nichols; also between Hyde (Lord Clarendon) and Sir Richard Browne, Ambassador to the Court of France in the time of Charles I. and the Usurpation. From the original MSS. London, 1827. 5 vols. 8vo.

The diary contains, in the earlier part, a journal of his travels on the Continent—chiefly in Italy.

Brewster, Sir David: Life of Sir Isaac Newton. (Family Library.) New-York, 1831. 18mo.

There is another popular biography in the Library of Useful Knowledge; also, a life, by Fontenelle, translated. London, 1728. 8vo: a memoir from original MSS. in the possession of the Earl of Portsmouth, by Edmund Turnor, in his History of Grantham. London, 1806. 4to. The lately published Memoirs of Flamstead disclose some particulars of his private conduct, which are less advantageous to him than one would have wished.

Brown, J. B.: Memoirs of the Life of John Howard (the Philanthropist), from his Diary, Letters, &c. Boston. 12mo.

This is an abridgment by an American. There is another life by Dr. John Aikin. London, 1792. 8vo. Howard's main works are his "Account of the principal Lazarettoes in Europe." Warrington, 1789, 4to; and his "State of the Prisons in England and Wales." London, 1792, 4to.

———: Confessions of: Manuscript transmitted from St. Helena by an Unknown Hand. New-York, 1817. 12mo.

This is a mere fabrication. It was for a while attributed to Madame de Stael.

———: Life. By Henry Lee. Philadelphia, 1835. Vol. I. 8vo.

To the above, his historical memoirs, dictated at St. Helena to Montholon and others, should be added. Hazlitt has also written a good life. The memoirs of his different generals also furnish many particulars in regard to him.

The main original authority for the life of Mohammed is Abulfeda, who lived, however, 600 years after him. In English, there is a life by Prideaux, London, 1723, 8vo; that by Sale, prefixed to his Koran; and, in French, a very good life by Savary.

Cabot, Sebastian: Memoirs, with a Review of the History of Maritime Discovery, illustrated by Documents from the Rolls, now first published. Philadelphia, 1831. 8vo.

Caldwell, Dr. Charles: Memoirs of the Life and Campaigns of Major General Nathaniel Greene. Philadelphia, 1819. 8vo.

Campbell, Dr. John, and others: Lives of the British Admirals; containing an accurate Naval History, from the Earliest Period; continued to 1779, by Dr. Berkenhout; to 1780, by H. R. Yorke; and to 1816, by Wm. Stevenson. London, 1818. 8 vols. 8vo.

———: British Admirals: the Naval History of Great Britain, with the Lives of the most Illustrious British Admirals, from the Reign of Queen Elizabeth, including the great Events of the Present War. London, 1758. 4 vols. 12mo.

This is an earlier anonymous edition of the same work. Dr. Campbell, besides a great multiplicity of miscellaneous productions, bore a large part in those two great literary undertakings, "The Biographia Britannica," and "the Modern Universal History." In the latter, he was associated with Psalmanazar, Sale, Hooke, and others. That singular piece of learned pleasantry, the "Hermippus Redivivus," is also his.

London. 4 vols. 8vo.

Cavendish, George: Life of Cardinal Wolsey. London, 1825. 2 vols. 8vo.

This edition by Singer includes Joseph Hunter's inquiry as to the authorship of the book. Cavendish was gentleman usher to Wolsey. The life is very highly esteemed. There is another by Fiddes, London, 1724, folio, voluminous and dull; one by John Galt, London, 1816, 8vo, of little worth; another by Grove, London, 1724, 4 vols. 8vo; and another by Thomas Storer, lately reprinted at Oxford in 8vo. For it, see Retrospective Review, vol. V., p. 275.

Chalmers, George: Life of Mary, Queen of Scots, drawn from the State Papers. Philadelphia, 1822. 2 vols. 8vo.

This is the first strong defence of Mary. Those of Miss Benger and Bell are largely drawn from it. Buchanan is the original contemporaneous authority upon which her accusers rely. Him Robertson has followed. Jebb, Laing, Tytler, Hugh Campbell, and many others have discussed the question of her guilt or innocence. James Anderson published, Edinburgh, 1727, 8, 4 vols. 4to, a collection of the documents relating to her.

Of Penn, there is an edition of the collected Works, London, 1726, 2 vols. folio; and another of his Select Works, London, 1782, 5 vols. 8vo. Of the latter there is a subsequent reprint.

Colburn, Zerah: A Memoir of his own Life; containing an Account of his Remarkable Powers, with his Peculiar Method of Calculation, &c. Springfield, 1833.

Coleridge: Biographia Literaria; or, Biographical Sketches of my own Literary Life and Opinions. New-York, 1834. 2 vols. 8vo.

———: The same. New-York, 1817. 12mo.

Colden, C. D.: Memoirs of the Life of Robert Fulton. Read before the Philosophical Society of New-York: comprising some Account of the Invention, Progress, and Establishment of Steamboats, of Improvements in the Construction and Navigation of Canals, and other Objects of Public Utility. New-York, 1817. 8vo.

Collier, Jeremy: The great Historical, Geographical, Genealogical, and Poetical Dictionary. London, 1701. 4 vols. folio.

This is a translation of Moreri's Great Historical Dictionary, with additions, by Collier, the nonjuring divine; who is remarkable for the reform he accomplished of that license of the stage which prevailed under Charles II. His adversaries, in this contest, were Dryden, D'Urfey, Congreve, and Vanburg. For Moreri, see General Dictionary, below.

Cortes, Hernan, Life of. Constable's Miscellany, vol. 49, Polygraphs.

Clerc, John le: Lives of the Primitive Fathers. From the French. London, 1701. 12mo.

This is, I suppose, an abridgment from his "Historia Ecclesiastica duorum primorum seculorum." The two works of William Cave, his "Apostolici" (London, 1677, folio) and his "Ecclesiastici" (London, 1683, folio), contain the Lives of the Apostles and Fathers for the first four centuries.

Cloquet, Jules: Recollections of the Private Life of the Marquis de Lafayette. New-York, 1836. 2 vols. 12mo.

Sarrans, B.: Memoirs of the same, and of the French Revolution of 1830. Boston, 1833. 2 vols. 12mo.

A complete History of the same; with his late Tour through the United States. By an Officer in the United States Army. New-York, 1825. 8vo.

Memoirs of the same; embracing Details of his Public and Private Life, &c. Hartford, 1825. 12mo.

Historical Sketches of the Life of the same, by an American. New-York, 1824. 12mo.

Collingwood, G. L.: Selections from the Public and Private Correspondence of Vice-Admiral Lord Collingwood; interspersed with Memoirs of his Life. New-York, 1829. 8vo.

Cooke, George Wingrove: Memoirs of Lord Bolingbroke. London, 1836. 2 vols. 8vo.

Besides the life by Mallet (his literary executor) there is one by Goldsmith, prefixed to an edition of Bolingbroke's works, reissued in London, 1809. 8 vols. 8vo.

Crabbe, George, A.M.: Life of the Rev. George Crabbe (the Poet), with his Letters and Journals. By his Son. Philadelphia, 1835. 2 vols. 12mo.

Crockett, David: A Narrative of his Life, written by himself. Philadelphia, 1834. 12mo.

This is, no doubt, purely supposititious, or fabricated from the personal relations of this very ignorant and very dull man; who won much notoriety, by dint of having a greater degree of mere rudeness than is common even in a member of Congress. Falling, however, in defending, to the last, the Texan fortress of Alamo, he merited, in his death, the honours which his life had far less justly enjoyed.

Sketches and Eccentricities of David Crockett. New-York, 1833. 12mo.

Exploits and Adventures of David Crockett in Texas. Philadelphia, 1836. 12mo.

Crockett, David: Life of Martin Van Buren. 2 vols. 12mo.

Pseudonymous.

Holland, Wm. M.: Life and Opinions of the same. 1835. 12mo.

Crusius, Lewis: Lives of the Roman Poets; containing a Critical and Historical Account of them and their Writings, with large Quotations of their most Celebrated Passages, as far as was necessary to Compare and Illustrate their Several Excellences, as well as to discover wherein they were Deficient; to which is added, a Chronological Table, &c. London, 1733. 2 vols. 12mo.

Esteemed, as is also the old, but solid book of Gerard Voss, "De Poetis Latinis et Græcis." Amsterdam, 1634. 4to. Sir Thomas Pope Blount's "Remarks on Poetry," London, 1694, 4to, contains, also, a very judicious view of the Latin and other poets. Schoel's "Histoire de la Littérature Romaine," Paris, 1815, 4 vols. 8vo, and Dunlap's "History of Roman Literature," London, 1823, 4, 3 vols. 8vo, are the best late books. The first part of Tiraboschi's "Storia della Litteratura Italiana" gives a view of the Latin writers, and the earlier volumes of La Harpe's "Lycée," of the Latin and Greek ones.

Cummings, Asa: Memoirs of the Life of Edward Payson. Boston, 1830. 12mo.

Cunningham, Allen: Lives of the most Eminent British Painters and Sculptors. (Family Library.) New-York, 1831. 5 vols. 18mo.

Dallas, R. C.: Recollections of Lord Byron. Philadelphia, 1825. 8vo.

Davis, Matthew L.: Life of Aaron Burr. New-York, 1836. 2 vols. 8vo.

Davy, John, M.D.: Memoirs of the Life of his Brother, Sir Humphrey Davy. London, 1836. 2 vols. 8vo.

There is another life of the same date and size by Paris.

Dawson, Moses: Historical Narrative of the Services, &c., of Major-General W. H. Harrison. Cincinnati, 1824. 8vo.

Dermoncourt, General: The Duchess of Berri in La Vendée: comprising a Narrative of her Adventures, with her Private Papers and Secret Correspondence. Philadelphia, 1833. 12mo.

Digby, Sir Kenelm: Private Memoirs, written by himself; with an Introductory Memoir. London, 1827. 8vo.

This singular autobiography is written in the form of a romance. A key to the characters is given by the editor, who is Nicholas Harris Nicholas, Esq. There was printed apart, but not published, 50 pages of Castrations.

Dobson, Mrs.: Life of Petrarch. Philadelphia, 1817. 8vo.

This is chiefly reduced from the Abbé de Sade's minuter work. De Sade was the lineal descendant of Laura; and clears up the question of the perfect innocence, the mere poetic nature, of Petrarch's attachment to her. Mrs. Dobson's work is esteemed. Twenty-five biographers of Petrarch are enumerated. His commentators make a host innumerable. Tytler (Lord Woodhouselee) gave (Edinburgh, 1810, 8vo) an Essay on his Life and Writings. See, also, Mrs. Jameson's "Loves of the Poets," in Collections, BIOGRAPHY. In Miss Berry's "Memoirs of Joanna, Queen of Naples," many passages relating to him may also be found. Tiraboschi and the other historians of Italian literature have abundantly illustrated his works.

Doddridge, Dr. Philip: Memoir of some remarkable Passages in the Life of Colonel James Gardiner, slain at the Battle of Preston-Pans, 1745. London, 1796. 12mo.

Drew: Life, Character, and Literary Labours of Samuel Drew, A.M. By his eldest Son. New-York, 1835. 12mo.

Ducoudray Holstein, General H. L. V.: Memoirs of Simon Bolivar, President and Liberator of the Republic of Colombia. Boston, 1829. 8vo.

Dunlap, William: Life of Charles Brockden Brown. Philadelphia, 1815. 2 vols. 8vo.

Durant, Thomas: Memoirs of an only Son. Andover, 1833. 12mo.

Dwight, N.: Biographical Sketches of the Lives of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence. New-York, 1830. 12mo.

Dwight, Timothy: Incidents in his Life, illustrative of his Moral and Religious Character. New-Haven, 1831. 12mo.

Dwight, S. E.: Memoirs of the Life of Jonathan Edwards. New-York, 1830. 8vo.

Life and Character of Jonathan Edwards: with Extracts from his Private Writings and Diary, and also eighteen Sermons, &c. Edinburgh, 1799. 12mo.

This is the author of the treatise in favour of a philosophical necessity, entitled "A careful and strict Inquiry into the Modern prevailing Notion, that Freedom of Will is essential to Moral Agency." I take this life to be that written by Hopkins. There is another life of him prefixed to the editions of his "History of Redemption." London, 1781 and 1791, 8vo, and yet another, printed Boston, 1765, 8vo.

Eaton, General William, the Conqueror of Derne: Memoirs of his Life; principally from his Correspondence and MSS. Brookfield, 1813. 8vo.

Eaton, T. H.: Life of General Andrew Jackson. Philadelphia, 1824. 8vo.

Waldo, S. P.: Life of the same. Hartford, 1820. 12mo.

Cobbett, William: Life of the same. New-York, 1834. 18mo.

Edgeworth, Richard L.: Memoirs of his Life; begun by himself and concluded by his daughter, Maria Edgeworth. Boston, 1821. 12mo.

Edwards, R. R.: Biography of Self-taught Men. Boston, 1832. 12mo.

Elliott, John: Biographical Dictionary; containing a Brief Account of the First Settlers and other Eminent Characters among the Magistrates, Ministers, Literary, and worthy Men in New-England. Salem, 1809. 8vo.

Ellis, Rev. William: Life of Mary Mercy Ellis, wife of W. Ellis, Missionary in the South Seas, &c. With an Introductory Essay on the Marriage of Missionaries, by Rev. R. Anderson. Boston 1836. 12mo.

Female Revolutionary Plutarch: containing Biographical, Historical, and Revolutionary Sketches, Characters, and Anecdotes. London, 1808. 3 vols. 12mo.

Finati, Giovanni: Narrative of the Life and Adventures of a Native of Ferrara; who, under the assumed Name of Mohammed, made the Campaign against the Wahabees for the Recovery of Mecca and Medina. Translated from the Italian, as Dictated by himself; and edited by W. J. Banks. London, 1830. 2 vols. 12mo.

Fouché, Joseph, Duke of Otranto, Minister of the General Police of France: Memoirs of his Life. Boston, 1824. 8vo.

Francke, Augustus Hermann: Memoirs of the Life of. 12mo.

This anonymous life is probably that of Jacques, prefixed by him to the translation he gave of Francke's most esteemed theological work, the "Manductio ad lectionem Scripturæ Sacræ"—"Guide to the reading and studying of the Holy Scriptures." London, 1813 and 15. 8vo.

Franklin, Dr. Benjamin: His Life, written by himself; and Essays, Humorous, Moral, and Literary. 12mo.

———: Memoirs of. Written by himself; and Continued by his Grandson, and others. Philadelphia, 1834. 8vo.

See also, his Works, vol. I., in Polygraphs.

Fuller, Andrew: Life of Samuel Pearce. Newark, 1809. 12mo.

The theological works of this Baptist divine are much esteemed. His own life was written by J. W. Morris, London, 1815. 8vo.

Galileo, Galilei: Memoirs of the Life; with Illustrations of the Advancement of Experimental Philosophy. Boston, 1832. 12mo.

Of this great and unfortunate philosopher—who may justly dispute with Bacon the honour of being the founder of the inductive method of research—we have nothing in English. The best edition of his works is that of Milan, 1808. 13 vols. 8vo.

Galt, John: Memoirs of a Life chiefly passed in Pennsylvania within Sixty Years. Edinburgh, 1822. 8vo.

Galt, John: Life of Byron. (Family Library.) New-York, 1830. 18mo.

Galt, John: Lives of the Players. Boston, 1831. 2 vols. 12mo.

General Dictionary, Historical and Critical, founded on that of Bayle. London, 1734-42. 10 vols. folio.

This is by Dr. Birch, Sale, Lockman, and Peter Bernard. To the translation of Bayle's matter, it joins a number of original lives, with the view of making his book what it was not intended to be—a complete Biographical Dictionary. He wrote it is as a supplement to Moreri's great work (for which see Collier), and as a body of corrections upon it. These he accordingly makes, with much learning; but launches, besides, into a vast deal of extrinsic speculation and erudition of all sorts. For his matchless subtlety, and the delight which he takes in familiarly stating the keenest arguments on all sides of the most difficult questions, he has been very well named "the Attorney-general of Philosophers." His book is a huge magazine of learning, of wit, and of doubt.

Genlis, Countess de: Memoirs of her own Life. New-York, 1825. 8vo.

She was the preceptress of the present King of France; and is usually supposed to have been the mistress of his father.

Georgian Era: Memoirs of the most Eminent Persons who have flourished in England under the Georges. London, 1834. 4 vols. 8vo.

Girault: Vie de George Washington. 1836.

Godwin, William: Lives of the Necromancers. New-York, 1835. 12mo.

There is an anonymous English collection of the same sort entitled, "Lives of the Alchymistical Philosophers;" and, in French, Gabriel Naudé's "Apologie des Grands hommes accusés de Magie." Amsterdam, 1712. 12mo.

Goethe, W. I. Von: Memoirs of himself. New-York, 1824. 8vo.

The "Characteristics" translated by Mrs. Jameson, and Madame de Stael's "Germany," together with Taylor's Historic Specimens of German Poetry, (London, 1828–30, 3 vols. 8vo), contain nearly all that can be further referred to in English as to Goëthe.

Goldsmith, L.: Histoire Secrète du Cabinet de Napoléon et de la Cour de St. Cloud. London, 1810. 8vo.

Gorton, John: Biographical Dictionary: containing a Summary Account of the Lives of Eminent Persons of all Nations previous to the Present Generation. London, 1830. 2 vols. 8vo.

Graham, John A.: Memoirs of John Horne Tooke, with his Select Speeches and Writings, &c. New-York, 1828. 8vo.

There is also a life by Southey, prefixed to his edition of the Pilgrim's Progress.

Ivimey, Joseph: Life, Times, &c., of John Milton. New-York, 1833. 12mo.

Milton has better defenders. The main lives of him are the following:—His nephew, John Phillips's; Toland's, which is excellent as to the politics of Milton; Newton's; Dr. Johnson's (an eminent instance of party antipathy); Hayley's (a good, but rather tame life); Symmons's (a defence as fierce as Johnson's attack had been rancorous); the very just and complete biography of Dr. Todd; a compendious one by John Mitford; and a life, selected from all sources, by Sir Egerton Brydges. Bishop Douglas exposed the fabrications of Lauder; and Bishop Pearce the almost equally injurious emendations of Bentley.

———: The same. Philadelphia, 1822. 4 vols. 8vo.

Plutarch: Lives of Greeks and Romans. Translated by the Langhornes. Abridged by William Mavor. London. 12mo.

There is an old English translation by Nerth; which is curious, as being made from the French version of Amyot; and still more, as being the source from which Shakspeare, in his Coriolanus, Antony and Cleopatra, &c., took, word for word, entire speeches. There is also a little esteemed translation, to which Dryden lent his name. Amyot's old French version is a model of the naif style. Heeren's Latin treatise on the authorities from which the lives were drawn (de Fontibus et auctoritate Vitarum parallelarum Plutarchi; Gottingen, 8vo) is an important adjunct to Plutarch.

Raleigh, Sir Walter: His Life. London, 1740. 12mo.

In his collected works there are lives by Oldys and by Dr. Birch. Theobald (the commentator) gave his memoirs in 1719, 8vo (London); and Cayley a large one, London, 1806, 2 vols. Sir E. Brydges also gave a memoir, with his edition of R.'s poems, in 1814, 12mo (London). There is, in D'Israeli's Curiosities of Literature, a ridiculous discovery of some one's having written for him his great book, the History of the World.

Reed, Isaac: Biographia Dramatica: Memoirs and Anecdotes of British and Irish Dramatic Writers, and of some Actors; lists of their Works, with Observations on their Merits; with an Introductory View of the Rise and Progress of the British Stage. London, 1812. 4 vols. 8vo.

This is framed by Reed, the commentator of Shakspeare, from the older work of Baker; and was completed, to 1811, by Stephen Jones.

Retz, de Gondy, Cardinal de: Memoirs of Himself; with the most Secret Transactions of the French Court and the Civil Wars.

The Memoirs of Joli (De Retz's secretary) are the sequel to these. Those of Chaude Joli and of the Duchess of Nemours are also important in illustration of the cardinal's extraordinary career. The three have been published together in English, London, 1775, 3 vols. 12mo.

Reinhard, Francis Volkman: His Memoirs and Confessions; from the German. Boston, 1832. 12mo.

Reynolds, Frederic: Life and Times of; written by himself. Philadelphia, 1826. 2 vols. 8vo.

Sargeant, John: Memoirs of Henry Martyn. Hartford, 1822. 12mo.

Schiller, Frederic: his Life, comprehending an Examination of his Works. London, 1825. 8vo.

There is a good succinct biography by De Barante, in his Mélanges; and another anonymous one, attributed to Carlyle.

Scott, Sir Walter: Lives of the Novelists. Works, vol. 3, Polygraphs.

———: Life of Dryden. Same, vol. I.

———: Life of Swift. Same, vol. II.

———: Biographical Memoirs. Same, vol. IV.

———: Autobiography. Philadelphia, 1831. 12mo.

This is formed chiefly out of the particulars of his life incidentally detailed in his Notes to the Waverly Novels.

Sidney, Edwin: Memoir of Rowland Hill. New-York, 1834. 12mo.

Simpson: Biography of Stephen Girard, with his Will affixed, &c. Philadelphia, 1832. 12mo.

Skottowe, Augustine: Life of Shakspeare; Inquiries into his Originality; with Essays on the Ancient Theatre, &c. London, 1824. 2 vols. 8vo.

Of no value. The matter of Shakspeare's originality has been best treated by Dr. Farmer, in his Essay on the Learning of S., London, 1821, 8vo; by Mr. Douce, in his Illustrations of Shakspeare, London, 1807, 2 vols 8vo; and by Mrs. Charlotte Lennox's translation of the Italian and other tales which formed his plots. It is entitled Shakspeare Illustrated. London, 1753. 3 vols. 12mo.

Southey, Robert, Poet Laureate: Memoirs of John Wesley, and of the Rise and Progress of Methodism. New-York, 1820. 8vo.

Watson, Richard: Life of the same. New-York, 1831. 12mo.

Southey, Robert: Life of Nelson. (Family Library.) New-York, 1830. 18mo.

Sparks, Jared: Memoirs of the Life of John Ledyard, the American Traveller, comprising Selections from his Journals and Correspondence. Cambridge, Mass., 1828. 8vo.

———: Memoirs, Correspondence, &c., of Gouverneur Morris. Boston, 1832. 3 vols. 8vo.

——— and others: The Library of American Biography. Boston, 1834–7. 12mo. 7 vols. published.

Contains the following lives: I., of General Stark, Brown the Novelist, General Montgomery, Ethan Allen: II., Wilson the Ornithologist, Captain John Smith, the founder of Jamestown: III., Arnold the traitor: IV., General Wayne and Sir Henry Vane: V., John Elliot, the Apostle of the Indians: VI., William Pinkney, William Ellery, and Cotton Mather: VII., Sir William Phipps, General Putnam, Lucretia Maria Davidson, and Dr. Rittenhouse.

Spring, Gardiner: Memoirs of the Rev. Samuel Mills, late Missionary to Africa. New-York, 1829. 8vo.

Stewart, Dugald: Life and Writings of William Robertson. London, 1802. 8vo.

Stewart, Virgil A.: Adventures in Capturing Murrell, the Western Land Pirate. New-York, 1835. 12mo.

Stockdale, Percival: Memoirs of his own Life and Writings. London, 1809. 2 vols. 8vo.

A memorable example of literary vanity, founded upon very small merits.

Sully, Maximilian de Bethune, Duc de: Memoirs of himself. Translated by Mrs. Lennox. Philadelphia, 1827. 5 vols. 8vo.

It is not usually known that these excellent and agreeable memoirs, as received in their modern editions, have been made, by a rearrangement and other changes, to vary not a little from the form in which they came from the duke's own hand. The old French editions—as that dated Amsterdam (but printed at Trevoux), 1723, 12 vols. small 12mo—alone preserve the precise original.

Swedenborg, Emanuel: His Life, with some Account of his Writings, &c. Boston, 1821. 12mo.

Talleyrand, le Prince de: Life of. Philadelphia, 1834. 8vo.

This is entirely without authenticity.

Taylor, Thomas: Life of William Cowper. 12mo.

There is a too minute life by Hayley; who, bestowing but one volume (4to, London, 1796) on the very varied and important life of Milton, could give three volumes 4to (Chichester, 1803, 4) upon the eventless existence of such a feeble and unhappy visionary as Cowper. A subsequent life has been, by Southey, prefixed to a new edition of Cowper.

Taylor, John: Records of my Life. New-York, 1833. 8vo.

Taylor, Isaac: Memoirs and Poetical Remains of Jane Taylor. Boston, 1826. 12mo.

(Thatcher): Memoirs of George R. T. Hewes, a Surviver of the Boston Tea-affair of 1773. New-York, 1834. 18mo.

———: The same. New-York, 1835. 18mo.

Thatcher, B. B.: Indian Biography; or, an Historical Account of those Individuals who have been Distinguished among the North American Natives as Orators, Warriors, Statesmen, and other Remarkable Characters. (Harpers' Family Library.) New-York, 1832. 2 vols. 18mo.

Thicknesse, Philip: Memoirs of Philp Thicknesse, late Lieutenant Governor of Land-guard Fort; and, unfortunately, Father to George Touchit, Baron Audley. Dublin, 1790. 8vo.

It pleased the eccentric author of this history of himself to preserve, in this odd title, the memory of a family dispute between him and his son; who, in right of his mother, had succeeded to the title and estates of Audley. He also published a book against his son, entitled "Queries to Lord Audley;" and was the writer of an indifferent book of travels on the Continent, entitled "Thicknesse's Journey," as well as of several whimsical books besides.

Thorburn, Grant: Forty Years' Residence in America; or, the Doctrine of a particular Providence exemplified in the Life of G. T., Seedsman, of New-York. Boston, 1834. 12mo.

The life of Thorburn is well known to have furnished, also, the main incidents and the leading character of Galt's novel, "Laurie Todd."

Tomline, George: Life of William Pitt. Philadelphia, 1821. 2 vols. 8vo.

Waterman, Elijah: Memoir of the Life and Writings of John Calvin, with a Selection of his Letters, and Biographical Notices of some of his Contemporaries. Hartford, 1813. 8vo.

There are two other lives of Calvin by his contemporaries; and a third by J. Mackenzie. Edinburgh, 1809. 8vo. The Latin life by Beza saw the light soon after Calvin's death. It was speedily followed by another by Bolsec, a former pupil of Calvin; who, however, gave an account of him anything but panegyrical. The same author composed a Life of Beza, equally little encomiastic. Of both the Latin lives of Calvin there are translations into French, and repeated ones of Beza's into English. Some remarkable particulars of the part which Calvin bore in the death of Servetus may be found in the great French Biographie Universelle, at the title SERVETUS.

Weems, M. L.: Life of General Francis Marion. Philadelphia, 1818. 12mo.

———: The same. New-York, 1835. 12mo.

There is another life by Judge James, who served under Marion.

Wraxall, Sir N. W.: Historical Memoirs of my own Times, from 1772 to 1784. Philadelphia, 1837. 8vo.

———: Posthumous Memoirs of his own Time. Philadelphia, 1836. 8vo.

For this work, Sir N. Wraxall was prosecuted and fined. Both this book and its sequel (the next) have been taxed, in the Edinburgh Quarterly and other Reviews, as full of calumnies; and the charge appears, indeed, to be often fully made out.

Xenophon: Memorabilia Socratis. Works, Polygraphs.

See, in Polygraphs, the lives of the several authors, usually prefixed to their works. Also, the several encyclopædias, in Arts and Sciences.

Of the ancients, the following are biographers: Plutarch, Hesychius, Diogenes Laertius, Eunapius Sardianus, Dionysius of Halicarnassus, Herodian, Suetonius, Cornelius Nepos, Spartianus, Ammianus Marcellinus, the Historiæ Augustæ Scriptores. Atticus wrote a series that has perished. Xenophon, Tacitus, Philostratus, Marinus, Anna Comnena, and Herodotus—if the life of Homer be his—wrote single biographies.

Among the moderns, the portraits of Paulus Jovius were followed by the great works of Moreri, Freher, Hofman, and Joecher. The former is of the superior repute, and has been oftenest continued: see Collier and General Dictionary. Bayle's continuation of him was again continued by Chaufpié. Joecher has been continued by Adelung and others. Of English dictionaries, the Biographia Britannica is the only good one. Chalmers, Gorton, Aikin, and Lempriere are bad compilations. Wood's Athenæ (by Bliss), Fuller's Worthies, and Coleridge's Northern Worthies have a merit chiefly local. The best of modern collections of biography, the amplest and most faithfully done as a whole, is the French Biographie Universelle, Paris, 1811-28, 52 vols. 8vo. Its articles are composed by the leading French Sçavants of the day.

CHAPTER LXXVI.

History of Letters.

Adelung: Historical Sketch of Sanscrit Literature, with Notices of Translations. Oxford, 1832. 8vo.

This is extracted from his Mithridates, oder allgemeine Sprachenkunde. Berlin, 1806-17. 5 vols. 8vo; a work on the languages of the world of the highest merit.

Austin: Goëthe and his Contemporaries; from the German of Falk, Von Müller, &c. London, 1836. 3 vols. 12mo.

Bouterwek: History of Spanish and Portuguese Literature. Translated. London, 1823. 2 vols. 8vo.

This was written as part of a series of works on the literature of all nations, of which Eichorn was the chief conductor, and for which his own Geschichte der Literatur, as far as completed, was composed.

Crusius: Lives of the Roman Poets. See it in Biography.

D'Israeli: Calamities of Authors. New-York, 1812. 2 vols. 12mo.

———: Curiosities of Literature. 3 vols. 8vo.

A great part of this popular book is little more than translated from the Menagiana, Vigneul-Marvilliana, Huetiana, Scaligeriana, and others of that French series of literary miscellanies forming the collection Des Ana.

Dunlop, John: History of Roman Literature to the Augustan Age. Philadelphia, 1827. 2 vols. 8vo.

Gray, Wm.: Historical Sketch of the Origin of English Prose Literature, and its Progress till the Reign of James I. Oxford, 1835. 8vo.

Harpe, La: Lycée, ou Cours de Littérature Ancienne et Moderne. Paris, 1827. 18 vols. 8vo.

Hobhouse; Essay on Italian Literature, in his Illustrations of Childe Harolde. Polygraphs.

Knapp: Lectures on American Literature. New-York, 1829. 8vo.

Montgomery: Lectures on General Literature, Poetry, &c. (Harpers' Family Library.) New-York, 1833. 18mo.

Neele, Henry: Lectures on English Poetry. Remains, Polygraphs.

Nichols: Illustrations of the Literary History of the 18th Century. London, 1817. 4 vols. 8vo.

This is but the sequel to a larger work, his Literary Anecdotes of the 18th Century. London, 1812–16. 9 vols. 8vo. Two additional volumes of the illustrations have now appeared.

Schlegel, F.: Lectures on the History of Literature, Ancient and Modern. Philadelphia, 1818. 2 vols. 8vo.

Scot, John: Essays on Poems of several English Poets. London, 1785. 8vo.

Sismondi: Historical View of the Literature of the South of Europe. New-York, 1827. 2 vols. 8vo.

Voltaire: The excellent View of Literature in his Siècle de Louis XIV. Works, Polygraphs.

The following, out of the many interesting books upon literary history that might be enumerated, are the most useful. General: Saxius, Onomasticon Literarium. Utrecht, 1775. 8 vols. 8vo. Andres, Origine, Progressi, &c., d'ogni Letteratura. Rome, 1808–17. 9 vols. 4to. Berrington, Literary History of the Middle Ages. London, 1814. 4to. Hallam, Introduction to Literary History, vol. I. London, 1837. 8vo. Greek: Schoell, Histoire de la Littérature Grecque. Paris, 1826. 4 vols. 8vo. Fabricius, Bibliotheca Graeca. Hamburg, 1782. 12 vols. 4to. Latin: Schoell, Histoire de la Littérature Latine. Paris, 1815. 4 vols. 8vo. Fabricius, Bibliotheca Latina Vetus. Leipsig, 1773. 3 vols. 8vo. Idem, Bibliotheca Latina Mediæ et infimæ ætatis. Patavii, 1754. 3 vols. 4to. Italian: Tiraboschi, Storia della Letteratura Italiana. Modena, 1787. 9 in 16 vols. 4to. Corniani, I secoli della Letteratura Italiana. 1805–13. 9 vols. 8vo. Ginguené, Histoire Littéraire de l'Italie. Paris, 1811–19. 9 vols. 8vo. Provençal: Millot, Histoire Littéraire des Troubadours. Le Grand d'Aussy, Contes et Fabliaux. Raynouard, Choix des Poesies des Troubadours. Lays of the German Troubadours. French: (Rivet and Taillandier) Histoire Littéraire de France. Paris, 1733–1820. 15 vols. 4to. Chenier, Tableau Historique de la Littérature Française. Paris, 1816. 8vo: a masterly compend. Spanish: Los Padres Rafael y Rodriguez Mohedano, Historia Literaria de España. Madrid, 1779. 9 vols. 4to. German: I know of no good general history. English: Wharton, History of English Poetry (or rather of English Letters). London, 1824. 4 vols. 8vo. Arabic: De Rossi, Dizionario degl' Autori Arabi. Parma, 1807. 8vo. Hebrew: De Rossi, Dizionario degl' Autori Ebrei. Parma, 1802. 8vo. Turkish: Toderini, Storia della Letteratura Turchesca. Venice, 1787. 3 vols. 8vo.

The correspondence of Erasmus, and that of Scaliger, Grotius, and Lipsius, afford a great mass of literary history. The French Ana also contain much; and the volumes of the Encyclopédie Méthodique, which are entitled Encyclopédiana. Grimm's memoirs offer also a good body, and the correspondence of Voltaire. Boswell's Life of Johnson contains a great part of the English literary history of that time. Hodius has been referred to, as to the Revival of Letters. (See Roscoe, in Biography.) As to Bardic literature, Larue's Recherches sur les Ouvrages des Bardes de la Bretagne Armorienne; Walker's Essay on the Irish Bards; and the notices of Druidic literature in Turner's Anglo-Saxons, are all that need be examined. Mallet's Introduction and Histoire de Danemarc contain a great part of the history of Scandinavian literature.

Of the ancients, Photius, Hesychius, and Aulus Gellius are all that can well be mentioned.

Thomas: The History of Printing in America, &c. Worcester, 1810. 2 vols. 8vo.

Watt, Robert: Bibliotheca Britannica; or, a General Index to British and Foreign Literature. Edinburgh, 1824. 4 vols. 4to.

Photius's Myriobiblon is the oldest of bibliographical works. The best edition, Græco-Latiné, Rothomagæ, 1653. Folio. The abbot Trithemius and Richard de Buri are the earliest modern writers. The former is given, with various lesser ancient performances, in Fabricius's Bibliotheca Ecclesiastica. Hamburg, 1718. Folio. The latter has lately been re-edited in England. Gesner's Bibliotheca was the first considerable work, and long served as the basis for subsequent bibliographers. Of old books, however, few, except the Polyhistor of Morhof, are any longer of value, except to the adepts of book-taste. At present, for direct utility, Brunet's Manuel du Libraire is without a rival. A new edition of his 4 vols., and of his supplement in 3, is now appearing. The Dictionnaire des Ouvrages Anonymes et Pseudonymes is, however, upon Brunet's plan, necessary, as an auxiliary. The Bibliographer's Manual of Lowndes, London, 1834, 4 vols. 8vo, is good and useful, as to books printed in Britain. Dibdin's various publications are rather adapted to the use of the bibliomaniac, than that of the man of letters. Beloe's Anecdotes of Literature (London, 1806–11, 6 vols. 8vo) are good and various. Horne's Introduction to the study of Bibliography is useful; and (Adam Clark's) Bibliographical Dictionary and Miscellany. As to the Classics, Moss's Manual of Classical Bibliography, London, 1825, 2 vols. 8vo, is now the best resource, though having many strange omissions of authors that should have been noticed. Audiffredi is full of taste and learning as to the early Roman editions. The book of Maittaire is highly useful to the pursuits of scholarship. Panzer is sometimes inaccurate, but is still of much esteem and utility. Laire's Index Librorum Rariorum is curious and interesting. Clement's Bibliothèque Curieuse is esteemed; and De Bure's Bibliographie Instructive, though in part superseded, highly useful still. Renouard has given an admirable history of the Aldine press; Greswell, good ones of the Stephens's and early Greek press of Paris; and Adry, of the Elzevirs. Herbert and Ames's Typographical Antiquities of England are also interesting, though as yet, in their last and best edition (London, 1810–19), only finished to the 4th volume.

CHAPTER LXXIX.

NATURAL HISTORY. Collections.

Blumenbach: A Manual of the Elements of Natural History. From the German. London, 1825. 8vo.

Buffon, George Lewis Leclerc, Comte de: Histoire Naturelle, générale et particuliére; avec la Description du Cabinet du Roi. Paris, 1749–1804. 38 vols. 4to. Zoologie, 15 vols.; Supplement, 7 vols.; Oiseaux, 9 vols.; Minéraux, 5 vols. Ovipares et Serpens, 2 vols.

This is the original edition; and, for the beauty of its plates, more esteemed than any subsequent one. Buffon's assistants in the work were Daubenton, Montbeillard, and La Cépède. The last two volumes are by La Cépède alone. The anatomical descriptions were the part of Daubenton, and are pronounced, by Cuvier, to be without a fault. Some sets of this edition add six volumes more, the subsequent production of La Cépède—that is, Poissons, 5 vols.; Cétacées, 1 vol. The most esteemed sets have the king's arms on the binding. There have been repeated re-editions of the book, as one directed by Sonnini, assisted by Daudin, Dennys-Montford, Latreille, and Mirbel; 127 vols. 8vo, a great collection, but which unfortunately omits Daubenton's descriptions, held indispensable. An edition completer than any other, as to the works of Buffon, but very inferior as to the engravings, was given by the press of Bastien. Paris, 1818. 24 vols. 8vo. There is a complete English translation of Buffon by Smellie. London, 1812. 20 vols. 8vo. Barr has given a less full one. London, 1792, 3. 15 vols. 8vo.

Buffon: Natural History. London, 1821, 2. 2 vols. 8vo.

———: The same. 1830–4. 12mo.

The two last are meager abridgments.

Brown, Captain Thomas: Taxidermist's Manual; or, the Art of Collecting, Preparing, and Preserving Objects of Natural History. With 6 Plates. Glasgow, 1834. 12mo.

Burckhardt: Elementary Principles of the Philosophy of Natural History. From the German. New-York, 1804. 12mo.

Cuvier, George Leopold, Baron: The Animal Kingdom arranged in conformity with its Organization. New-York, 1831. 4 vols. 8vo.

Godman, J. W.: American Natural History. Philadelphia, 1826. 3 vols. 8vo.

Goldsmith, Oliver: History of the Earth and Animated Nature. Philadelphia, 1823. 5 vols. 8vo.

A book which the charm of its style will long preserve. It is of it that Dr. Johnson said, while Goldsmith was preparing it, "Sir, he knows no more of natural history than you or I; and yet he will make it as interesting as a fairy tale."

Harlan: Description of Mammiferous Animals inhabiting North America. Philadelphia, 1825. 8vo.

Harris, Thaddeus Mason: Natural History of the Bible; or, a Description of all the Quadrupeds, Birds, &c., alphabetically arranged. Boston, 1831. 8vo.

The great work upon this matter is that of Bochart, entitled "Hierozoicon; sive de Animalibus Sacræ Scripturæ"—best edition, by Rosenmuller. Leipsig, 1793–6. 3 vols. 4to, with Plates.

Hibernicus: Letters on the Natural History and Internal Resources of the Sate of New-York. New-York, 1822. 12mo.

Hitchcock, David: Report on the Geology, Mineralogy, Botany, and Zoology of Massachusetts. Amherst, 1833, text 8vo, and Plates 4to.

Howitt: Book of the Seasons; or, Calendar of Nature. Philadelphia, 1831. 12mo.

Jesse, Edward: Gleanings in Natural History; with Local Recollections. To which are added, Maxims and Hints for an Angler. First Series. London, 1835. 12mo.

———: The same: Second Series. To which are added some Extracts from the unpublished MSS. of the late Mr. White of Selbourne. London, 1836. 12mo.

———: The same: Third Series. To which are added Notices of the Royal Parks and Residences. London, 1835. 12mo.

ollet: L'Art des Expériences. Paris, 1787. 3 vols. 12mo.

iny, Caius Secundus: Natural History of the World, translated into English by Philemon Holland. London, 1601. 2 vols. folio.

The translation is good, though antiquated. Pliny is certainly one of the most rned of the ancients; his book forming, indeed, a sort of encyclopedia of a eat part of the science of his day. It is, besides the natural history, a great urce of information as to the geography, antiquities, the useful and fine arts, medicine, the mythology, and many particulars in the civil history and manrs of his age.

Cotting, J. R.: Synopsis of Lectures on Geology. Trenton, 1825. 12mo.

Cuvier, George Leopold, Baron: Essay on the History of the Earth, with Mineralogical Notes, and an Account of Cuvier's Geological Discoveries; to which are now added, Observations on the Geology of North America, illustrated by the Description of various Organic Remains found in that part of the World, by S. L. Mitchell. New-York, 1818. 8vo.

———: The same. Philadelphia, 1831. 8vo.

The same work has also been edited by Professor Jameson of Edinburgh, with an account of Cuvier's geological discoveries, London, 1822, 8vo, fourth edition. His "Ossemens Fossils" is his main geological work; and has opened the way to the chief results yet obtained in the science.

See, also, various works among COLLECTIONS OF NATURAL HISTORY. For a general list of the best works on botany, the bibliography in Loudon's Encyclopedia of Plants may be consulted. To make completer the collection of American Botany, the following are important: Catesby's Natural History of Carolina, Florida, and the Bahamas. London, 1731–48, 2 vols. folio—a book now very scarce; Humboldt and Bonpland, Plantes Equinoxiales. Paris, 1805, folio; Michaux, Flora Boreali Americana. Paris, 1803, 2 vols. 8vo; Bigelow's Plants of the Environs of Boston; Clayton, Flora Virginica. Leyden, 1762, 4to; Walter, Flora Caroliniana. London, 1788, 8vo; Elliott, Botany of South Carolina. Charleston, 2 vols. 8vo.

CHAPTER LXXXIII.

NATURAL HISTORY. Animal Kingdom.

Bewick: History of Birds and Quadrupeds, with Engravings. Philadelphia, 1824. 8vo.

This is poorly copied from the three volumes of Bewick's original work; of which the merit lay, not in the descriptions, but in the very spirited delineations, and his admirable wood-engravings—an art before neglected, but to a renewed cultivation of which his genius led. His several engraved works are the following: The History of Birds. Newcastle, 1790. 8vo. The History of British Birds. Newcastle, 1797–1804. 2 vols. 8vo. The Fables of Æsop and others.

Newcastle, 1818. 8vo. All these abound in vignettes and tail-pieces of great excellence, and often of very droll invention.

This is, much of it, drawn from the relations of the day. Much, also, is feigned; but with that air of perfect reality which De Foe so well knew how to impart, and which has, in this instance, been so completely taken, that the book has been continually read as a real narrative. There are two more remarkable descriptions of this frightful visitation, with which this may be compared; that of Thucydides, in his Peloponnesian War; and that of Boccaccio, in the Introduction to his Decamerone. Both are admirable and appalling.

Des Cartes: Discours de la Méthode de bien conduire sa Raison et Chercher la Vérité dans les Sciences. Plus, la Dioptrique et les Météores. Paris, 1668. 4to.

His entire works, in French, have a very good edition, Paris, 1724, 13 vols. 12mo. They consist of the following: Lettres, 6 vols.; Meditations Metaphysiques touchant la première Philosophie, 2 vols.; the Discours, as above, La Dioptrique, les Météores, la Méchanique, et la Musique, 2 vols.; Les Principes de la Philosophie, 1 vol.; Les Passions; le Monde, &c., 1 vol.; L'Homme, et la formation du Fœtus, 1 vol. The best Latin collection of his works is that of Amsterdam, 1670, 8 vols. 4to, or 1692–1713, 9 vols. 4to. They are now, however, only useful as affording points in the history of philosophy; and, from being the great oracle of his times, he is become only (as Voltaire has said)

"Ce maître René, qu'on oublie aujour d'hui, Grand fou, persécuté par de plus foux que lui."

Hartley: A Treatise on the Nature of Influx; or, of the Intercourse between the Soul and the Body, &c. Boston, 1794. 12mo.

Helvetius: Œuvres. Paris, l'An 2. 5 vols. 8vo.

Except a single poem, these are metaphysical. The treatise De l'Esprit drew on him not a little persecution. In consequence of this, he made the publication of his other works posthumous.

———: A Treatise on Man, his Intellectual Faculties, and his Education. London, 1810. 2 vols. 8vo.

His De l'Esprit (included in the works above) has also been translated. London, 17—. 4to.

These embrace his ethical, political, economical speculations, and essays on natural religion, as well as his metaphysical works.

———: Essays. Georgetown, 1817. 8vo.

These embrace moral and political essays, concerning the human understanding; an inquiry into the principles of morals; political discourses; four dissertations, on the natural history of religion; on the passions; on tragedy; on the standard of taste.

Plato: The Phædon; a Dialogue on the Immortality of the Soul. From the French translation of Madame Dacier; with Fenelon's Life of Plato. New-York, 1833. 12mo.

All his works have been translated into English by Thomas Taylor, London, 1804, 5 vols. 4to. Victor Cousin has lately given a French version. Of the original, the Bipont edition, 1781–8, 12 vols. 8vo, is most sought for, but has grown rare.

Diderot: See his several Philosophic productions—his Letters, "Sur les Aveugles" and "Sur les Sourds et Muets"—his Pensées, Code de la Nature, &c., in his Works, Polygraphs.

Xenophon: Philosophical pieces, in Works, Polygraphs.

Young, John: Lectures on Intellectual Philosophy. Glasgow, 1835. 8vo.

In the History of Philosophy, Brucker's copious and learned work, Historia Philosophiæ, Leipsig, 1742, 6 vols. 4to, is of chief esteem. It has been abridged by Tenneman (see him above) and by Enfield, London, 1791, 2 vols. 4to. Monboddo also has given a history of ancient metaphysics, Edinburgh, 1779, 6 vols. 4to; and Anderson, a History of the Philosophy of Ancient Greece, Edinburgh, 1791, 4to. The old book of Stanley is still esteemed—his Historia Philosophiæ; of which there is a translation, entitled The Lives of the Philosophers, London, 1701, folio. Diogenes Laertius and Fenelon may be consulted, in Biography.

Of Aristotle there is no complete English version, except that of T. Taylor, London, 1812, 10 vols. 4to. It is, however, an edition of which fifty copies only were printed, at the expense of a private gentleman. The works of Hobbes, of Condillac, of Cudworth, of Berkely, of Hartley, of Destutt-Tracy, of Hutcheson, of Leibnitz, of Kantt, of Condorcet, of Cabanis, and the Port Royal Art de Penser (written by the great Arnauld and Nicole), are necessary to give a due completeness to this section.

Montaigne: Essais: avec notes de Coste. London, 1796. 10 vols. 12mo.

This very wise and agreeable author, whose style, like Amyot's, is one of the best models of the naif, has been well commented by Coste, whose editions, however, are not commendable in this—that he modernizes the orthography. The present one, though bearing the date of London, appears (as is often the case with French books so dated) to have been printed in Paris. His Voyage en Italie is not in this. It is, however, an uninteresting fragment, not intended to see the light, and discovered, by accident, long after his death.

This is the Rutherford whose enmity to toleration drew upon him the wrath of Milton, and gave him, in the contemptuous line of a sonnet, an immortality for which he had no other chance. He was one of the Scotch commissioners who sat in the Assembly at Westminster; an avowed enemy of the Independents; and left a great variety of Calvinistic tracts; among which, the mere title of one—"A Disputation on Pretended Liberty of Conscience"—is a sufficient earnest of his liberality. It is in Milton's irregular sonnet "On the New Forcers of Conscience under the Long Parliament," that he refers to Adam Stewart (another Presbyterian, signing his writings against Tolerance "A. S.") and to Rutherford.

"Because you have thrown off your prelate lord,
And with stiff vows renounced his liturgy,
To seize the widow'd w—e plurality
From them whose sin ye envied, not abhorr'd,
Dare ye for this adjure the civil sword
To force our consciences, that Christ set free,
And ride us with a classic hierarchy,
Taught you by mere A. S. and Rotherford?"

The main particulars of history of this remarkable book may be found in Barbier's "Anonymes et eudonymes," at the title Imitatio Christi. Charles Butler has written a life Kempis, London, 1814, 8vo. Stanhope was Dean of Canterbury. Dibdin has en a very pretty illustrated edition. Elzevir, Ruddiman, Barbou, Didot, and doni have printed beautiful editions of the Latin original. The two last, one Barbou's and Ruddiman's, have followed a disapproved text—Vallart's.

ourtraicture of his Sacred Majestie in his Solitude and Sufferings. London, 1648. 12mo.

This is the famous ΕΙΚΩΝ ΒΑΣΙΛΙΚΗ, and dated in the year of its first appearance; which year saw, indeed, about fifty editions of it. See note to Works of Charles I., in POLYGRAPHS. It has been said that the book would probably, by the extraordinary sensation it produced, have saved the king's life, if it had appeared a week sooner. This great effect, however, was due chiefly to its supposed authorship by Charles, now discredited. Milton answered it in his Εικονοκλαστης, by contrasting the king's tyranny and perfidy with the sanctity assumed in the book.

See also, in Biography, Godwin's Lives of the Necromancers. Colin de Plancy has compiled a Dictionnaire Infernal. Paris, 1818, 2 vols. 8vo. Cornelius Agrippa's De Occulta Philosophia; the several treatises attributed to Albertus Magnus; the Enchiridion of Pope Leo; the several works of Cardan; the Cabalistic writings of Picus de Mirandula; the Demonomanie of Bodin; the Reveries de Monsieur Oufle, by Abbé Bordelon; Prieur's Dialogue de la Lycanthropie; Wierus's Cinq livres de l'imposture des Diables; Bodin's Fléau des Démons; Le Comte de Gabalis, by the Abbé Montfaucon de Villars—the pleasant and ingenious book, on which Pope has formed the machinery of his Rape of the Lock; Dom Calmet's Traité sur les Apparitions et les Vampyres; Lenglet du Fresnoi's Traité Historique sur les Apparitions; and Naudé, as above referred to, are the most remarkable books as to magic and its adjuncts. In astrology, the Latin Poem of Manilius, and Ptolemy's four books De Judiciis Astrologicis, and Censorinus de Die Natali, are of classical antiquity. In English, Webster, Reginald Scott, King James, Dr. Dee, William Lilly, Aubrey, and Cotton Mather, the main personage in the Salem witchcraft, are worth possessing. The Magnalia of the last named contains many particulars. Upham has given an indifferent series of lectures on witchcraft. Sir W. Scott's Demonology is well known, and the best and most readable general account.

CHAPTER CVII.

SUPERSTITIONS. Gentile.

Fontenelle: Histoire des Oracles. In his Works, Polygraphs.

To this Le Père Baltus wrote a counter-treatise, entitled, Réponse à l'Histoire des Oracles, Strasburg, 1707, 12mo. Clavier gave, Paris, 1811, 8vo, Mémoires sur les Oracles des Anciens. The collection, long current as those of the Cumæan Sibyl (Paris, 1607, 8vo, edente Opsopæo; or 1599, edente Brettano), is now regarded by all good critics as supposititious, and as evidently, in a large degree, of Christian fabrication. See Niebuhr's Rome. Petitus, Blondel, Gallæus, and others, have written disquisitions upon them. Thomas Taylor has given a series of Chaldean Oracles in the Classical Journal, vols. XVI., 333, and XVII., 128 and 243.

History of Oracles*, and the Cheats of the Pagan Priests. London, 1818. 12mo.

This is probably taken from Fontenelle; who, however, might well be despoiled, by any fresh comer, of the materials that he had drawn from the old book of Van Dale, De Oraculis Ethnicorum, Amsterdam, 1700, 4to.

Keightly, Thomas: Mythology of Ancient Greece and Italy. 12 Plates. London, 1835. 8vo.

———: The same. Philadelphia, 1833. 2 vols. 8vo.

See, in Biography, note on Bush's Life of Mohammed.

Savary, M.: Le Coran, traduit de l'Arabe, accompagné de Notes et précédé d'un Abrégé de la Vie de Mohammed. 2 tomes, 8vo.

Tooke, Andrew: Pantheon of the Heathen Gods and Illustrious Heroes; revised and adapted for either Sex. 12mo.

This is really the work of the Jesuit, Pomey; to whom Tooke had not honesty enough to avow his obligations; publishing as original a work almost entirely borrowed. See Biographia Britannica.

See further, as to Hindhu mythology, various pieces in the works of Sir William Jones (Polygraphs), and in the Asiatic Researches, and Maurice's Indian antiquities (History of India). Moor and Ward have composed Hindhu Pantheons. There is a good and copious dictionary of fable, in French, by Noel, Paris, 1823, 2 vols. 8vo. The works referred to among the antiquities of Scandinavia, as Mallet, Percy, &c., contain the chief remains of Runic mythology. Of classic, Spencer, Bell, and Bryant are the chief English; Bœttiger, Müller, and Creutzer, the chief German elucidators. Hager has given a good Chinese Pantheon. Van Dale's De Origine et Progressu Idololatriæ et Superstitionum; Jablonski's Pantheon Egyptiacum; Hyde's Religio Veterum Persarum, are books of much reputation. There is also a voluminous collection in French, of Cérémonies et Coutumes Religieuses de tous les Peuples, Amsterdam, 1723, 9 vols. folio; of which the numerous plates, by Picart, have more merit than the text. The part relating to America is curious. The agreeable book of Chaussard, Fêtes, &c., de la Grèce, has been previously referred to.

CHAPTER CVIII.

JURISPRUDENCE. Natural and National.

Burlamaqui, J. J.: Principles of Natural and Political Law. Cambridge, Mass., 1807. 2 vols. 8vo.

An esteemed compend; not so useful, however, as Vattel's.

Dymond, J.: An Inquiry into the accordance of War with the Principles of Christianity. Philadelphia, 1834. 12mo.

Grotius, Hugo: On the Rights of War and Peace. London, 1715. 3 vols. 8vo.

This translation is accompanied with the author's own notes. It is by William Evans. The later folio edition, London, 1738, is rendered more valuable by the copious commentary of Barbeyrac.

Distinguished alike by his genius, his early attainment to all the honours of learning, his devoted patriotism, his piety, the stainless integrity and the gentleness of his life, Grotius has the singular honour of having carried at once, to almost complete excellence, the noble and humane science which he founded, and of conferring the most illustrious services on a country that persecuted him, during his whole career, for some slight peculiarities in his religious opinions.

For the French text, see his works, among Polygraphs. For an analysis of it, see Tracy.

Puffendorf, Samuel, Baron: Law of Nature and of Nations. Translated by Basil Kennet. London, 1717. Folio.

The edition of 1749 possesses the addition of Barbeyrac's prefatory discourse and notes; and is, for this reason, more esteemed than any of the five preceding editions.

Reyneval: Instituciones del derecho Natural de Gentes. Paris, 1825. 2 vols.

Tracy: Comentario sobre el Espritu de las Leyes de Montesquieu, con las Observaciones inéditas de Condorcet. Valencia, 1822. 12mo.

Wheaton, Henry: Elements of International Laws; with a Sketch of the History of the Science. Philadelphia, 1836. 8vo.

There is a good history of natural law by Hubner, entitled "Essai sur l'Histoire du Droit Naturel." London, 1757. 2 vols. 8vo. Mackintosh has given, also, a good compendious treatise on its history and bibliography, under title of "A Discourse on the Study of the Law of Nature and Nations." London, 1828. 12mo. The following further books are leading ones as to the law of nature and nations: Christ. Wolf, Jus Naturæ. Frankfort, 1740. 8 vols. 4to. Ejusdem, Institutiones Juris Naturæ et Gentium. Halle, 1754. 8vo. Vattel, Law of Nations. London, 1797. 8vo. Rutherforth, Institutes of Natural Law. Cambridge, 1754. 8vo. Leibnitz, Codex Juris Gentium. Hanover, 1693. 2 vols. folio. Wicquefort, Rights of Ambassadors. London, 1740. Folio. Dumont, Corps Diplomatique du Droit des Gens. Amsterdam, 1726. 8 vols. folio, with Supplement, 1739, 3 vols. folio. Barbeyrac's Histoire des Anciens Traités. Amsterdam, 1739, 2 vols. folio. The Histoire des Traités de paix du 17e Siècle, Amsterdam, 1725, 2 vols. folio; and the Negociations pour la paix de Munster, Hague, 1724, 4 vols. folio; in all, a series of 19 vols. folio—Mably, Le Droit Publique de l'Europe, Geneva, 1764, 3 vols. 12mo; Koch, Histoire abrégée des Traités de paix, augmentée et continuee par Schoel, Paris, 1817, 18, 15 vols. 8vo; Grotius de Mari Libero, Leyden, 1635, 24mo; Selden Mare clausum (translated), London, 1652, folio.

Michaelis: Commentaries on the Law of Moses. From the German, by A. Smith. London, 1814. 4 vols. 8vo.

Review of the Laws of the United States of North America, the British Provinces, and West India Islands, with select Precedents and Observations upon various Acts of Parliament and Acts of Assembly, and a Comparison of the Courts of Law and Practice there with that of Westminster Hall. London, 1790. 8vo.

Sampson: Discourses and Correspondence with various learned Jurists upon the History of the Law, with the addition of several Essays, Tracts, and Documents relating to the Subject, compiled and published by Pishy Thompson. Washington City, 1826. 8vo.

Staunton: Translation of the Fundamental Laws, and a Selection from the Supplementary Statutes of the Penal Code of China. London, 1810. 4to.

Bentham's several books, on Judicial Evidence, Rationale of Reward, Codification Proposal, and Tactique des Assemblées Legislatives, are important. Beccaria's book on Crimes and Punishments (1764) was the first efforts towards the modern system of humanity in punishments. Filangieri's book on legislation is much valued. It is translated by Sir R. Clayton. London, 1806. 8vo. Montesquien is already referred to in NATURAL LAW. Pastoret's "Histoire de la Legislation," Paris, 1817, 4 vols. 8vo; Meyer's "Institutions Judiciaries des principaux pays de l'Europe," Hague, 1819, 2 vols. 8vo; the works of Pothier and D'Aguesseau; Jourdain and Isambert's "Anciennes Lois Françaises;" Desessart's Histoire des Tribunaux des Peuples Anciens et Modernes," Paris, 1778–84, 9 vols. 8vo, are all much valued. The treatises of Plato and Cicero, "De Legibus," the "Leges Atticæ" of Petitus, are the main ancient works, beyond Justinian law.

CHAPTER CX.

JURISPRUDENCE. Civil Law.

Code of Napoleon; or French Civil Code. London, 1787. 8vo.

The body of "Discussions," which, in the French, form a commentary upon the law, are highly important in the study of general jurisprudence.

In civil law, the Institutes of Justinian, translated by Dr. Thomas Cooper, Philadelphia, 1812, 8vo; the "Pandectes de Justinien, par Pothier, Paris, 1818, 24 vols. 8vo; Domat's Civil Law, London, 1737, 2 vols. folio; the Works of Heineccius and Voet; Schulting, Jurisprudentia Ante-Justiniana; Funccius, Leges duodecem Tabularum; Vinnius, Commentarius in Institutiones Imperiales; Wood, New Institute of the Civil Law; Cocceius, Jus Civile; Cujacius, Opera; Noodt, Opera; are the chief works.

Napoleon: Les Sept Codes, précédés du Tableau des Distances de Paris, &c. Paris, 1830.

Nouveau Manuel des Notaires ou Traité Theorique et Practique du Notariat. Paris, 1818. 8vo.

JURISPRUDENCE. Common Law.

Blackstone: Commentaries on the Laws of England. Portland, 1807. 4 vols. 8vo.

———: The same. With a Life and Notes by Christian, Chitty, Lee, Hovenden, and Ryland; and References to American Cases, by a Member of the New-York Bar. New-York, 1836. 2 vols. 8vo.

The American edition of St. George Tucker is valuable, as the soundest body of constitutional law upon the doctrine of state rights.

Clark, G.: Memoranda Legalia; or, Digest of the English Law, for the Use of the Lawyer, Merchant, &c. London, 1800. 8vo.

Crabb, George: A History of the English Law; or, an Attempt to trace the Rise, and Progress, and Successive Changes of the Common Law, from the Earliest Period to the Present Time. Burlington, 1831. 8vo.

Of the constitutional law of England, Hallam's is esteemed the best history. See POLITICS.

Bacon's Discourse on the Laws and Government of England; Hale's History of the Common Law; the same, Pleas of the Crown; and the better collections of the statutes at large (as that in the publications of the English public records commission), are the main books.

CHAPTER CXII.

JURISPRUDENCE. Commercial.

Abbott: Treatise on the Law relative to Merchant Ships and Seamen. Exeter, N. H., 1822. 8vo.

Annesley: Compendium of the Law of Marine Insurance, Bottomry, Insurance on Lives, and of Insurance against Fire; in which the Mode of calculating Averages is Defined and Illustrated by Examples. Middletown, Conn., 1808. 8vo.

Azuni: Maritime Law of Europe. New-York, 1806. 2 vols. 8vo.

Beawes: Code of Commercial Law, being a General Guide to all Men of Business; with an Account of our Mercantile Companies, of our Colonies and Factories abroad, and of our Commercial Treaties with Foreign Powers; to which are added, a Sketch of the Present State of Commerce of the whole World, describing the Manufactures and Products of each Particular Nation, with Tables of the Correspondence and Agreement of their respective Coins, Weights, and Measures. London, 1792. Folio.

———: The same. London, 1813. 2 vols. 4to.

The latter edition is much better than all preceding ones.

Chitty: Treatise on the Law of Bills of Exchange, Checks on Bankers, Promissory Notes, and Bank Notes. London, 1802. 8vo.

Story, Joseph: Commentaries on the Constitution of the United States, with a preliminary Review of the Constitutional History of the Colonies and States before the adoption of the Constitution. Boston, 1833. 3 vols. 8vo.

Judge Story has given, also, an abridgment of this book. His constitutional doctrines are highly federal. Hoffman of Baltimore also published a series of lectures on American law. Rawle's book on the Constitution is held in esteem. The essays signed Brutus, and entitled "The Crisis," by the late Robert J. Turnbull, published at Charleston, S. C., 1829; the various writings of John Taylor of Caroline on constitutional law; the miscellanies of Governor Giles (Richmond, 1829, 8vo), and other things, which will be found referred to in POLITICS, are important in the theory of constitutional law, according to the interpretation of the republican school.

Wendell, J. L.: Digest of the Cases decided in the Supreme Court of Judicature and Court for the Correction of Errors of the State of New-York, from 1828 to 1835. Albany, 1836. 8vo.

There are revised codes of the laws of several of the states—as of Virginia, &c. The codes of Louisiania, drawn up by a distinguished citizen of New-York, are valuable. The state of South Carolina is employing an able jurist (Dr. Thomas Cooper) to bring into a single body her statute and constitutional law. He has published one volume. Columbia, 1836.

Friend of Peace. By Philo Pacificus. Boston. 2 vols. 8vo.

Hamilton, Madison, and Jay: The Federalist. New-York, 1820. 8vo.

This book had a very important—it may be said, decisive influence, in determining the public mind to the adoption of the present federal Constitution. It is held of the highest authority, as to our constitutional law; and is remarkable, besides, as an effort, by three leading federalists, to satisfy the country that this plan of government was republican, and ought therefore to be adopted.

Hume: Tracts on Government. Philosophical Works, Metaphysics.

Montesquieu: Spirit of Laws. See it in JURISPRUDENCE. Natural.

More, Sir Thomas: Utopia. Translated by Raphe Robinson, and edited by T. F. Dibdin. London, 1808. 2 vols. 12mo.

A curious and agreeable edition of this fanciful book; which, wild as it is, was at first taken for the authentic account of some new-discovered land.

Owen, Robert: New View of Society. New-York, 1825. 12mo.

Paine, Thomas: Political Writings. Charleston, Mass., 1824. 2 vols. 8vo.

Sidney, Algernon: Discourses concerning Government. Philadelphia, 1805. 2 vols. 8vo.

This republican treatise, being found in MS. among Sidney's papers when he was seized on suspicion, became, in spite of the fact of its having never yet been published, the main pretence for the execrable judicial murder committed upon him. Johnson, overlooking the shocking violation of all law in his trial, goes out of his way to stigmatize Milton for having been kinsman to such a person—"the zealot of rebellion," as he styles one of the most gallant and accomplished men of his time.

Volney's Ruins; or, a Survey of the Revolution of Empires. New-York, 1796.

The following are the main modern treatises on government: Bodin, La Republique; Hobbes, De Cive, &c.; Fulmer on Government; Harrington's Oceana: Ægidius Romanus, De Regimine Principum; Alfieri, Del Principe.

The following form the series of treatises that founded the great doctrine of popular rights over rulers. If Macchiavel's "Prince" be, as is probable, a profoundly disguised satire on tyranny, it is the earliest of republican treatises. The famous tract, the Vindiciæ contra Tyrannos, and that of Buchannan, De Jure Regni apud Scotos; with the other tract published under the name of Stephanus Junius Brutus, the De Jure Magistratuum in Subditos, are of nearly contemporary publication. The authorship of the first is now assigned to Hubert de Lenguet. Colonel Titus's Killing no Murder made much stir in the time of Cromwell, against whom it was directed. The Lex Rex; Hoadley's Measures of Submission to the Chief Magistrate; Montesquieu, Voltaire, Rousseau, Mirabeau, Paine, and Dr. Price, close the list.

He has been, by the English, regarded as the founder of the science of political economy. The French economists, however, of whom Dr. Quesnay was the leader, preceded him, and were the direct source of his doctrines, which he imbibed from them in a long visit to Paris; and the Italians possessed, long before, an almost complete body of writers on the subject, of whom the English still appear, for the most part, ignorant. A new edition of Smith has lately appeared, with a commentary by the author of "England and America compared." After all, it must be said that the additions to his theory of public wealth, by subsequent writers, have been, even when just, rather metaphysical than practical.

CHAPTER CXXIII.

POLITICS. Political Economy. Commerce.

ldridge, W. J.: The Universal Merchant, in Theory and Practice. Philadelphia, 1797. 8vo.

nderson, Adam: Historical and Chronological Deduction of the Origin of Commerce from the Earliest Accounts; containing a History of the great Commercial Interests of the British Empire; to which is prefixed an Introduction, exhibiting a View of the Ancient and Modern State of Europe, of the importance of our Colonies, and of the Commerce, Shipping, Manufactures, Fisheries, &c., of Great Britain and Ireland, and their Influence on the Landed Interest. Dublin, 1790. 6 vols. 8vo.

——: The same. London, 1787. 4 vols. 4to.

This excellent work, though still very useful, is superseded, except merely as history, by the later works of Macpherson, "Annals of Commerce, Manufactures, Fisheries, and Navigation," and the Commercial Dictionary of M'Culloch, below.

nderson, William: The London Commercial Dictionary and Seaport Gazetteer; exhibiting a Clear View of the Commerce and Manufactures of all Nations, and their several Products, with the Name of each in every European Language; a Geographical Account of each State and its Colonies; a Description of every Seaport, its Situation and Longitude, Harbour Dues, Pilotage, &c.; the Various Moneys, Weights, and Measures, and the Proportion of each to those of England; all the Shipping and Navigation Laws, containing Abstracts of numerous Acts, with Custom-house and Dock Regulations. London, 1819. 8vo.

leaujour, Felix: A View of the Commerce of Greece, formed after the Annual Average, from 1787 to 1797. From the French. London, 1800. 8vo.

Book of Commerce by Sea and Land; exhibiting its Connexion with Agriculture, the Arts, and Manufactures; to which are added, a History of Commerce and a Chronological Table, illustrated by a Map and numerous Engravings. Boston, 1833. 12mo.

Commercial Regulations of the different Foreign Nations with which the United State have Intercourse. (A Digest.) Washington, 1824. 8vo.

Commercial Directory; containing a Topographical Description of the Extent and Productions of different Sections of the Union; Statistical information relative to Manufactures, Commerce, and Port Regulations; a List of the principal Commercial Houses; Tables of Imports and Exports; Foreign and Domestic Tables of Foreign Coin, Weights, and Measures, and a Tariff of Duties. Philadelphia, 1823. 4to.

Dearborn, H. A. S.: Memoir of the Commerce and Navigation of the Black Sea, and the Trade and Maritime Geography of Turkey and Egypt, with Charts. Boston, 1819. 2 vols. 8vo.

Dictionary of Merchandise, and Nomenclature in all Languages, for the use of Counting-houses; containing the History, Places of Growth, Culture, Use, and Marks of Excellence of such Natural Productions as form Articles of Commerce; with the Names in all European Languages. Philadelphia, 1805. 8vo.

Ellis, Robert: British Tariff; showing the Duties payable on Foreign Goods on importation into Great Britain and her Foreign Possessions; with Tables of the Bounties and Drawbacks of the Customs and Excise, the Inland Duties, &c., &c. London, 1836. 12mo.

Foster, B. F.: Clerk's Guide; or, Commercial Correspondence, comprising Letters of Business, Forms of Bills, Invoices, Account Sales, &c. Boston, 1837. 12mo.

Hayes, Richard: The Negotiator's Magazine; or, an Account of the Moneys, Weights, and Measures of the Principal Places of Trade in the Known World; also, an Account of the European Exchanges in general, the Laws and Customs of Bills of Exchange, Promissory Notes, &c.; with the Method of Computing Exchanges; also, the Nature and Use of Simple and Compound Arbitrations. London, 1778. 8vo.

This is entirely superseded by the excellent book of Kelly (his Cambist), which see below.

Jackson, John: Reflections on the Commerce of the Mediterranean, deduced from Actual Experience during a Residence on both Shores of the Mediterranean Sea; containing a Particular Account of the Traffic of the Kingdoms of Algiers, Tunis, Sardinia, Naples, Sicily, the Morea, &c.; with an Impartial Examination into the Manners and Customs of the Inhabitants in their Commercial Dealings; and a particular Description of the Manufactures, properly adapted for each Country. New-York, 1806. 12mo.

Jones, Andrew: A Digest of the Duties performed by the various Officers belonging to the Custom-house Department of the United States, but more especially of those attached to the District of New-York. New-York, 1835. 8vo.

Kelly, P.: The Universal Cambist and Commercial Directory, being a Full and Accurate Treatise on the Exchanges, Moneys, Weights, and Measures of all Trading Nations and their Colonies; with an Account of their Banks, Public Funds, and Paper Currency. London, 1821. 2 vols. 4to.

M'Cullock, J. R.: Dictionary of Commerce and Commercial Navigation. London, 1835. Large 8vo.

There is a subsequent edition (1837), which has a considerable supplement. The work is full of usefulness and information on every part of trade: on banks, manufactures, political economy, the cotton trade, &c., &c.

Macpherson, David: Annals of Commerce, Manufactures, Fisheries, and Navigation, with brief Notices of the Arts and Sciences connected with them, containing the Commercial Transactions of the British Empire and other Countries, from the Earliest Accounts to 1801; and containing the most valuable part of Mr. Anderson's History of Commerce, with an Appendix, containing much valuable information relating to Commerce. London, 1805. 4 vols. 4to.

Mortimer, Thomas: A General Dictionary of Commerce, Trade, and Manufactures, exhibiting their Present State in every Part of the World. London, 1810. 2 vols. 8vo.

Now entirely superseded.

Moses, M.: Commercial Directory and a Digest of the Laws of the United States relating to Commerce; including a Tariff of Duties, or Rates of Duties, and Tables of Calculation, applicable to all Manufactures of Wool and Cotton imported into the United States. New-York, 1830. 8vo.

Newman, S.: Mercantile Tables, upon a New Method. London. 8vo.

Oddy, J. Jepson: European Commerce, showing New and Secure Channels of Trade with the Continent of Europe, relating to the Produce, Manufactures, and Commerce of Russia, Prussia, Sweden, Denmark, and Germany, as well as the Trade of the Rivers Elbe, Weser, and Ems; with a general View of the Trade, Navigation, Produce, and Manufactures of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland. London, 1805. 4to.

———: The same. Philadelphia, 1807. 3 vols. 8vo.

Pope: Merchant's, Ship-owner's, and Ship-master's Custom and Excise Guide for the years 1823 and 1824; comprising every species of Information relative to Shipping, Navigation, and Commerce. London, 1823. 8vo.

Postlethwayt: Universal Dictionary of Trade and Commerce. Translated from the French of Savary, with large Additions and Improvements throughout the whole Work, and which more particularly accommodates the same to the Trade and Navigation of these Kingdoms; and the Laws, Customs, and Usages to which all Traders are Subject. London, 1757. 2 vols. folio.

The edition of 1774 is more esteemed; but the entire work is now out of date for every purpose, except to collect what was the state of commerce before that time.

Rordansz, C. W.: European Commerce; or, complete Mercantile Guide; comprising an Account of the Trade of all the Principal Cities of the Continent; copious Tables of their Moneys, Exchanges, Weights, and Measures, with their Proportion to those of England; the Local Regulations of each Place, their Tariffs of Duties, Methods of Buying and Selling, Tares, and other Allowances; together with numerous Official Documents, Ordinances, &c.; forming a Complete Code of Commercial Information: to which is added an Appendix, containing several important Commercial Laws, and the Tariff of Duties, as Regulated by the Congress of the United States. Boston, 1819. 8vo.

Scale of Commercial Weights. (A Chart.)

Shipping and Commercial List, and New-York Price Current, for 1836. Folio.

Encyclopædia Britannica; or, a Dictionary of Arts, Sciences, and Miscellaneous Literature. Edinburgh, 1815–17. 20 vols. 4to, 5th edition.

To complete this, the six volumes of supplement, published at Edinburgh, 1824, 4to, are necessary; but, no doubt, are included in the next article.

———: The same, republished. Edinburgh, 1830. 4to. Vols. I. to XI. To be completed.

To the supplement, already mentioned, are prefixed dissertations: by Dugald Stuart, on the Progress of Ethical and Metaphysical Science; by Playfair, on the History of Mathematics, &c.; and, by Brande, on the History of Chymistry. The book, in its original form (Edinburgh, 1771, 3 vols. 4to), is said to have been compiled by James Tytler, at a salary of 16 shillings per week. It has risen to its present size by repeated additions, of which the French one of Diderot furnished the main matter.

Rollin, Charles: History of the Arts and Sciences of the Ancients; with Notes and Supplements, by James Bell. Glasgow, 1832. 8vo.

This forms a companion to his Ancient History; of which, in the French editions, it forms a part. It has, however, been omitted from most of the English editions, and from all the American ones except the late one from the press of the Messrs. Harpers. It forms a survey of ancient literature, as well as art, technical and ornamental. In the first respect see, however, the later books mentioned under LITERARY HISTORY.

Redding, Cyrus: History and Description of Modern Wines. London, 1835. 8vo.

This book seems intended as a sort of sequel to the very agreeable one of Henderson; his history of ancient and modern wines, London, 1824, 4to; of which a notice may be found in the Quarterly Review, vol. XXXII., p. 232.

Tenant, William: Indian Recreations, consisting chiefly of Strictures on the Domestic and Rural Economy of the Mohammedans and Hindoos. London, 1804. 2 vols. 8vo.

Young, Arthur: Course of Experimental Agriculture; containing an exact Register of all the Business transacted during Five Years on near Three Hundred Acres of various Soils. London, 1770. 2 vols. 4to.

Young's many agricultural works did a great deal for the advancement of scientific husbandry. Among them, the chief are his several agricultural surveys of Suffolk, London, 1797, 8vo; of Lincoln, London, 1799, 8vo; of Hertfordshire, London, 1804, 8vo; of Norfolk, same date and form; of Essex, London, 1806, 7, 8vo; of Oxfordshire, 1808, 8vo; of Sussex, same date and form. His several tours through various districts of England and Ireland; his agricultural travels in France (Bury St. Edmunds, 1794, 2 vols. 4to); his Farmer's Letters (London, 1768–71, 2 vols. 8vo); the annals of agriculture, conducted by him (Bury St. Edmunds, 1790–1804, 40 vols. 8vo); and his Farmer's Calendar (London, 1812, 4 vols. 8vo), are all much esteemed. The books of Sir John Sinclair were, about the same time, conferring the same benefits on Scotland. Young's books contain also much useful information on matters of population, manufactures, &c.

Xenophon: Œconomicus. In his Works, Polygraphs.

A good bibliography of the most useful books on agriculture and gardening may be found in the two cyclopedias of Loudon on those subjects.

CHAPTER CXXXVII.

GRAMMAR. Languages.

Hebrew.

Cevallerius: Rudimenta Linguæ Hebraicæ. Geneva, 1592. 4to.

Parkhurst: Hebrew and English Lexicon; to which is prefixed a Hebrew and Chaldee Grammar. London, 1807. 8vo.

See, also, Munster, below.

On the study of the Hebrew, Bishop Marsh has written a good tract. Some very useful remarks may also be found in that curious personal history, Psalmanazar's Life of himself, page 223, et seq. Bishop Burgess's Hebrew Elements and Primer are accounted excellent for their method and simplicity. Glasgow, 1823. 12mo. A list of the best Hebrew grammars, &c., may be found in the Classical Journal, vol. IX., p. 381.

On the cognate study of Arabic, consult a list of the best books in the Penny Cyclopædia, at the title Arabic.

Persian.

Jones, Sir William: Persian Grammar. In his Works, Polygraphs.

———: Various Philological Treatises, in the same.

See, also, various pieces as to the different oriental tongues, in the Asiatic Researches, and Maurice's Indian Antiquities.

There is a newer Persian Grammar, by Lumsden, London, 1811, 2 vols. small folio. The most esteemed dictionary is that of Richardson (Persian, Arabic, and English), re-edited from that of Meninski. A grammar and historical introduction are joined to it. As a general repository of the oriental tongues, the Heptaglott Lexicon of Castell, published as an adjunct to Walton's Polyglott Bible (London, 1659, 2 vols. folio), and memorable in the annals of ill-requited learning, is still of main utility. The Polyglott itself should, of course, be acquired with the Lexicon, though now grown a somewhat dear book. London, 1657. 6 vols. folio. The Red Line copies are most esteemed, and with the republican preface. Consult Clarke's Bibliographical Dictionary, or the Classical Journal, vol. II., p. 924; III., p. 239; IV., p. 355. It is by accident only, we presume, that two republican copies of the Polyglott are found in collections in this city—one in the library of Columbia College; the other in the City Library. They are common copies in every other respect.

Greek.

Dalzel, Andrew: Collectanea Græca Majora. Second edition, America. Cambridge, Mass., 1811. 2 vols. 8vo.

Donegan: New Greek and English Lexicon.

Morell: Græcum Lexicon Manuale, primum a B. Hederico institutum, mox assiduo labore S. Patricei auctum, &c. London, 1821. 4to.

Neilson, William: Greek Exercises in Syntax, Ellypsis, Dialects, Prosody, &c. Dundalk, 1804. 8vo.

New Method of Learning Easily and Expeditiously the Greek Tongue. 12mo.

Travis, George, Archdeacon: Letters to Edward Gibbon. London, 1794. 8vo.

This is on the philological question as to the authenticity of I. John, v. 7, and belongs, like Middleton's book on the Greek Article, though on a grammatical point, to Biblical interpretation (theology), rather than the place to which accident has obliged it to be assigned. Bishop Burgess has also given a like tract. To the letters Porson replied by his justly-celebrated piece of criticism, Letters to Archdeacon Travis, in answer to his Defence of the Three Heavenly Witnesses. London, 1790. 8vo. Bishop Marsh also answered Travis by Letters to Archdeacon Travis.

Of Greek grammars, those of Buttman and Matthiæ are now the most esteemed. Of elder ones, that of the Port Royal alone may be said to retain its utility. On Greek pronunciation, Havercamp's collection is important: Sylloge Scriptorum de Pronunciatione Linguæ Græcæ. Leyden, 1736. 2 vols. 8vo. Hoogeven's Doctrina Particularum; Viger de Idiotismis; Bos, Ellipses Græcæ; Ammonius de Adfinium Vocabulorum Differentiis; Maittaire, Greek Dialects, are indispensable grammatical helps. Of Dictionaries, Suidas, Hesychius, the Etymologicon Magnum, Julius Pollux, Damm's Lexicon Homericum, Timæus Sophister's Lexicon Platonicum, Portus's Lexicon Pindaricum, Moeris Atticista's Lexicon Atticum, Sanxay's Lexicon Aristophanicum, Booth's Lexicon of Primitive Greek words, Scapula's Lexicon, and more especially the Thesaurus of Henry Stephens, are necessary for the pure Greek authors. For the decline of the language, and for the Byzantine writers in particular, the glossary of Ducange, Mediæ et infimæ Græcitatis, is of main necessity. It has been re-edited by Adelung. Of the writers in Romaic (or modern Greek) a good little sketch may be found in the notes to the second canto of Childe Harold. David has given a grammar of it in French; and Robertson a short English one.

Latin and its Descendants.

Ainsworth's Latin and English Dictionary. London, 1746. 4to.

Dumesnil: Latin Synonymes, with their different Significations and Examples, taken from the best Latin Authors. Translated, with Additions and Corrections, by J. M. Gosset. London, 1825. 8vo.

Munster, Sebastian: Dictionarium tri-lingue, in quo Scilicet Latinis Vocabulis, in ordinem Alphabeticum dispositis, respondent Græca et Hebraica: Hebraicis adjecta sunt Magistralia et Chaldaica. 1562. Folio.

For the early Latin tongue, Funccius's De Origine et pueritia Latinæ Linguæ; Lanzi's Saggio di Lingua etrusca ed altre antiche d'Italia; the Minerva of Sanctius; Gothofred's collection, Auctores Linguæ Latinæ in unum corpus redacti (S. Gervasiæ, 1602, 4to), and the other, of Putschius, Grammaticæ Latinæ Auctores Antiqui (Hanover, 1605, 2 vols. 4to), are important. Of dictionaries, the old ones of Robert Stevens, of Calepinus, of Voss, of Gesner, of Ainsworth, &c., have all sunk into comparative inutility before the admirable performance of Facciolati and Forcellini; which has been well re-edited and Englished by Bailey (London, 1828, 2 vols. 4to). For the Barbaric Latin, Ducange's glossary is the great guide, and a book of the highest importance as to the laws, antiquities, &c., of the middle ages.

2. Provençal.

Lewis, G. C.: Essay on the Origin and Formation of the Romance Languages. Oxford, 1833. 8vo.

This is written in confutation of the theory of Raynouard, in his excellent Grammaire Comparée des Langues Latines de l'Europe (Paris, 1821, 8vo): a book forming a sort of introduction to his collection of Provençal poetry, the Choix des Poésies des Troubadours, Paris, 1821, 6 vols. 8vo; of which his Dictionnaire Provençal makes the useful sequel. There are also the following: Schlegel Observations sur la Langue et la Littérature Provençales, Paris, 1818, 8vo; Pellas, Dictionnaire Provençal et François, Avignon, 1723, 4to. The poetical collections of Sismondi; of Le Grand d'Aussy; of Brueys; Millot's Literary History of the Troubadours, and Michaud's Bibliothéque des Croisades, afford the main additional sources for the study of this elegant early dialect.

3. Italian.

Baretti's Dictionary, Italian and English. 4to.

Gaetani: Crestomatia Italiana. Leipsig, 1783. 12mo.

Grammar in Italian, German, and French. 12mo.

Kramer: Italiaenische Grammatic. Nuremberg, 1753. 8vo.

Tomaso: Grammatica Reggia Italiana e Tedesca. Vienna, 1773. 12mo.

In Italian, the grammatical labours of Trissino, Giambullari, Galeani, Alunno, Varchi, and Buommattei have, with the labours of their academies, gone far towards the complete elucidation of that fine tongue, which a long line of great poets had so much adorned. Their laborious and copious Vocabolario della Crusca offers the best dictionary possessed by any modern tongue, and dispenses us from the mention of any other. Its best edition is of Verona, 1806, 7 in 4 vols. 4to.

4. French.

French Grammar. 12mo.

Dictionnaire Universel (de Trevoux), François et Latin. Paris, 1771. 8 vols. folio.

Dictionnaire de l'Académie Française. Paris, l'An 7. 2 vols. 4to.

Roquefort, De: Dictionnaire Etimologique de la Langue Fraçaise: les mots Classés par familles, &c. Paris, 1829. 2 vols. 8vo.

Synonymes Français. 12mo.

Of the old French language, there is a dictionary by Lacombe. Paris, 1766. 2 vols. 8vo. Its etymology is chiefly indebted to the labours of Ménage, in his Dictionnaire Etymologique de la Langue Française. Paris, 1750. 2 vols. folio. The Dictionnaire de l'Académie is indispensable, and has lately received a fresh rédaction. Boiste has also executed, of late, a dictionary of no little utility for more popular purposes. It embraces various auxiliary parts of much convenience. On its grammar, Robert Stephens, Desmarais, Vaugelas, Ménage, Bouhours, and finally Duvivier, in his Grammaire des Grammaires, have been the chief writers. The admirable and profound Grammaire générale de Port Royal belongs to universal grammar rather than that of the French tongue.

5. Spanish and its Dialects.

Del Mar: Spanish Grammar. 12mo.

Dictionnaire de l'Académie Espagnole. Paris, 1826. 8vo.

Dufief: Nature Displayed: adapted to the Spanish Language. Philadelphia, 1811. 2 vols. 8vo.

Grammar of the Spanish Language. 8vo.

Guide to Conversation, in Spanish and English. 12mo.

Neuman: Dictionary of the Spanish and English Languages. Philadelphia, 1823. 2 vols. 8vo.

The following are the most esteemed treatises on the Spanish language: Aldrete, Del origen de la Lengua Castellaña; Mayans, Origines de la Lengua Española; Grammatica de la real Academia Española; Ortografia de la misma, por la misma. The only good dictionary is the complete one of the Academie, Madrid, 1726, or 1770, 6 volumes, folio. The abridgment in a single volume folio, Madrid, 1783, or 1803, is next in utility. Of the Basque, Castilian, and Latin, there is a sufficiently good vocabulary by Larramendi, San Sebastiano, 1745, 2 vols. folio. The Basque is supposed to be the original tongue of Iberia.

6. Portuguese.

Dictionary of the Portuguese and English Languages. 12mo.

Grammar of the Portuguese Language. 8vo.

On this branch of the Castilian, there are the following treatises; Nuñez de Liao, Origem da Lingoa Portuguesa. De Sousa, Vestigios da Lingua Arabica em Portugal. Porto, Nova Grammatica Franceza, e Portugeza. Marques, Dictionnaire des Langues Française et Portuguaise. Bluteau, Vocabulario Portuguez e Latino. Coinbra, 1712. 10 vols. folio.

1. Teutonic, or German and its Branches.

Arnold: Kleines Worterbuch Englisch und Deutsch. Zullechau, 1784. 8vo.

Chirchmair: Gramatica della Lengua Tedesca. Venice, 1778. 12mo.

Dutch and English Lexicon. Leipsig, 1765. 4to.

Ludwig: Deutsch Englische Lexicon. Leipsig, 1765. 4to.

Zeydelaar: De Hoogduytsche Spraakmeester. Amsterdam, 1772. 8vo.

Doing much as the Germans have done for the philology of other tongues, they have not, of course, neglected their own. In its archaiology, Leibnitz may be said to have led the way; and Adelung and many other able but less equal successors have carried forward the researches into the language. The first named left an important collection, the Collectanea Etymologica illustrationi Linguarum veteris Celticæ Germanicæ, &c., inservientia. Hanover, 1717. 2 vols.

8vo. They possess various skilful grammars, recently written, among which that of Bekker (in English) is of great merit.

2. Low Dutch.

Zeydelaar: Grammaire Hollandaise. Utrecht, 1781. 8vo.

There is a good Dutch and French dictionary by Marin. Amsterdam, 1793. 2 vols. 4to.

3. English.

Bailey: English Dictionary. London, 1755. Folio.

———: The same. Edinburgh, 1800. 8vo.

Brown: English Grammar. 12mo.

Cadena: Elementos de la Lengua Inglesa, para los Españoles. New-York, 1810. 8vo.

Grimshaw: Etymological Dictionary. 12mo.

Grose: Classical Dictionary of the Vulgar Tongue, revised and corrected, with Additions of numerous Slang Phrases: collected by Pierce Egan. London, 1823. 8vo.

Harris, James: Hermes. Works, vol. II., Polygraphs.

———: Philological Inquiries. Works, vols. III., IV., V., Polygraphs.

Upon the first of these Horne Tooke's Diversions of Purley frequently offers a severe commentary. (These belong principally to logic.)

Hartley: Principles of Punctuation. 12mo.

Ingersoll: Conversations on Grammar. 12mo.

Johnson, Dr. Samuel: Dictionary of the English Language. Philadelphia, 1818. 2 vols. 4to.

———: The same, abridged. 12mo.

———: Philological Tracts, in his Works, vol. II., Polygraphs.

———: Preface to his Dictionary.

Johnson: Treatise on Language; or, the relations which Words bear to Things. New-York, 1836. 12mo.

This is a performance of not a little acuteness; belonging, however, rather to logic than philology.

Language: its connexion with the Present Condition, Fortune, and Prospects of Man. Providence, 1836. 12mo.

This also is placed here by omission from its proper place, Logic.

Murray: Grammar. 8vo.

Spait, H.: Alliter; or, the Melody of Language. New-York, 1836. 12mo.

A ridiculous system of improving the euphony of all language, by turning it, verse or prose, into constant alliteration.

Town: Analysis of the Derivative Words of the English Language; or, a Key to their precise Analytic Definitions, by Prefixes and Suffixes. New-York, 1836. 12mo.

Walker: Critical and Pronouncing Dictionary. 8vo.

———: The same, abridged. 12mo.

Webster: American Dictionary of the English Language. New-York, 1828. 2 vols. 4to.

Webster: Dissertations on the English Language, with Notes, Historical and Critical; to which is added, by way of Appendix, a Reformed Mode of Spelling, with Dr. Franklin's Arguments on that Subject. Boston, 1789. 8vo.

To the above, Richardson's Dictionary, which is even better than Johnson's for all literary uses, should certainly be added. Of Webster's, the rival which America has given to both of them, it is impossible to speak with praise. For the main purposes of a dictionary, the ascertaining of a language's elegant speech and its historic changes, nothing can be more unfit. A good grammar our language cannot be said to possess. Skinner and Junius are the main original elucidators of English etymology. In Anglo-Saxon, Hickes and Lye stood somewhat alone, till the late Danish, Swedish, and German school of inquirers into the tongue arose, headed by Raske.

Jameson's Dictionary of the Scottish Language; Shaw's of Gaelic and English; O'Brien's Irish-English; Vallancey's Grammar of Irish, should here be mentioned. Grose has given, besides his slang-dictionary, one, of the provincialisms of England. To this Pegge has added another volume. Nare's Glossary of words chiefly Shakspearian is also valuable. Alexander Murray and Whiter have distinguished themselves by two wild attempts in etymology: the former tracing back all European and Asiatic dialects to nine primitive syllables, of Ag, Bag, Wag, Rag, Dag, Snag, &c.; and the latter having an hypothesis of nearly like extravagance. Both are, nevertheless, performances in which much learning and even philosophy appear, though tributary, everywhere, to great absurdities.

CHAPTER CXL.

Epistles.

Abelard and Eloisa: Letters. Translated from the Latin.

See, also, in poetry, Pope's well-known paraphrase. Late discoveries in France have brought to light important literary remains of Abeillard. A curious article on him may be found in Bayle's Dictionary—Biography. Berington has given a good life of Abeillard and Eloisa, with translations from their letters.

Aikin: Letters from a Father to his Son on various Topics relative to Literature and the Conduct of Life. 12mo.

Bentley: Dissertation on the Epistles of Phalaris, Themistocles, &c. London, 1836. 2 vols. 8vo.

Ferry, F. P.: Art of Epistolary Correspondence. 12mo.

Montague, Lady Mary: Works. 5 vols. 12mo.

———, Mrs. Elizabeth: Letters. 3 vols. 12mo.

Maintenon, Madame de: Secret Correspondence with the Princess des Ursins. Translated. London, 1827. 3 vols. 8vo.

Porney: Models of Letters, in French and English. 12mo.

Randolph: Letters to his Nephew. 8vo.

Racine: Letters to his Nephew. 12mo.

Sévigné, Madame de: Lettres à sa Fille et à ses Amis. Paris, 1806. 8 tomes 8vo.

Sévigné, Madame de: Lettres Choisies. Paris, 1815. 2 tomes 12mo.

Tunstall: Observations on the Present Collection of Epistles between Cicero and M. Brutus, representing several evident Marks of Forgery in these Epistles, &c. London, 1744. 8vo.

Walpole, Horace: Letters. 2 vols. 12mo.

Warburton: Letters. 8vo.

Wirt: Letters of a British Spy. 12mo.

See, also, in Polygraphs, the following, at the names of the several authors: Addison, Letters; Bolingbroke, Public and Private Correspondence; Bacon, Letters; Burke, Letters; Coleridge, Letters; Chesterfield, Letters; Cowper, Letters; Franklin, Letters; Goldsmith, Letters; Gray, Poems and Letters; Johnson, Letters; Jones, Letters; Hannah More, Letters; New Elegant Extracts; Sharp, Letters; Sir Wm. Temple, Correspondence; Sterne, Letters; Swift, Correspondence; Milton, Letters, Latin and English; Berkeley, Letters; Locke, Correspondence; Washington, Letters, public and private; Racine, Lettres; Rousseau, Correspondence; Voltaire, Correspondence; Boileau, Lettres; Fontenelle, Lettres; Frederic II., Lettres; Montesquieu, Lettres Persannes and others; Machiavelli, Lettere. Goethe, Briefe; Schiller, Briefe.

Also, in Biography, Bray's Memoirs of Evelynn; Collingwood's Correspondence and Memoirs of Admiral Collingwood; Crabbe, Life of the poet Crabbe; Gregory, Memoirs of Robert Hall; Mrs. Heber's Life of Bishop Heber; Herbert of Cherbury, Life; M'Crie, Life of Knox; Mirabeau's Memoirs, Letters, &c.; Pepys, Memoirs, &c.; Prior, Life of Goldsmith; Waterman, Life of Calvin; Lockhart, Life of Scott.

In English, there are not many further collections of value, unless we add those of Pope; the correspondence of Samuel Richardson (London, 1806, 6 vols. 8vo); the Sydney and Dryden's Letters; the complete series of those of Lord Walpole; and Ellis's interesting collection of letters illustrative of English history. Those passing popularly under the name of the younger Lord Littleton are a forgery. So are those translated from the French, as the Letters of Ninon de l'Enclos. They are written by Damours. The pretended letters of certain Jews to Voltaire have obtained much of their currency from their supposed authenticity. They are by the Abbé Guenée.

I. Introduction. History and Collections.

Scott, Sir Walter: Lives of the Novelists. Works, vol. 3, Polygraphs.

Place, M. de la: Collection de Romans et contes; traduits de l'Anglois, corrigés et nevus de nouveau. Paris, 1788. 6 tomes 8vo.

In English, the agreeable work of Dunlop, his History of Fiction, London, 1814, 3 vols sm. 8vo, may be said to be the only account we have of this branch of literature. Ballantyne's Collection of Romances embraces only some twelve or fifteen authors, those of whom the lives are written by Sir Walter Scott. Mrs. Inchbald's collection takes but a slight range. Some of the more curious pieces of Italian, German, and Spanish popular romances have been collected into English by Roscoe, in his Novelists. Warton's History of English Poetry contains much upon the earlier fictions of our language.

In French, we may cite the elegant little history of romance by Huet, his Origine des Romans, Paris, 1711, 12mo, and the esteemed disquisition of Fauchet, his Recueil de l'origine de la Langue Française, rhyme et Romans, in his works. Paris, 1610. 4to. Lenglet du Fresnoy has given a somewhat similar book, under title De l'usage des Romans. There are two large French collections, the Bibliotheque Universelle des Romans, 112 vols, 12mo, and the Nouvelle Bibliothèque des Romans, 56 vols. 12mo.

II. Ancient Greek Romances.

ΗΛΙΟΔΩΡΟΥ ΑΙΘΙΟΠΙΚΩΝ, ΒΙΒΛΙΑΔΕΚΑ, cum Animadversionibus, Joannis Bourdelotii: recensuit Schmidius. Græcé. Leipsic, 1772. 8vo.

Nicetæ Eugeniani Narratio Amatoria: Constantini Manassis Fragmenta. Græcé, edidit Jo. Fr. Boissonade. Leyden, 1819. 2 in 1 vol. 16mo.

Nonni Panopolitæ, Dionysiaca, nunc primum in lucem edita, ex Bibliotheca Jo. Sambuci Pannonii, cum lectionibus et conjecturis Gerarti Falkenburgii noviomagi. Græcé antuerpiæ, ex Officina Christophori Plantini. 1569.

The above are but a part of that curious series, the Ionian Romances—the earliest efforts of fictitious prose narrative; unless, indeed, we assign Xenophon's Cyropædia to a class which it so closely approaches. The other Greek novelists are Lucian (his Ass, &c.), Parthenius, Conon, Athenagoras, Longus (in whom Courier has restored the hiatus), Xenophon Ephesius, Theodorus Prodromus, Eustathius, and Chariton Aphrodisiensis. The most valued of the series are Heliodorus and Longus. These, with Achilles, Tatius, and Xenophon of Ephesus, are given in an esteemed collection, Scriptores Eratici Græcè, from the press of Deux Ponts, 1792, 3 parts in 4 vols. 8vo. The entire series is translated into Italian by Annibal Caro and others, and into French, under title of Bibliotheque des Romans Grecs. Paris, 1797. 12 vols. 18mo.

In Latin, there is a like series, formed by Apuleius (Golden Ass), Petronius, and, we may say, Philostratus's Life of Apollonius of Tyana. The two former, as well as the surviving Greek writers, are supposed to have written upon the model of those Milisian tales, of which Aristides was the most celebrated composer. See, also, among Fables, the Gesta Romanorum; which are a body of monkish tales, the forerunners of the romances of chivalry; Amadis, Launcelot du lac, Merlin, Arthur, &c.

Rabelais, François, The Works of: Translated into English, with Notes. London, 1807. 4 vols. 12mo.

This is the version of Sir Thomas Urquhart, and held a model of excellence in translation. In a certain class of English expressions, it is recognised as the main philological authority. The works of Rabelais consist only of his Gargantua and its sequels. Sterne has copied him, and even Swift, as may be said to be intimated in the address to him at the opening of the Dunciad.

FINE ARTS.

Introduction.

Cunningham, Allan: Lives of British Painters and Sculptors. (Family Library.) New-York, 1831. 5 vols. 18mo.

Dunlap, William: History of the Rise and Progress of the Arts of Design in the United States. New-York, 1834. 2 vols. 8vo.

Harris: Dialogues on the Fine Arts, &c. Works, Polygraphs. History of Sculpture, Painting, and Architecture. 12mo.

I. Architecture.

Antiquarian Itinerary, comprising Specimens of Architecture, Monastic, Castellated, and Domestic, with other Vestiges of Antiquity in Great Britain: with Plates. London, 1817. 7 vols. 8vo.

Blondel: Cours d'Architecture; ou traité de la Décoration, Distribution et Construction des batimens. Paris, 1771. 9 vols. 8vo.

He was much esteemed as an architect, and the writer of the main articles in the French Encyclopedia on his art. In this treatise, three volumes are occupied by plates.

Charnock: Marine Architecture. London, 1800. 3 vols. 4to.

Glossary of Terms used in Grecian, Roman, Italian, and Gothic Architecture, exemplified by 150 Woodcuts. London, 1836. 8vo.

Loudon: Encyclopædia of Cottage, Farm, and Villa Architecture and Furniture: containing Designs for Dwellings, Agricultural Buildings, Inns, Parochial Schools, appropriate Offices, Gardens, &c.; accompanied with Analytical Remarks, and above 2000 Engravings. London, 1835. Large 8vo.

Pope: Treatise on Bridge Architecture. New-York, 1825. 8vo.

Stewart: Dictionary of Architecture, Historical, Descriptive, Topographical, Decorative, &c. London. 3 vols. 8vo.

See, further, Gell's Pompeii, and other works on the antiquities of Greece and Italy, Geography.

In architecture, Vitruvius is the great ancient, and Palladio the chief modern master. Of the former, Schneider's edition, Leipsig, 1807, 3 vols. royal 8vo, and of the latter, the version of Scamozzi (French), Venice, 1796, 5 in 3 vols. 4to, are best. For a bibliography of the art, consult Loudon's Encyclopædia of Architecture.

II. Landscape Gardening.

Loudon: Encyclopædia of Gardening, in Agriculture and Horticulture, for a Compendious System of the Art.

Whateley: Observations on Modern Gardening. 8vo.

Repton's Observations on Landscape Gardening, London, 1805, 4to, is perhaps the best book. Mason has also left an agreeable technical poem, the English Gardens. The old essay of Sir William Temple on the Gardens of Epicurus is worth reading.

III. Music.

Bombet: Memoirs of Haydn and Mozart; with Observations on Metastasio, and the Present State of Music in France and Italy. Providence, 1820. 12mo.

Busby, Thomas, Mus. Dr.: History of Music from the Earliest to the Present Times, condensed from Hawkins and Burney; with Essays on the Lives and Works of Purcell, Handel, Haydn, Mozart, Arne, &c. London, 1819. 2 vols. 8vo.

———: Concert Room and Orchestra Anecdotes of Musicians, Ancient and Modern. London, 1825. 3 vols. 12mo.

Crotch, William, Mus. Dr.: Lectures on Music. London, 1831. 8vo.

Parke: Musical Memoirs. London, 1830. 2 vols. 12mo.

On the painting of the ancients, the old book of Junius, De Pictura Veterum, is of authority. Pliny and Pausanias are important. Count Caylus has also much elucidated ancient art. Fiorillo's Geschichte der Mahlerey is of value, though second to Lanzi. Fuseli's lectures; Bell on Expression; the series of books, by Gilpin, on landscapes, forest scenery, &c. (illustrated with aquatints); Algarotti's essay (translated); Ludovico Dolce's Dialogo della Pittura; the works of Albert Durer in French; those of Mengs, in Italian; Rubens and Le Brun's theories, are all of value.

V. Sculpture.

Memes: Life of Canova; with a Historical View of Modern Sculpture. Edinburgh, 1825. 8vo.

See, also, in Constable's Miscellany (Polygraphs), the curious and very entertaining life of Benvenuto Cellini for many particulars.

On art among the ancients, the Abbé Winkelman's Histoire de l'Art chez les Anciens is of acknowledged superiority to all other performances: the edition, Paris, An. II. 3 vols. 4to. The Storia della Scultura of Count Cicognara, Venice, 1813, 3 vols. folio, and the labours of Boettiger, afford important additions to him. We may here refer, also, to the Polymetis of Spence; Bromley's History of the Fine Arts; Dallaway's Anecdotes of the Arts; Heyne's Archaiologie der Kunst; Flaxman's Lectures; Prince Hoare's Epochs of the Arts; Vasari's very esteemed Vite de' piu eccellenti Pittori; Milizia's Dizionario delle belle Arte; and the poem of Martin Archer Shee, Rhymes on Art.

Charles the First, King: Works of; with a Collection of Declarations, Treaties, and other Papers, concerning the Differences between his Majesty and his two Houses of Parliament: with a History of his Life, Trial, and Martyrdom. London, 1687. Folio.

The collection includes, of course, the main piece, the assumed authorship of which got his majesty all his fame as an author, and much of his equally ill-deserved sanctity as a martyr. The researches of Dr. Wordsworth and others seem to have made it clear that Bishop Gauden was the real author of the Εἰκὼν Βασιλική.

A great statesman, a devoted patriot, and a writer of almost unequalled excellence; whose singular political talents were given, with the highest constancy d through severe personal misfortunes, to the service of his country and its erties. Writing, however, a satire on tyranny so artfully disguised that it emed composed as a manual for despots, he has had the hard fate of being misken by those on whom it was less his aim to impose, and to have his name pass to a byword of atrocious skill. In his own country he is less misinterpret-; as witness the praises of another of its highest spirits, Alfieri: nor have the English misapprehended him: witness the following opinion of one of the st of English scholars, Gray the poet. "I rejoice when I see Macchiavelli deded or illustrated, who to me appears one of the wisest men that any nation any age has produced." Of his life of Castruccio, De Thou says (in the nuana), "La vie de Castruccio a été faite par Macchiavelli et par Alde Manuce; ais celle de ce dernier est plus belle et plus estimée." It is, however, a liberrissimus.

The following Alterations have been made in the Constitution.

ARTICLE 15 now reads—There shall be an annual meeting of the members of this Association, on the second Tuesday of January, for the purpose of receiving the Report of the Treasurer and Board of Directors; and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented to them.

ARTICLE 18 now reads—Six weeks previous to the second Tuesday of January, of each year, the Board of Direction shall call a meeting of the members of the Association, for the purpose of appointing a Committee of seven, whose duty it shall be to nominate Officers for the ensuing year, and to publish said nomination at least three weeks before the election.

ARTICLE 19 now reads—There shall be no alteration in this Constitution, unless the same shall have been proposed to the Board of Direction one month previous to an annual meeting, and then approved of by two-thirds of the members of the Association then present.

The following has been added:

ARTICLE 20. There shall be an election for officers of this Association, on the Wednesday following the second Tuesday of January; the polls to be opened at 10 o'clock, A. M., and closed at 9 o'clock, P. M., and no member shall be entitled to vote, who is in arrears for dues.

CONSTITUTION.

We, the subscribers, merchants' clerks in the city of New-York, being desirous to adopt the most efficient means to facilitate mutual intercourse; to extend our information upon mercantile and other subjects of general utility; promote a spirit of useful inquiry, and qualify ourselves to discharge with dignity the duties of our profession and the social offices of life, have associated ourselves for the purpose of collecting and establishing a Library and Reading-room, to be appropriated to the use of young men engaged in mercantile pursuits; and have, for our government, adopted the following Constitution:—

Art. 1. This association shall be known by the name of "The MERCANTILE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION" of the city of New-York.

Art. 2. The officers of the association shall be a President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, and eight Directors; to be elected annually. The President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer by separate ballot; the Directors by general ticket.

Art. 3. The President shall preside at the meetings; preserve order therein; and, in case of an equal division of the members on any question, give the casting vote.

Art. 4. The Vice-President shall preside in the absence of the President, and perform all the duties of that officer.

Art. 5. The Secretary shall keep an accurate record of the transactions of the association; and, under the superintendence of the Board of Direction, conduct its correspondence.

Art. 6. The Treasurer shall receive all dues and donations in money; pay all draughts on him when signed by the Secretary and countersigned by the President; keep a regular account of the financial concerns of the association, an abstract of which, accompanied by satisfactory vouchers, he shall exhibit at each annual meeting.

ART. 7. The Treasurer shall give security in the sum of one thousand dollars for the faithful discharge of his trusts.

ART. 8. The President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, and Directors shall constitute a Board of Direction, with full powers to appropriate funds, enact by-laws, and generally conduct the affairs of the association. It shall meet at least once in each month for the transaction of business; and, at the annual meeting, report its proceedings for the past year, and the state of the concerns of the association.

ART. 9. In case any vacancies shall occur in the Board of Direction by death, resignation, removal, or inability to discharge the duties of their respective offices, the board shall have power to fill such vacancies.

ART. 10. A Librarian, appointed by the Board of Direction, shall attend at the library on each day of the week (Sunday excepted); shall keep a register of all books, magazines, maps, charts, papers, and all other property in his possession belonging to the association; arrange them in proper order; make a record thereof, with the names of the donors; and keep an accurate account of the books delivered to members.

ART. 11. Each member, on subscribing to the Constitution, shall pay an initiation fee of one dollar, and one dollar for the first six months, and fifty cents thereafter quarterly in advance.

ART. 12. Any person (engaged in mercantile business as a clerk) may, if approved of by a majority of the Board of Direction, become a member of this association, on complying with the terms of the preceding article.

ART. 13. Any merchant not eligible to regular membership in this association shall become entitled to the privileges of an Honorary Member on subscribing to the Constitution, and paying the sum of five dollars annually, in advance, so long as he shall continue a member; but shall not be entitled to a vote, or to act in any official capacity.

ART. 14. Any member of this association commencing business on his own account shall be entitled to the privileges of an Honorary Member by continuing the semi-annual contribution of one dollar.

ART. 15. There shall be an annual meeting of the members of this association on the second Tuesday of January for the purpose of receiving the report of the Treasurer and Board of Direction; electing officers for the ensuing year; and the transaction of such other business as may be presented to them.

ART. 16. The President, at the request of two thirds of the Board of Direction, shall call a meeting of the members for the transaction of special business.

ART. 17. A Committee shall be appointed by the Board of Direction to examine the books and other property belonging to the association, and report thereon at least one month previous to each annual meeting.

ART. 18. One month previous to each annual meeting the Board of Direction shall call a meeting of the association for the purpose of appointing a Committee of seven members to nominate suitable officers for the succeeding year.

ART. 19. There shall be no alteration in this Constitution, unless the same shall have been proposed to the Board of Direction at least one month previous to an annual meeting, and then approved of by two thirds of the members of the association.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

FOR THE LIBRARY AND READING-ROOM.

ART. 1. The Library and Reading-room shall be open from 10 o'clock A.M. until 10 o'clock P.M. every day, except Sundays, the Fourth of July, Annual Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Newyear's.

ART. 2. The Librarian shall give security in the penal sum of one thousand dollars for the faithful discharge of the duties of his office, and shall hold his office at the pleasure of the Board of Direction.

ART. 3. He shall register in a book prepared for that purpose, and to be kept in the Library-room, the name of each member of this association; and shall in no case deliver a book to any member until the name of such member shall have been so registered.

ART. 4. He shall enter in a book to be kept for that purpose the number of every volume delivered by him; the name of the person to whom delivered, the time of taking and returning the same, together with the forfeitures arising from every default.

ART. 5. He shall keep a full and accurate catalogue of the books belonging to the association, and a duplicate of the same, which shall at all times be open to the inspection of the members.

ART. 6. He shall collect all forfeitures incurred by the members, and account for the same to the Treasurer on the first Thursday of each month.

ART. 7. He shall, from time to time, report to the Board of Direction the names of such members as may refuse to pay their forfeitures, lose or damage any book belonging to the Library; and, at their first regular meeting in March, June, September, and December, report to the Board the names of all delinquents, with the amount of dues remaining unpaid.

ART. 8. He shall suffer no person, except members of the Board, to remove a book from its place in the Library without his permission.

ART. 9. He shall replace the books in proper order upon the shelves as soon as may be after they are returned, having first ex-examined them with care, and ascertained whether they have been injured or defaced.

ART. 10. He shall see that the books, Library-room, and Reading-room are kept in good order; shall duly observe the instructions which may be given him by the Board of Direction, and take care that the regulations relative to the loaning of books be strictly adhered to.

ART. 11. He shall ascertain, during the month of January, April, July, and October, by examination of the account of each member, the book or books not then returned to the Library in due season; and he shall cause the same to be procured of the member in default.

ART. 12. The Librarian shall deliver to any member applying, one volume, if it be a folio, quarto, or octavo; and one book or set (not exceeding three volumes), if a duodecimo, or volume of less size.

ART. 13. Every member may detain each book or set delivered aforesaid, if it be a folio or quarto, four weeks, an octavo, three weeks, or a book, or a set of less size, two weeks; except new publications, which, until they shall have been in the Library four months, shall not be detained, an octavo longer than two weeks, and books of less size one week, and which shall not be renewed. No book shall be reserved by the Librarian for any director or member.

ART. 14. Any member who shall detain a book or set longer than the time above limited, respectively, shall forfeit and pay to the Librarian, for every day a volume is so detained, if it be a folio, four cents; a quarto, three cents; an octavo, two cents; if it be a duodecimo, or smaller volume, or a pamphlet, one cent; provided, always, if a whole set be taken out and a part of it detained longer than the time above limited, the fine shall be exacted for each book not returned; and if such book be detained one week beyond the time above limited, the forfeiture shall be doubled.

ART. 15. The holders of all books not returned at the time directed by the Board for the purpose of an examination of the Library shall be liable, at the discretion of the Board, to have their names exposed at the annual meeting as defaulters.

ART. 16. If any member lose or injure a book, he shall make the same good to the Librarian; and if the book lost or injured be one of a set, he shall pay the Librarian, for the use of the association, the full value of said set, and may thereupon receive the remaining volumes as his property.

ART. 17. No member shall be permitted to receive a book from the Library until he shall have paid all sums due from him to the association, and make good all damages and losses which he may have occasioned.

ART. 18. No member shall lend a book belonging to this association to any person out of the dwelling-house or counting-room of said member.

ART. 19. Each member shall have the privilege of using any book from the Library in the Reading-room, though at the same time in possession of a book belonging to the association; yet it will be considered an invariable rule that such book must be resigned to any member drawing it from the Library.

ART. 20. No periodical work shall be taken from the room until three months shall have elapsed from the time of its being received.

ART. 21. The books marked in the catalogue with an asterisk (*), and such others as may from time to time be especially designated by the Board, shall not be taken from the Library, except by special permission of the Board.

ART. 22. The Librarian shall enter upon a slate all books drawn to be read in the Reading-room, and when returned to him, after due examination, shall erase the entry.

ART. 23. Any member wishing to withdraw from the association must inform the Librarian of it; see that his resignation is registered, and pay up his dues and fees; else he will be considered as continuing a member, and charged accordingly.

REGULATIONS OF THE READING-ROOM.

Art. 1. No member shall be permitted to sit in the Reading-room with his hat on.

Art. 2. No conversation shall be allowed in the Reading-room otherwise than in a whisper.

ART. 3. No person shall be permitted to smoke, spit on the floor, damage or injure the furniture thereof, or conduct in any way inconsistent with decorum.

ART. 4. Any member who shall mutilate the periodicals or papers placed in the Reading-room shall be liable to a fine equal to four times the cost thereof.

ART. 5. Any member may have the privilege of introducing a friend not a resident of the city; whose name shall be registered by the Librarian in a book provided for that purpose, and who will receive a ticket of admission to the Reading-room for the term of four weeks.

THIS AGREEMENT

Between the Clinton Hall Association of the City of New-York, of the first part, and the Mercantile Library Association of New-York, of the second part, WITNESSETH:

That the party of the first part, being the owner of a building called Clinton Hall, situate on the corner of Beekman and Nassau streets, in the city of New-York, do hereby stipulate and agree with the party of the second part as follows:—

1st. That the party of the second part may occupy, free of rent, two rooms in said building, which have been appropriated for a Library and Reading-room; and may use, when not wanted by the party of the first part, the room called the Trustees' and Directors' Room; and may use also the Lecture Hall for the general meetings of the association, and for lectures to be delivered to its members, as often as twice in each week: which privileges shall be enjoyed under such terms and conditions as are hereinafter expressed, and for as long a time as they are fulfilled to the satisfaction of the party of the first part. Additional room for the Library and Reading-room, and additional nights for the Lecture Hall, shall be set apart, if necessary, on the same conditions.

2d. That when the cost of erecting and fitting up said building, and the cost of the lots, with the accruing interest, shall have been paid, either by new subscriptions, by the rents of the building, or from any other source, the surplus funds arising from rents shall be laid out in such books, cabinets, or scientific apparatus as the party of the first part may deem proper; the said party reserving to itself the right to make earlier appropriations for those purposes. All such books, cabinets, or apparatus shall continue to belong to the party of the first part, and shall be deposited in the building, and be used by the members of the Clinton Hall and Mercantile Library Associations, under such regulations as may be made by the parties of the first part for that purpose.

And the party of the second part doth hereby stipulate and agree with the party of the first part as follows:—

1st. That its Library shall be deposited in the room or rooms of said building appropriated to receive it; that the room or rooms set apart as Reading-rooms shall be used by its members for that purpose; and that the Lecture Hall shall be used for the general meetings of the association, and for the lectures which are delivered to its members.

2d. That during the continuance of this agreement it will pay the taxes on said building, if any are imposed; and will, at its own cost, keep the rooms it occupies in full and complete repair, and defray such proportion of the expenses of lighting and warming the house as may be fair and equitable.

3d. That the whole income of the party of the second part, after defraying the necessary charges of the establishment (not including the expense of lectures), shall be annually invested in books, which shall be deposited in the Library with its other books, and the shareholders of the Clinton Hall Association shall have access to the library free of charge, under the same regulations as the members of the Mercantile Library Association are subjected to, without giving to such shareholders a right to vote in the elections of that association.

4th. That in case the Trustees of the Clinton Hall Association shall be of opinion that the party of the second part shall convert the rooms it occupies in the said building to any purpose not intended by the party of the first part, or that the character of the Mercantile Library Association shall have become so changed that its usefulness shall have ceased, or that it shall have deposited immoral or irreligious books in its library, and not removed them within twenty days after being advised to do so by the Trustees of the Clinton Hall Association; or that they shall have wilfully neglected or violated any of the stipulations contained in this agreement; then the said Trustees may call a meeting of the shareholders of the Clinton Hall Association and the directors of the Mercantile Library Association, and lay before the meeting the facts, to show that either of those contingences has occurred; and the shareholders of the Clinton Hall Association, after a full consideration, may determine to resume the use and occupation of the rooms so appropriated, and the books, cabinets, and apparatus purchased by the party of the first part; and such determination shall be final and conclusive on the party of the second part, who shall thereupon surrender and give up the premises and the said books, cabinets, and apparatus to the party of the first part, and shall remove from said building after thirty days' notice of such determination.

5th. That the shareholders of the Clinton Hall Association may attend the course of lectures which may be delivered to the Mercantile Library Association on the same terms as are enjoyed by its members.

In witness whereof, the said parties have respectfully caused their corporate seals to be hereunto affixed, and these presents to be signed by their respective Presidents, the second day of November, one thousand eight hundred and thirty.

Index of Subjects, Alphabetically arranged; showing at One View all that the Library contains on each Subject.

"Studies serve for delight, for ornament, and for ability. Their chief use for delight, is in privateness and retiring; for ornament, is in discourse; and for ability, is in judgment and disposition for business.—

"Read, not to contradict and confute, nor to believe and take for granted, nor to find talk and discourse; but to weigh and consider.—

"If a man write little, he had need have a great memory; if he confer little, he had need have a present wit; and if he read little, he had need have much cunning to seem to know that which he doth not. Histories make men wise; Poets, witty; the Mathematics, subtle; Natural Philosophy, deep; Moral Philosophy, grave; Logic and Rhetoric, able to contend. Crafty men condemn studies; simple men admire them, and wise men use them." BACON.

NEW-YORK:

PRINTED FOR THE ASSOCIATION, BY H. LUDWIG, CORNER OF VESEY AND GREENWICH-STS.

1840.

Books are not absolutely dead things, but do contain a potencie of life in them to be as active as that soul was, whose progeny they are; nay, they do preserve, as in a viol, the purest efficacy and extraction of that living intellect that bred them. As good almost kill a man, as kill a good book: who kills a man kills a reasonable creature, God's image; but he who destroys a good book, kills reason itself, kills the image of God, as it were in the eye. Many a man lives a burthen to the earth; but a good oook is the precious life-blood of a master spirit, embalmed and treasured up on purpose to a life beyond life. We should be wary, therefore, what persecution we raise against the living labours of public men, how we spill that seasoned life of man, preserved and stored up in books; since we see a kind of homicide may be thus committed, sometimes a martyrdom.

The most complete edition extant; it contains translations as well as the original of the Latin Works, and is illustrated by Portraits, Views, and Facsimiles, with a New Life of Lord Bacon by the Editor. "A learned and valuable work upon the Life of Lord Bacon is prepared for publication by Mr. B. Montagu, in which some very important facts are proved satisfactorily by the ingenious author, and show how much the criminality of this great man is exaggerated in the common accounts of his fall. But it is clearly shown, that he was prevailed upon by the intrigues of James I. and his profligate minister to abandon his own defence, and sacrifice himself to their base and crooked policy—a defence which disgraces them more than vindicates him. One thing, however, is undeniable, that they who so loudly blame Bacon, overlook the meanness of almost all the great statesmen of those courtly times."—Lord Brougham's Discourse of Natural Theology.

Boethius, De Consolatione Philosophiæ, King Alfred's Anglo-Saxon Version, with an English translation and Notes, by I. S. Cardale, 2 vols. 8vo. London, 1829.

"The last of the ancients, and one who forms a link between the Classical period of literature and that of the Middle Ages, in which he was a favourite author, is Boethius, a man of fine genius, and interesting both from his character and his death. It is well known, that, after filling the dignities of Consul and Senator in the court of Theodoric, he fell a victim to the jealousy of a sovereign, from whose memory, in many respects glorious, the stain of that blood has never been effaced. The Consolation of Philosophy, the chief work of Boethius, was written in his prison. Few books are more striking from the circumstances of their production. Last of the classic writers, in style not impure, though displaying too lavishly that poetic exuberance which had distinguished the two preceding centuries, in elevation of sentiment equal to any of the philosophers, and mingling a Christian sanctity with their lessons, he speaks from his prison in the swan-like tones of dying eloquence. The philosophy that consoled him in bonds was soon required in the sufferings of a cruel death. Quenched in his blood, the lamp he had trimmed with a skilful hand gave no more light; the language of Tully and Virgil soon ceased to be spoken; and many ages were to pass away, before learned diligence restored its purity, and the union of genius with imitation taught a few modern writers to surpass in eloquence the latinity of Boethius."—Hallam, Hist. Bossuet, Œuvres, complètes, 12 vols. 8vo. Paris, 1837.

"Nothing short of the most obtuse prejudice could deny to Bossuet the praise of having brought to religious controversy every quality which can render it either formidable or attractive; a style of such transparent perspicuity as would impart delight to the study of the year books, if they could be re-written in it; a sagacity which nothing escapes; and a fervour of thought and feeling so intense, as to breathe and burn not only without the use of vehement or opprobrious words, but through a diction invariably calm and simple; and a mass of learning so vast and so perfectly digested as to be visible every where without producing the slightest encumbrance or embarrassment."—Edin. Rev. Vol. 68.

"The Discourse of Bossuet on Universal History is perhaps the greatest effort of his wonderful genius. Every preceding abridgement of so immense a subject had been superficial and dry He first irradiated the entire annals of antiquity down to the age of Charlemagne, with flashes of light that reveal an unity and coherence which had been lost in their magnitude and obscurity."—Hallam, Hist. "We regard these Essays as the most important series of papers that any one man has contributed to the pre- sent race of Reviews and Magazines—nay, as incom- parably the most so. About two-thirds of the whole re- late to German literature, and of these the greater num- ber to authors who, though all now departed, have been living in our own day Of these portraits none is so remarkable for its subject as that of Göthe. * * * * Surely the sight thus presented to us is a sufficiently sur- prising one. Imagine a man of the mould and aspect of Luther standing forth to proclaim the greatness and immortal beauty of a poet such as Shakspeare. So dra- matic, so symbolic is the contrast between the eulogized and the eulogist. The other dissertations on German literature are all of high value, and show an amount of care and sincerity which may be regarded as quite ex- emplary for such papers. Those on Schiller, Jean Paul, and Novalis are portraits at full length, and living as if done by Rubens. There are also two Essays on French- men of the 18th Century—Voltaire and Diderot—which are also master-pieces of free, strong, and just delinea- tion."

Carlyle, Thomas, Sartor Resartus, the Life and Opinions of Herr Teufelsdröckh, 8vo. Boston, 1835.

"In this book that strange style appears again before us in its highest oddity. Thunder-peals, flute-music, the laugh of Pan and the nymphs, the clear disdainful whisper of cold stoicism, and the hurly-burly of a coun- try fair, succeed and melt into each other. Again the clamour sinks into quiet, and we hear at last the grave, mild hymn of devotion, sounding from a far sanctuary, though only in faint and dying vibrations."

Written in a style which invariably captivates the reader, full of enthusiasm, and gifted with a prolific imagination, he throws a charm over all that he describes.

"No man has surveyed the world with the advantages more various learning, or has communicated to the public the result of his remarks on mankind, in a style more distinguished for clearness, elegance, and facility, than the learned and intelligent author or these matchless volumes. Perhaps no predecessor has combined so many requisites; no traveller was ever more vigilantly inquisitive—saw more varieties of man and nature, or displayed more enterprise and resolution; and no traveller ever did—or will—narrate with a more elegant simplicity. or describe more luminously. We know none of his contemporaries, with the single exception of Humboldt, who could so well have accomplished such an undertaking."—Eclectic Review.

"On the subject of the intellectual character of this remarkable man, there is already a more general agreement of opinion than might have been expected, considering the vehement partisanship of the greater portion of what he has written. His mind was one of extraordinary native vigour, but apparently not well fitted by original endowment any more than by acquirement for speculations of the highest kind. Cobbett's power lay in wielding more effectively perhaps than they ever were wielded before, those weapons of controversy which tell upon what in the literal acceptation of the words may be called the common sense of mankind, that is, those feelings and capacities which nearly all men possess in contradistinction to those of a more refined and exquisite character which belong to a comparatively small number. To these higher feelings and powers he has nothing to say; they and all things that they delight in, are uniformly treated by him with a scorn, real or affected, more frank and reckless certainly in its expression than they have met with from any other great writer. He cares for nothing but t for by the multitude, and by the multitude his own day, and, it may even be said, of l try. Shakspeare, antiquity, posterity, Am Germany, are, one and all, either wholly him, or the objects of his bitter contempt proper line he is matchless. When he that suits him, he handles it, not so much ficial skill of an accomplished writer, perfect and inimitable natural art with picks a bone. There are many things th can do, which he cannot attempt; but thi none but himself can or ever could do it." clopœdia, vol. 7.

Condorcet, M. de, Outlines of an Historical View of the Human Mind, translated from the French, 8vo. London, 1795.

"It is on his application of philosophy to subjects connected with the happiness of mankind, and the amelioration of social institutions, that his fame chiefly rests. The friend of D'Alembert and of his illustrious contemporaries, Condorcet was one of the warmest and most distinguished of Voltaire's disciples. He cannot, it is true, be placed in the first rank, either as a deep thinker or original writer; nevertheless, his meditative and lofty mind, his unabated zeal in the pursuit of truth, his generous ardour, which never cooled or shrunk from the difficulties which it had to encounter, his perseverance in applying himself to all sorts of useful pursuits, and the multiplicity of his labours, have all contributed to assign him a conspicuous place among those who have exercised an influence over the destinies of his country.

"His philosophical views have been widely circulated, and the practical effect of them is still visible in our days. The main doctrine which he sought to inculcate, and which is contained in his 'Esquisse des Progrès de l' Esprit humain,' was the perfectibility of man, considered both in his individual and social capacity. According to him, the human frame and intellect, by the aid of time and education, would infallibly attain to perfection. This was the creed which he professed to substitute in the place of the sanctions of morality and religion. This singular notion, with which he was so deeply imbued, has given to his philosophy a peculiar and special character, which distinguish it alike from the sceptical fatalism of Voltaire, and the gloomy dogmatism of Diderot. In the philanthropic mind of Condorcet, philosophical speculations were blended with the deepest sympathy for his fellow-men, and the most unwearied activity in promoting all such reforms as he thought useful."—Penny Cyclopædia, vol. 7.

——, Life by John Davy, 8vo. London, 1839.

With respect to his philosophical character, the parallel which has been drawn between him and Dr. Wollaston, by the late Dr. Henry, while it does justice to both, presents the powers of Davy in a strong and clear point of view, and in the language of one who was deeply versed in the sciences of which he is speaking, and intimately acquainted with the philosopher whose portrait he draws.

"To those high gifts of nature which are the characteristics of genius, and which constitute its very essence, both these eminent men united an unwearied industry and z al in research, and habits of accurate reasoning, without which even the energies of genius are inadequate to the achievement of great scientific designs. With these excellencies, common to both, they were nevertheless distinguished by marked intellectual peculiarities. Bold, ardent, and enthusiastic, Davy soared to greater heights: he commanded a wider horizon; and his keen vision penetrated to its utmost boundaries. His imagination, in the highest degree fertile and inventive, took a rapid and extensive range in the pursuit of conjectural analogies, which he submitted to close and patient comparison with known facts, and tried by an appeal to ingenious and conclusive experiments. He was endued with the spirit, and was a master of the practice, of the inductive logic; and he has left us some of the noblest examples of the efficacy of that great instrument of human reason in the discovery of truth. He applied it not only to connect classes of facts of more limited extent and importance, but to develope great and comprehensive laws, which embrace phenomena that are almost universal to the natural world In explaining these laws he cast upon them the illumination of his own clear and vivid conception; he felt an intense admiration of the beauty, order, and harmony which are conspicuous in the perfect chemistry of nature; and he expressed those feelings with a force of eloquence which could issue only from a mind of the highest powers and the finest sensibilities."—Elements of Chemistry, 11th edition.

"A fictitious Narrative, which does not, however, exceed in the distressing nature of its details, the representations handed down to us by eye-witnesses."

"The remarkable quality of Defoe's writings is the appearance of reality that is given to fiction. By a particularity and minuteness of description which his skill prevents from being tedious, he increases the probability of his story, adds to its interest, and carries forward his reader. No author of imaginary tales has impressed so many persons with the belief that they have been reading a true rather than a fictitious narrative." Penny Cyclo.

Doddridge, Philip, D.D., Miscellaneous Works, 8vo. London, 1839.

Doddridge lived at a time when the zeal of the class of persons to whom he belonged had lost some part of its ancient fervour. This he saw with regret, and was very desirous to revive it. This appears to have been a principal object, and one kept steadily in view both in his ministerial labours and his public writings. His printed sermons are remarkable for the earnestness with which he presses the great importance of a religious life, the evil of spiritual indifference or carelessness, and the indispensable necessity of uniting with the practice of the moral duties the cultivation of the spirit of piety, and a deep and serious regard to the momentous truths of religion. This appears particularly in a book of his entitled 'The Rise and Progress of Religion in the Soul.' There is the same spirit of animated piety, and occasionally touches of genuine eloquence in the practical part of his 'Family Expositor,' in which we have the whole Scriptures of the New Testament with a paraphrase, a series of critical notes, and reflections, or as he calls them, improvements, of each section into which the whole is divided. This work may be regarded as an evidence of his learning, as well as of his piety: the notes abound with critical remarks, gathered out of numerous authors, or suggestions of his own mind, full of that knowledge which fits a man to illustrate those difficult writings. The course of metaphysical, ethical, and theological lectures, through which he conducted the young men who were trained by him for the Christian ministry was published after his death, and forms an excellent text book of systematic divinity and a very useful body of references to writers on almost every topic under the heads of metaphysics, ethics or divinity.—Penny Cyclo.

"Southey has observed that he was the first Scotch Poet who wrote well in English. A comparison of his works with those of his predecessors, Douglas and Dunbar, will show the progress made during the sixteenth century towards fixing and perfecting the language, as well in Scotland as in England. His sonnets, and indeed nearly all his poems, mark strongly that indulgence in sorrow which causes it to take the form of habit, and as such conveys a feeling of passive pleasure by its exercise. The resemblance which his versification presents to that of Milton's minor poems is so striking as only to require mention in order to be acknowledged; and few, we should think, could read his poem on the Death of Prince Henry without being reminded of 'Lycidas.' Besides his poetical works, he wrote a history of the five Jameses, kings of Scotland, several pamphlets and tracts, which, with his letters, were published at Edinburgh in 1711."—Penny Cyclopædia.

"Ben Jonson is said to have so admired the genius of this 'Scotian Petrarch' that he travelled on foot to Scotland, out of love and respect to him."

Dryden, John, Poems, 3 vols. 12mo. Lond, 1832.
"Dryden may be considered as a satirical, a reasoning, a descriptive and narrative, a lyric poet, and as a translator. The poetical genius of Dryden came slowly to perfection. Born in 1631, his first short poems, or as we might rather say, copies of verses were not written till he approached thirty; and though some of his dramas, not indeed of the best, belong to the next period of his life, he had reached the age of fifty before his high rank as a poet had been confirmed by indubitable proof. Yet he had manifested a superiority to his immediate contemporaries; his Astræa Redux, on the Restoration, is well versified; the lines are seldom weak, the couplets have that pointed manner which Cowley and Denham the world to require; they are harmonious, varied as the style he afterwards adopted. Mirabilis, in 1667, is of a higher cast; it is m ed as the later poetry of Dryden, because t quatrain, in which he followed Davenant's hostile to animation; but it is not less favo other excellence, condensed and vigorous t venant, indeed, and Denham, may be reck dels of Dryden, so far as this can be said of ginal genius, and one far superior to theirs. guishing characteristic of Dryden, it has Scott, was the power of reasoning and e result in appropriate language. This indeed racteristic of the two we have named, and den has displayed it, which he eminently bears a resemblance to them. . . . But it praise to this great poet. His rapidity of co readiness of expression are higher qualitie loiters about a single thought or image, about the turn of a phrase. The impressi minds that he wrote with exceeding ease, and I do not know that we have any evide The admiration of Dryden gains upon us, if from my own experience, with advancing become more sensible of the difficulty of of the comparative facility of that whic imaginative."—Hallam, Hist. Lit. vol. 4.

"Dr. Samuel Johnson has been highly p critique on Dryden. He has not, however, spirit of verbal criticism which was so pre days: and his comparison of this poet with how little competent he was to do more t of the externals of poetry. Sir Walter Sc Dryden is a beautiful piece of critical biogr research only equalled by Malone's to taste of an order far surpassing Johnson's."

"The work before us is rich in such a vast variety of instruction, that we are really embarrassed how to lay the fruitful matters before our readers, and under what categories to bring its manifold details. We think, however, the most interesting passages it contains may be referred to one of three heads—the character of the poet, his opinions on men and things, and the nature and character of his own poetical and scientific activity. The character of the poet here appears in a form at once venerable and lovely. We are introduced into the interior privacies of his domestic life, and privileged to hear, through the sincere medium of friendly communication, all the natural utterings of a soul that for eighty long years had treasured up, and mellowed with age, the richest and most various knowledge. The experience of nearly a century speaks from the voice of one man, and this a man who had first himself created, and then presided over, the growing literature of a nation." "The works of this Corn-Law Rhymer we might liken rather to some little fraction of a rainbow; hues of joy and harmony, painted out of troublous tears. No full round bow, indeed; gloriously spanning the heavens; shone on by the full sun; and, with seven striped, gold-crimson border (as is in some sort the office of Poetry) dividing black from brilliant: not such; alas, still far from it! Yet, in very truth, a little prismatic blush, glowing genuine among the wet clouds: which proceeds, if you will, from a sun cloud-hidden, yet indicates that a sun does shine, and above those vapours, a whole azure vault and celestial firmament stretch serene. Strange as it may seem, it is nevertheless true, that here we have once more got sight of a book calling itself Poetry, yet which actually is a kind of a Book, and no empty pasteboard Case, and simulacrum, or 'ghost defunct' of a 'Book,' such as is too often palmed on the world, and handed over booksellers' counters, with a demand of real money for it, as if it too were a reality. The speaker here is of that singular class, who have something to say: whereby, though delivering himself in verse, and in these days, he does not deliver himself wholly in jargon, but articulately, and with a certain degree of meaning, that has been believed, and therefore is again believable. To some the wonder and interest will be heightened by another circumstance: that the speaker in question is not school-learned or even furnished with pecuniary capital: is, indeed, a quite unmoneyed russet-coated speaker; nothing or little other than a Sheffield worker in brass and iron, who describes himself as 'one of the lower, little removed from the lowest class.' Be he of what class he may, the man is provided, as we can perceive, with a rational, God-created soul; which too has fashioned itself into some clearness some self-subsistence, and can actually see and know with its own organs: and in rugged substantial English, nay, with tones of poetic melody, utter forth what it has seen.
—"For a generation that reads Cobbett's Prose, and Burns' Poetry, it need be no miracle, that here also is a man who can handle both pen and hammer like a man."

Fellowes, Robert, The Religion of the Universe, 8vo. London, 1836.
"In announcing its arrival, we observed that this was a most curious volume. A perusal has only confirmed the first impression. Although aiming at the overthrow of every existing religion, and denouncing the untruth of all in a most free and uncompromising manner, there is yet nothing conventionally offensive either in the manner or language of the author. His faith is so earnest and so simple, his conviction so evident, his zeal for the benefit of the world so ardent and disinterested, that what would be a damnable heresy in other men is in him only a 'strange doctrine.' Robert Fellowes is not a sceptic but an apostle; he does not come like a coldly-indifferent philosopher to sap, by reason or by ridicule, some creed which he deems a superstition, without a thought of what is to supply its place, but appears like a prophet of old, commissioned to denounce all false religions, and make known the true faith."—Spectator.

Fénélon, Œuvres, 3 vols, 8vo. Paris, 1835.
"The works of Fénélon are very numerous, consisting, besides the romance of 'Telemaque,' of a variety of religious and moral treatises. 'Telemaque, has been translated into every European language, and is read at almost every European school. Had it been written in this age, it is questionable whether its popularity would have been so great; the spirit of the Greeks is much better understood than it was formerly, and the classic reader, though he may admire the language of 'Telemaque,' as well as the general accuracy of the writer's information on matters of ancient history and geography, will find it strange that the sentimental speeches, though good in themselves, should flow from the mouth of Homeric heroes, who of all beings were the least moralizing in the modern sense of the word. His religious and moral essays are only calculated for persons in whose mental constitution warmth and susceptibility are predominant, and who can suffer themselves to be led on by the fervour and eloquence of the author. To the cool and more intellectual inquirer after truth, his works will be diffuse and tedious. In politics Fénélon's opinions are far in advance of his age and country; in one of his treatises he declaims against checking liberty of conscience and boldly proclaims the injustice of levying taxes without the sanction of a parliament."—Penny Cyclopædia, vol. 10.

From its nature it is insuperably wearisome; yet his language is often very poetical, his versification harmonious, his invention fertile."—Hallam, Hist. Lit.

"The name of Godwin, as a writer, is chiefly known in connexion with the 'Treatise on Political Justice;' but his best title to fame is derived from his Novels. He had neither reach nor precision of thought sufficient to form a good philosophical writer. But though deficient in power of reflection, he possessed a singular skill in observing, and in describing what he observed, which fitted him to portray character. The characters of Falkland in Caleb Williams, and of Mandeville, are great examples of his skill in this respect; and there are perhaps no Novels—not even excepting Sir Walter Scott's—which interest so much as those of Godwin. His 'Essays' do not deserve any very high praise, and are principally valuable by reason of the remarks interspersed throughout on the education of children, to which subject he had given much thought."—Penny Cyclopædia Vol. 11.

His usual fault, more discoverable in his plays than in his poems, is an absence of simplicity but his pedantic classical references, frequently without either taste or discretion, he had in common with the other scribbling scholars of the time. It was Shakspeare's good fortune to be in a great degree without the knowledge, and therefore if on no other account without the defect." "This volume is not only invaluable to the philosopher, and most interesting to every reader of cultivated intelligence, but is admirably suited to be put into the hands of young people near the close of their pupillary instruction, immediately after they have read Koch's Tableau des Revolutions de l'Europe. Guizot's Lectures would unite and arrange in the mind the dry facts of the Tableau; would not only fix them in the memory, but transform them into that practical wisdom which the ancients expected from history, and which, considering the increased experience of ages, and our greater wealth in historical documents, our own age has an infinitely higher right to demand."—London Review, Vol 2.

To the student of English manners, Hall's Satires are peculiarly valuable. "The characters are delineated in strong and lively colouring, and their discriminations are touched with the masterly traces of genuine humour. The versification is equally energetic and elegant. His chief fault is obscurity, arising from a remote phraseology, constrained combinations, unfamiliar allusions, elliptical apostrophes, and abruptness of expression."—Warton, in Chalmers' 'British Poets.'

Hallam, Henry, Introduction to the Literature of Europe in the 15th, 16th, and 17th Centuries, 4 vols. 8vo. London, 1837–39.
"His judgments on literary character and books, wear always the impress of good sense, of refined taste, and an extensive acquaintance with many languages and the chief works contained in them The candid and comprehensive philosophy that distinguishes Mr. Hallam's other writings appears in his literary no less than in his political opinions. His intimate acquaintance with civil history has been of essential service to him in his literary researches. It has kept him from attributing too much to the influence of books, a common fault with mere scholars, and has given a practical sobriety to his views, more in keeping, perhaps, with the dignity of the subject, than a greater show of personal feeling and enthusiasm. He is original without the parade of theory, and conveys information with the natural ease of one who has much to give, and is content to give it on the readiest terms."—British and Foreign Review, Vol. 6.
"Those who know Mr. Hallam only by his former works, in which questions of purely literary taste occurred but rarely, will be no less delighted perhaps than surprized, to find this laborious diligence allied with the most ardent admiration of the original, the imaginative, and the harmonious, in the poetry of all countries: they will find themselves passing from the inevitable dryness of a paragraph relating to the progress of grammatical studies, to a burst of eloquence, called forth by the magic of some great bard of Italy or of England. The characteristic of Mr. Hallam's criticism, is the union of a vigorous common-sense, with a just appreciation of the elevated, the noble, and the original, in poetry. He is superior to the vanity, of calling forth some undistinguished writer from the crowd, in order to display his own ingenuity in vindicating his title to a higher place; or his own originality, by contemptuously reversing the general judgment of mankind. He is just and generous to all, but not so prodigal as to to leave little distinction between the different gradations of merit. He advances no new canons. He is entangled in no speculative theory, such as in many works of modern criticism, at first dazzles us by an appeal to our depth of thought; and leaves us dissatisfied at last in finding that we have been mystified rather than instructed. Mr. Hallam is philosophical with philosophising—his is the plain and perspicuous philosophy of a strong mind, which never plunges beyond its depth; and is content with clearly stating his impressions without subtly analysing or refining upon them to excess."—Quar. ı ehief and its great achievement is the applica-f the principle of association to all our states of or, as he himself calls them, not perhaps very y, 'our intellectual pleasures and pains.' But proceeding to set forth and apply the prin-of association, he attempts to explain physically ions and ideas, which he resolves into vibra-of the medullary substance. The first hints of s doctrine of vibrations were derived, he tells om Sir Isaac Newton; but while such specula ıs these do not properly belong to the province psychologist, it is obvious that they can never on any better foundation than conjecture. The ancement therefore of Hartley's work detracts ather than enhances its value. But the doctrine rations being dismissed, the principle of associ-of which little more than hints ha previously iven by Hobbes and Locke, is explained and d by Hartley with a fulness and acuteness will ever render the work valuable. Hayley, William, Poems and Plays, 6 vols. 12mo. London, 1788.

Hazlitt, William, Life of Napoleon Buonaparte, 4 vols. 8vo. London, 1828.

"The two first volumes of the Life of Napoleon, although redeemed by scattered thoughts of true originality and depth, are often spiritless: the characters of the principal revolutionists are drawn too much in the style of caricature; but when the hero throws all his rivals into the distance, erects himself the individual enemy of England, consecrates his power by religious ceremonies, and defines it by the circle of a crown, the author's strength becomes concentrated, his narrative assumes an epic dignity and fervour, and glows with 'the long resounding march and energy divine.' How happy and proud he is to picture the meeting of the Pope and Napoleon, and the grandeurs of the coronation! How he grows wanton in celebrating the fetes of the Tuilleries. How he 'lives along the line,' of Austerlitz, and rejoices in its thunder, and hails its setting sun, and exults in the minutest details of the subsequent meetings of the conquered Sovereigns with the conqueror! How he expatiates on the fatal marriage with 'the deadly Austrian,' (as Mr. Cobbett calls that most heartless of women,) as though it were a chapter of romance, and added the grace of beauty to the imperial picture. How he kindles with martial ardour as he describes the preparations for the expedition against Russia; masters the myriads of barbarians with a show of dramatic justice; and fondly lingers among the brief triumphs of Moskwa on the verge of the terrible catastrophe! The narrative of that disastrous expedition is indeed written with a master's hand; we see the 'Grand Army' marching to its destruction through the immense perspective; the wild hordes flying before the terror of its 'coming,' the barbaric magnificence of Moscow towering in the distance; and when we gaze upon the sacrificial conflagration of the Kremlin, we feel that it is the funeral pile of the conqueror's glories.

"It is well for the readers of this splendid work, that there is more in it of the painter than of the metaphysician; that its style glows with the fervour of battle, or stiffens with the spoil of victory; yet we wonder that this monument to imperial grandeur should be raised from the dead level of jacobinism by an honest and profound thinker."—Sergeant Talfourd.

"This is a very pleasing book, and we do not hesitate to say a book of considerable originality and genius. What we chiefly look for in such a work is a fine sense of the beauties of the author, and an eloquent exposition of them—and all this and more may be found in the volume before us."—Edin. Review.

——, Literary Remains, with a Notice of his Life by his Son, and Thoughts on his Genius and Writings, by E. L. Bulwer and Sergeant Talfourd, 2 vols. 8vo. London, 1836.

"He was singularly versatile, his taste encircled all things, Literature, Art, Philosophy, and Manners. Scattered throughout these Essays, is a wealth of thought and poetry, beside which half the contemporaries of their author seem as paupers. Nothing can be more delightful than the freshness of thought and feeling which appears in the Essay on 'The Love of the Country.' To the next age he will stand amongst the foremost of the thinkers of the present: it is with great truth that to him may be applied the hackneyed praise, 'he was in advance of his time.'"—Metropolitan Magazine.

"The principal merits of Hazlitt as a writer are force and ingenuity of illustration, strength, terseness and vivacity. Another characteristic, which by excess often becomes a fault, is abundance of quotation. And while, as has been said, one good quality frequently exhibited in his writings is terseness, it often happens that he is chargeable with the opposite faults of verbiage and diffuseness. There is also a want of repose in his style, which prevents its pleasing for a long time, and which, despite the splendour of particular passages tends to leave an unsatisfactory general impression.' But in a number of fine passages which one would read, not only once, but again and a third time, or short, stinging, nervous sentences, which without an effort would impress themselves on the memory, there are few writers who can match Hazlitt. We hardly know, in the whole circle of English literature, not even Jeremy Taylor's writings being excepted, a finer specimen of accumulative eloquence than the account of the intellectual life of Coleridge in the 'Spirit of the Age.'"

——, Table Talk; or Original Essays on Men, Manners, and Things.

"Each Essay is a pure gathering of the author's own mind, and not filched from the world of books, in which thievery is so common, and all strike out some bold and original thinking, and give some vigorous truths in stern and earnest language. They are written with infinite spirit and thought. There are abundance of beauties to delight all lovers of nervous English prose, let them be ever so fastidious."—New Monthly Magazine.

"The perfect acquaintance which the author possesses with every part of the subject, theoretical and practical, has enabled him to present the detail of subjects in the most favourable light, and in the order in which they contribute most effectually to illustrate each other. There is also a freshness and originality in the descriptions and illustrations, which are altogether admirable. We have no dry, abstract detail of processes or rules; we feel as if we accompanied the author into his observatory, and heard him explaining the construction and uses of his instruments, detailing what he does, describing the object he sees in his telescope, and pointing out the long chain of inferences which may be deduced from the observations. And all this is accomplished with a clearness and felicity of explanation which never leaves us at a loss; and with powers of fancy and imagination, which give the descriptions a degree of interest seldom experienced in such composi tions"—Edinburgh Review.

"Jonson's plays are well adapted to the perusal of earnest students, who will find in them a mine of sterling though often rugged beauty; but those will be disappointed who look to his works for the amusement of a passing hour. In the first place, it requires a suitable education to enable a person to relish his imitations of the classic authors; and in the second, his plays do not so much represent human character generally, as mankind under the particular circumstances of Jonson's own times and many local allusions are made which cannot be understood without some knowledge of the manners and customs of the time: but Mr Gifford's notes are in his edition of Jonson, a treasure of this kind of information. The practice of exhibiting the 'humours,' that is, the peculiarities of character, obtained for Jonson the name of the 'humorous' poet which name must be understood in a sense quite different from that in which it is used at present The lovers of a more natural school of poetry are seldom admirers of Jonson, who finds his chief readers among those who like to observe the elaboration of dramatic art."—Penny Cyclopædia, vol. 13.

"—— the chief mystics in Germany it would appear, are the Transcendental Philosophers, Kant, Fichte, and Schelling. With these is the chosen seat of mysticism, these are its 'tenebrific constellation,' from which it 'doth ray out darkness.' over the earth. Among a certain class of thinkers, does a frantic exaggeration in sentiment, a crude fever-dream in opinion, anywhere break forth, it is directly labelled as Kantism; and the moonstruck speculator is, for the time, silenced and put to shame by this epithet. For often, in such circles, Kant's Philosophy is not only an absurdity, but a wickedness and a horror: the pious and peaceful sage of Königsberg passes for a sort of Necromancer or Blackartist in Metaphysics; his doctrine is a region of boundless baleful gloom, too cunningly broken here and there by splendors of unholy fire; spectres and tempting demons people it; and hovering over fathomless abysses, hang gay and gorgeous air-castles, into which the hapless traveller is seduced to enter, and so sinks to rise no more.

"If any thing in the history of Philosophy could surprise us, it might well be this. Perhaps among all the metaphysical writers of the eighteenth century, including Hume and Hartley themselves, there is not one that so ill meets the conditions of a mystic as this same Emmanuel Kant. A quiet, vigilant, clear-sighted man, who had become distinguished to the world in Mathematics before he attempted Philosophy; who, in his writings generally, on this and other subjects, is perhaps characterized by no quality so much as precisely by the distinctness of his conceptions, and the sequence and iron strictness with which he reasons. To our own minds, in the little that we know of him, he has more than once recalled Father Boscovich in Natural Philosophy; so piercing, yet so sure; so concise, so still, so simple; with such clearness and composure does he mould the complicacy of his subject; and so firm, sharp, and definite are the results he evolves from it. Right or wrong as his hypothesis may be, no one that knows him will suspect that he himself had not seen it, and seen over it; had not meditated it with calmness and deep thought, and studied throughout to expound it with scientific rigour. Neither, as we often hear, is there any superhuman faculty required to follow him. We venture to assure such of our readers as are in any measure used to metaphysical study, that the Kritik der Reinen Vernunft, (Critic of Pure Reason,) is by no means the hardest task they have tried. It is true, there is an unknown and forbidding terminology to be mastered; this the case also with Chemistry, and Astron all other sciences that deserve the name of sc is true, a careless or unprepared reader will fi writing a riddle; but will a reader of this much of Newton's Principia, or D'Alembert's of Variations? He will make nothing of them less than nothing; for if he trust to his own ju will pronounce them madness Yet if the Phi Mind is any philosophy at all, Physics and Ma must be plain subjects compared with it. But ter are happy, not only in the fixedness and sim their methods, but also in the universal acknow of their claim to that prior and continual inter plication, without which all progress in any impossible; though more than one may be without it; and blamed, because without it yield no result."—Carlyle, Miscellanies, Vol. 1.

"At the time when Kant first entered direct arena of philosophy, its possession was disputed perficial eclecticism and uncompromising dogm the one hand, and on the other by a bold unlim which was cherished by the refined and con scepticism of Hume's writings. To put an e state of things, which was dangerous to the morality and religion as it was subversive of macy of knowledge, was the object of Kant's p cal labours; and for this purpose he sought to dogmatism and scepticism from the domain phy. Kant accordingly proceeded to an ex of man's cognitive faculty, in order to discove and extent of its operation. This investigati signated the criticism of the pure reason, and the reason, as a pure faculty, must criticise itself, but also, as the highest activity of t intellect, the subordinate faculties of sense a standing. In fact, this very stamp of sincerity is the beauty of his works; they contain no new though striking creationes of imagination, but are perva only one sentiment, the glory of fighting and dyi 'fatherland,' expressed in a variety of shapes. H evidently had a perception of the higher poetical ties, but his best Poems are those which seem the unpolished effusions of the moment, and exhib feeling quite unadorned. "Charles Lamb was not the greatest, nor equal to the greatest, among his famous contemporaries, either in splendour or in depth; but he was, perhaps, the most singular and individual. He was one of Nature's curiosities, and amongst her richest and rarest Other men act by their faculties, and you can easily distinguish the predominance of one faculty over another—We dissect the Author, take so much of him as we like, and throw the rest away. But you could not so deal with Lamb He was all compact—inner and outer man in perfect fusion—all the powers of the mind, the sensations of the body, interpenetrating each other. His genius was talent, and his talent genius; his imagination and fancy one and indivisible; the finest scalpel of the Metaphysician could not have separated them. His Poems, his Criticisms, his Essays,—call them his Elias to distinguish them from any thing else in the world. These were not merely written by Lamb—they were and are Lamb's,—just the gentle, fantastic, subtle creature himself, printed off. In a Library of a thousand volumes, you shall not find two that will give you such a bright and living impress of the Author's own very soul. Austin's, Rousseau's,—all the Confessions on record are false and hollow in comparison. There he is as he was, the working or the superannuated Clerk,—very grave and very wild,—tender and fierce at a flash,—learned enough, and more so than you thought—yet ignorant, may be, of school-boy points, and glorious in his ignorance,—seeming to halt behind all, and then with one fling over-leaping the most approved doctor in the room; witty and humorous" — Quarterly Review, Vol. 54.

"With regard to M. La Martine, we are far from saying that even to minds accustomed to the boldest strains of English Poetry, his productions can appear devoid of fault Still more must his innovations in thought and language make him appear extravagant, and even barbarous, to the French, who measure Poetry by the rule and compass and give laws to Inspiration. Yet the mind of this Author is cast in a larger poetical mould than ever before was used by Nature to create a Frenchman."—Quarterly Review, Vol. 5.

"He writes pretty morality, not so deep, perhaps, or so systematic, as that of the Essay on Man, but with more feeling. He adds the Melancholy of Byron, to the Morality of Young."—Blackwood's Magazine, Vol. 13.

Lessing, Gotth. Eph., Sämmtliche Werke, 30 vols. 8vo. Carlsruhe, 1834.

Among all the writers of the 18th century, we will not except even Diderot and David Hume, there is not one of a more compact and rigid intellectual structure; who more distinctly knows what he is aiming at, or with more gracefulness vigor, and precision sets it forth to his readers He thinks with the clearness and piercing sharpness of the most expert logician; but a genial fire pervades him, a wit, a heartiness, a general richness and fineness of nature, to which most logicians are strangers. He is a skeptic in many things, but the noblest of skeptics; a mild, manly, half-careless enthusiasm struggles through his indignant unbelief: he stands before us like a toil-worn, but unwearied and heroic champion, earning not the conquest but the battle: as indeed himself admits to us, that 'it is not the finding of truth, but the honest search for it, that profits!' We confess, we should be entirely at a loss for the literary creed of that man who reckoned Lessing other than a thoroughly cultivated writer; nay, entitled to rank, in this particular with the most distinguished writers of any existing nation. As a poet, as a critic, philosopher, or controversialist his style will be found precisely such as we of England are accustomed to admire most; brief, nervous, vivid; yet quiet, without glitter or antithesis: idiomatic, pure without purism, transparent, yet full of character and reflex of hues of meaning. 'Every sentence,' says Horn, and justly, is 'like a phalanx;' not a word wrong placed, not a word that could be spared; and it forms itself so calmly and lightly, and stands in its completeness, so gay, yet so impregnable! As a poet he contemptuously denied himself all merit; but his readers have not taken him at his word: here, too, a similar felicity of style attends him; his plays, his Minna von Barnhelm, his Emilie Galletti, his Nathan der Weise have a genuine and graceful poetic life: yet no works known to us in any language are purer from exaggeration, or any appearance of falsehood. They are pictures, we might say, painted not in colours, but in crayons; yet a strange attraction lies in them, for the figures are grouped into the finest attitudes and true and spirit-speaking in every line. It is with his style chiefly, that we have to do here: yet we must add, that the matter of his works is not less meritorious. His Criticisms and philosophic or religious Skepticism were of a higher mood than had yet been heard in Europe, still more in Germany: his Dramaturgie first exploded the pretensions of the French theatre, and with irresistible conviction, made Shakspeare known to his countrymen; preparing the way for a brighter era in their literature the chief men of which still thankfully look back to Lessing as their patriarch. His Laocoon, with its deep glances into the philosophy of Art, his Dialogues of Freemasons, a work of far higher import than its title indicates, may yet teach many things to most of us, which we know not and ought to know."—Carlyle—Miscellanies, Vol. i. p. 51

"In his Treatise on Education, which may be reck oned an introduction to that on the Conduct of th Understanding, since the latter is but a scheme that education an adult person should give himself, h has uttered, to say the least, more good sense on th subject than will be found in any preceding write Locke was not like the pedants of his own or oth ages, who think that to pour their wordy book-learn ing into the memory is the true discipline of chil hood The culture of the intellectual and moral facu ties in their most extensive sense, the health of the bod the accomplishments which common utility, or soci custom have rendered valuable, enter into his ide of the best model of education, conjointly at least wi any knowledge that can be imparted by books. Th ancients had written in the same spirit; in Xenopho in Plato, in Aristotle, the noble conception whic Milton has expressed, of forming the perfect man, always predominant over mere literary instruction, indeed the latter can be said to appear at all in the writings on this subject; but we had become th dupes of schoolmasters in our riper years, as we ha been their slaves in our youth. Much has been wri ten, and often well, since the days of Locke; but h is the chief source from which it has been ultimatel derived; and though the 'Emile' is more attractive i manner, it may be doubtful whether it is as rationa and practicable as the Treatise on Education If the both have the same defect, that their authors wante sufficient observation of children, it is certain that th caution and sound judgment of Locke have rescue him better from error."—Hallam's History of Liter ture, vol. 4.

"I cannot think any parent or instructor justified i neglecting to put this treatise (on the Conduct of th Understanding,) in the hands of a boy about the tim when the reasoning faculties become developed. will give him a sober and serious, not flippant or sel conceited, independency of thinking; and while teaches how to distrust ourselves, and to watch thos prejudices which necessarily grow up from one caus or another, will inspire a reasonable confidence i what he has well considered, by taking off a little that deference to authority, which is the more to b regretted in its excess, that, like its cousin-germa party-spirit, it is frequently united to loyalty of hea and the generous enthusiasm of youth."—Hallam History of Literature.

Dugald Stewart, in his "Preliminary Dissertation" to the Encyclopædia Britannica, has extolled the first two books of the Essay on Human Understanding, which yet he deems in many respects inferior to the third and fourth, as "a precious accession to the theory of the human mind; as the richest contribution of well-observed and well-described facts which was ever bequeathed by a single individual; and as the indisputable, though not always acknowledged, source of some of the most refined conclusions with respect to the intellectual phenomena, which have been since brought to light by succeeding inquirers."

——, Life of Robt. Burns, 12mo. Edinburgh, 1828.

"Mr. Lockhart uniformly treats Burns as the high and remarkable man the public voice has now pronounced him to be; and in delineating him, he has avoided the method of separate generalities, and rather sought for characteristic incidents, habits, actions, sayings; in a word, for aspects which exhibit the whole man, as he looked and lived among his fellows. The book accordingly, with all its deficiencies, gives more insight, we think, into the true character of Burns, than any prior biography.

"We love Burns, and we pity him; and love and pity are prone to magnify. Criticism, it is sometimes thought, should be a cold business; we are not so sure of this; but, at all events, our concern with Burns is not exclusively that of critics. True and genial as his poetry must appear, it is not chiefly as a poet, but as a man, that he interests and affects us. He was often advised to write a tragedy: time and means were not lent him for this; but through life he enacted a tragedy, and one of the deepest. We question whether the world has since witnessed so utterly sad a scene; whether Napoleon himself, left to brawl with Sir Hudson Lowe, and perish on his rock 'amid the melancholy main,' presented to the reflecting mind such a 'spectacle of pity and fear,' as did this intrinsically nobler, gentler, and perhaps greater soul, wasting itself away in a hopeless struggle with base entanglements, which coiled closer and closer round him, till only death opened him an outlet. Conquerors are a race with whom the world could well dispense; nor can the hard intellect, the unsympathizing loftiness, and high but selfish enthusiasm of such persons, inspire us in general with any affection; at best it may excite amazement; and their fall, like that of a pyramid, will be beheld with a certain sadness and awe. But a true Poet, a man in whose heart resides some affluence of wisdom, some tone of the 'Eternal Melodies,' is the most precious gift that can be bestowed on a generation; we see in him a freer, purer development of whatever is noblest in ourselves; his life is a rich lesson to us, and we mourn his death, as that of a benefactor who loved and taught us."—Carlyle's Miscellanies, vol. 1. If he sometimes discloses the l vices of mankind too freely, and occasionally ressions which are revolting to our ideas of it should be recollected that every author e judged of by the age in which he lived, and standard of religion and morality which was to the writer The character of Lucian's decidedly practical; he was not disposed to ything without sufficient evidence of its nothing that was ridiculous or absurd escaped r and sarcasm. The dialogues of Lucian are remarkably pure and elegant Greek, and are the false ornaments and artificial rhetoric racterize most of his contemporaries. Mod have usually given him his full meed of praise xcellencies, and have also deservedly admired ss of his wit, his great talent as a writer, and able ease and flow of his dialogue; but they m done him the justice he deserves. They er represented him as merely a witty and writer, but without any further merit; or else attacked him as an immoral and infidel author, ly object was to corrupt the minds of his rea- o throw ridicule upon all religion. But these ppear to us to have arisen from a mistaken ided view of the character of Lucian. He s to have endeavoured to expose all kinds of fanaticism, and imposture; the quackery and of the priests, the folly and absurdity of the us, and especially the solemn nonsense, the olence and the immoral of the philosophical of his age."—Penny Cyclo. "Few of those who love to loiter in the picture gallery of history, 'amid the painted forms of other times,' but have felt their march arrested and their attention charmed by two great figures in the compartment of the seventeenth century, Gustavus Adolphus and Wallenstein. There is in the former a simple sublimity—a diffused and holy lustre—which sets criticism at defiance, and the glory of the saint is distinguishable around the casque of the Protestant warrior There is a gloom in the grandeur of the other,—a shadow of pride, and passion, and evil destiny,—which pains while it fascinates; yet, turning from both or either, we may wander with quickened step and unobservant eye, 'through rows of warriors and through ranks of kings,' an host of crowned and helmeted and peruked nonentities, before we look on the like of either again.

"Perhaps we scarcely appreciate highly enough the spirit and originality of this fiction, which ought to be considered with regard to the barbarism of the times, and the meagreness of preceding inventions. The republic of Plato no doubt furnished More with the germ of his perfect society: but it would be unreasonable to deny him the merit of having struck out the fiction of its real existence from his own fertile imagination; and it is manifest, that some of his most distinguished successors in the same walk of romance, especially Swift, were largely indebted to his reasoning, as well as inventive talents. Those who read the Utopia in Burnet's Translation, may believe that they are in Brobdignag; so similar is the vein of satirical humour and easy language. If false and impracticable theories are found in Utopia (and perhaps he knew them to be such), this is in a much greater degree true of the Platonic republic; and they are more than compensated by the sense of justice and humanity that pervades it, and his bold censures on the vices of power. * * * We may acknowledge, after all, that the Utopia gives us the impression of its having proceeded rather from a very ingenious than a profound mind; and this, apparently, is what we ought to think of Sir Thomas More."—Hallam, Hist. Muller, Johann Von, Sämmtliche Werke 8vo. Stuttgart and Tubing
His great work 'History of the Swiss Conf has placed him in the first rank of historians. T traces the rise of the towns and small comm Helvetia through the gloom of the dark ages, minute particulars of the customs, manners referring at every step to authentic document work of vast and deep research, and, though minute, is yet attractive in its style. The in value of the work, as a book of historical ref not confined to the narrow ground of Swiss serves also to illustrate the early history of th nations in general.
His 'Universal History' is a rapid but w abridgement, and useful to young people.

"The splendour and magnificence of Elizabeth's reign is no where more strongly painted than in these little Diaries of her summer excursions to the houses of her nobility; nor could a more acceptable present be given to the world, than the republication of a select number of such details; which strongly mark the spirit of the times, and present us with scenes so very remote from modern manners."—Bp. Percy's Reliques.

——, of King James I., 4 vols. 4to. London, 1828.

"Compiled from either novel or unknown and widely-dispersed Materials, these Diaries possess a strict chronological arrangement; and rarely a week, scarcely ever a month, is passed over without some event of greater or less interest coming under notice. With a continual variety of subject, one page describes the splendid pageantry of a masque, the next the king's interference in the trial of heretics or burning of witches; here is displayed the gentle gallantry of the court revels, there the savage contests of the Tower menagery; this passage treats of the stately audience of a foreign ambassador that of the mad diversions of the stipendiary buffoons; here are related the mimic combats of the chivalrous tilt, there the serious consequences of the too fashionable duel; here the sumptuous array of a court marriage or christening, there the lengthened ceremonies of a numerously attended funeral; here the profuse expenditure and lavish liberality of a monarch ignorant of the value of money, astonish by their wanton extravagance; there the contemptible modes of raising supplies, in the absence of Parliaments, surprise by their circuitous contrivances; whilst the principal subject of the work,—the journeys and visits made by the Royal Family, and in particular the King's great annual Progresses,—seems to be pursued to the full extent of practicable investigation."—Gentleman's Magazine.

"It cannot be our purpose here to recommend the following Works, or to judge of them; probable as it must be that any judgment delivered at this stage of the matter would be a premature and unripe one, for a spirit of such originality must first be comprehended, his will understood, and his loving intention felt and replied to; so that not till his ideas have taken root in other minds and brought forth new ideas, shall we see rightly, from the historical sequence, what place he himself occupied and what relation to his country he truly bore.——For him it had become the most natural disposition to regard the commonest and nearest as a wonder, and the strange the supernatural as something common; men's every-day life itself lay round him like a fable, and those regions which the most dream of, or doubt of, as of a thing distant incomprehensible, were for him a beloved home. Thus did he, uncorrupted by examples, find out for himself a new method of delineation; and in his multiplicity of meaning, in his view of love, and his belief in love, as at once his instructor, his wisdom, his religion: in this too that single grand incident in life, and one deep sorrow and bereavement grew to be the essence of his poetry and contemplations,—he alone among the moderns, resembles the lofty Dante; and sings as, like him, an unfathomable mystic song, far different from that of many imitators who think to put on mysticism, and put it off, like a piece of dress."—Tieck: quoted in Carlyle's Miscellanies, vol. 2.

"Charles Knight's Shakspeare is, in its conception and management, one of the most valuable presents made, not merely to Shaksperian, but to general antiquarian literature. I know that there are many more famous, elaborate, deeply pondered, and technical repertories of antiquarian lore. I know also that there have been criticisms of higher pretence and, in some instances, of far higher genius, upon these illustrious dramas, than what we have in the brief notes which he is publishing; but taking the combination of graphic exhibition by admirably executed wood-cuts, (in most cases worth a wagon-load of comment,) of objects now to be traced by poring research, but so familiar as to be made matter of trite allusion in the days of Elizabeth, with fairly-digested and well-condensed scholia, meeting all the ordinary difficulties, and explaining the ordinary puzzles of the sadly mangled text, I do not know where to find a book in which poetry is so aided by antiquarian knowledge and pictorial skill."—Dr. Maginn, in Fraser's Magazine, vol. 20, 'On Dr. Farmer's Essay on the Learning of Shakspeare.'

"Spain had, about the middle of this century, (1600 to 1700,) a writer of various literature, who is only known in Europe by his fictions, Quevedo. His Visions and his Life of the great Tacano were early translated, and became very popular. They may be reckoned superior to any thing in comic romance, except Don Quixotte, that the seventeenth century produced; and yet the commendation is not a high one. In the picaresque style, the Life of Tacano; but Quevedo, like others, has long been surpassed. The Visions are better; they show spirit and sharpness, with some originality of invention."—Hallam, Hist. Lit. Vol. 4.

"Raleigh's 'History of the World' is a proof of the respect for laborious learning that had long distinguished Europe. We should expect from the prison-house of a soldier, a courtier, a busy intriguer in State affairs, a poet and a man of genius, something well worth our notice; but hardly a prolix history of the ancient world—hardly disquisitions on the site of Paradise, and the Travels of Cain. These are probably translated, with little alteration, from some of the learned writings of the Continent; they are by much the least valuable portion of Raleigh's work. The Greek and Roman story is told more fully and exactly than by any earlier English Author, and with a plain eloquence which has given this book a classical reputation in our language, though from its length, and the want of that critical sifting of facts which we now justly demand, it is not greatly read Raleigh has intermingled Political reflections, and illustrated his history by episodes from modern times, which perhaps are now the most interesting passages. It descends only to the second Macedonian war."—Hallam's Hist. Lit. Vol. 3.

There is in him that which does not die; that beauty and earnestness of soul, tha humanity, of love and wisdom, over which t tudes of mode have no sway. This is that ex the inmost nature which alone confers immo writings; that charm which still, under eve ment, binds us to the pages of our own Ho Taylors, and Brownes, when their way of th long ceased to be ours, and the most value merely intellectual opinions have passed awa too must do, with the circumstances and event they took their scope or rise. To men of a r there may long be in Richter much that has and value. In the moral desert of vulgar liter its sandy wastes, and parched, bitter, and too sonous shrubs, the writings of this man will r irregular luxuriance, like a cluster of date tree green sward and well of water, to refresh the the sultry solitude, with nourishment and shad lyle's Miscellanies, vol. 1.

eroes of Schiller are distinguished by a noble- ture which acts on us like the pure and perfect a picture of Raphael: by something regal akens in us a holy awe. This beam of higher into the dark shadows of earthly ruin, only e clearer; under the mask of hell, the angelic ice shines forth the more resplendent and love- first secret of this loveliness lies in the angelic which always forms the deep basis of the no- res. This nobility of innocence re-appears un- atures of a pure youthful angel in all Schiller's In sun-like transfiguration, in the form of dhood, wholly unarmed, and yet invulnerable, its itself in Fridolin, like the king's son in the ling and playing with the wild beasts of the l yet uninjured by them.

ɔment they become conscious of their own moment the envy of destiny is awakened em. In this new and pathetic aspect, we con- them as Hero and Leander. Adorned with e helmet, their cheeks flushing with the glow passion, youthful innocence advances confi- nst all the dark powers of hell. Thus has ɜpresented them in the Diver and the Surety— ortunate lovers, Charles de Moor and Amelia, inand and Louisa—above all, in Max Piccolo- Thekla. Above these touching forms, floats f poetry which has never yet been equalled; note of a flute amidst a peal of wild and dis- usic—a glimpse of blue sky amidst a storm—a upon the edge of a crater. If Shakspeare's eations appear to possess more of the charm like purity, the virgins of Schiller possess at soul of the lily—its powerful and lively per- l approach nearer to the creations of Sopho- ey are not weaklings, like the saints of Carlo Correggio; they have in them a sacred fire of like the Madonnas of Raphael; they do not ich but inspire us.

rity of the virgin appears most prominent at nt when she stands forth as the champion of is the deep mystery of Christianity, and of Poetry, that the salvation of the world pro- n a woman—the highest power from the purest e. In this sense has Schiller composed his Orleans, and she is the most perfect embodi- that warlike angel who wears the helm and banner of heaven.

has succeeded also in portraying this virgin in union with the noblest development of anhood. Among these, three holy and heroic d out pre-eminent; the warrior youth, Max oni, pure, unspotted by all the vices of the l of his home; the Marquis Posa, whose soul, lorned by all intellectual culture, has yet re- e unsullied temple of innocence; and lastly, g and simple-hearted son of the mountain, Tell, a fit companion to the Maid of Orleans. innocence shines forth in its purest glory, new also how to represent the conflict between al innocence and the guilty stain induced by ssions; and he has called up before our souls entation of this contest with the same love and perfection of art. How deeply does the Mag- character of Mary Stuart sink into our What can be more touching than Karl Moor's over himself? How incomparably talented, agitating, is the mental conflict which shakes souls of Fiesco and Wallenstein.—Menzel's Literature.

Schlegel, Frederick, Sämmtliche Werke, 10 vols. 8vo. Wien, 1822.

"——A man to whom our age owes mor than our children's children can repay—new and purer feelings upon art, and its holiest applications; the attempt, at least, to turn Philosophy's eye inward upon the soul, and to compound the most sacred elements of its spiritual powers with the ingredients of human knowledge; above all, the successful discovery of a richer India than Vasco de Gama opened unto Europe, whose value is not in its spices, and its pearls, and its Barbaric gold, but in tracks of science unexplored—in mines long unwrought, of native wisdom—in treasures deeply buried, of symbolic learning—and in monuments long hidden, of primeval and venerable traditions."—N. "Shirley is a dramatic writer much inferior to t who have been mentioned, (Beaumont and Flet Massinger, Ford, &c.), but has acquired some degre reputation, or at least notoriety of name, in consequ of the new edition of his plays. These are betw twenty and thirty in number; some of them, howe written in conjunction with his fellow dramatists. few of these are tragedies, a few are comedies dr from English manners: but in the greater part we the favourite style of that age, the characters foreign of elevated rank, the interest serious, but not alway buskined dignity, the catastrophe fortunate; all, in sh that has gone under the vague appellation of tragi-c edy. Shirley has no originality, no force in concei or delineating character, little of pathos, and less, haps of wit; his dramas produce no impression in r ing, and of course can leave none in the memory. his mind was poetical, his better characters, especi females, express pure thoughts in pure language; h never timid or affected and seldom obscure; the i dents succeed rapidly, the personages are numerous, there is a general animation in the scenes, which ca us to read him with some pleasure. No very good p nor, possibly, any good very good scene could be fo in Shirley; but he has many lines of considerable b ty."—Hallam, Hist. Lit.

"His command of imagery is wide, easy, and luxuriant. He threw the soul of harmony into our verse, and made it more warmly, tenderly, and magnificently descriptive than it ever was before, or with a few exceptions than it has ever been since. It must certainly be owned that in description he exhibits nothing of the bold strokes and robust power, which characterise the very greatest poets; but we shall no where find more airy and expansive images of visionary things, a sweeter tone of sentiment, or a finer flush in the colours of language, than in this Rubens of English Poetry. His fancy teems exuberantly in minuteness of circumstance like a fertile soil sending bloom and verdure through the utmost extremities of the foliage which it nourishes."—Campbell's Specimens of the British Poets, Vol. 3.

This book is altogether one of the most delightful we ever read. It is a mere story of ordinary life, but by an extraordinary mind, which sheds over it of wn beauty, and makes its stonicst places to blossom the rose. That simplicity of spirit, which is not ignce, but the highest wisdom, is spread over every of the book like sunlight. Heinrich Stilling is, in the life, related by himself under that name, of the Johann Jung, who it appears eventually became a essor in the Universities of Heidelberg and Mar-
. Jung is the author of various other works, some hich have been translated into English, but the pre-is the one by which he first became known. It has since its appearance, been the delight of his coun-en of all ranks."

"They were men whose minds may be said to have been cast in the same mould: for they differ only in those minuter shades of character which always must exist in human nature; shades of difference so infinitely varied, that there never were, and never will be two persons in all respects alike. In their love of virtue and their instinctive hatred and contempt of vice, in their freedom from personal jealousy, in their thirst after knowledge and intellectual improvement, in nice observation of nature, promptitude to action, intrepidity and fondness for romantic enterprise, in magnificence and liberality, in generous support of others, and high-spirited neglect of themselves, in constancy in friendship, and tender susceptibility of affections of a still warmer nature, and in every thing connected with sentiment and principle, they were one and the same: but when those qualities branch out into particulars, they will be found in some respects to differ.

"Wyatt had a deeper and more accurate penetration into the characters of men than Surrey had; hence arises the difference in their satires. * * * In point of taste and perception of propriety in composition, Surrey is more accurate and just than Wyatt; he therefore seldom either offends with conceits, or wearies with repetition, and when he imitates other poets, he is original as well as pleasing. In his numerous translations from Petrarch, he is seldom inferior to his master; and he seldom improves upon him. Wyatt is almost always below the Italian, and frequently degrades a good thought by expressing it so that it is hardly recognizable."—Dr. Nott, vol. 2, p. 156.

"Surrey is the first who introduced blank verse into our English poetry. The taste of this accomplished man is more striking than his poetical genius. He did much for his own country and his native language. The versification of Surrey differs very considerably from that of his predecessors. He introduced, as Dr. Nott says, a sort of involution into his style which gives an air of dignity and remoteness from common life. It was in fact borrowed from the license of Italian poetry, which our own idiom has rejected."—Hallam, Hist. Lit. Vol. 1.

——, Memorials of the Stuart Dynasty, including the constitutional and ecclesiastical History of England from the decease of Elizabeth to the abdication of James II., 2 vols. 8vo. London, 1831.

The life of Wycliffe is universally admitted to have wiped away the disgrace from English Literature of having overlooked, or but partially appreciated, the labours of the 'Morning Star' of our reformation. Few books in our language display greater laboriousness of research, or a more thorough and sifting investigation of all authorities bearing on their subject. Destitute of attraction to the indolent and unreflecting reader, it contains a rich and invaluable depository of all which can throw light on the character, opinions, and ministry of this early reformer

'The Memorials of the Stuart Dynasty,' though less distinguished by originality of research than 'The Life of Wycliffe,' was an equally valuable, and still more attractive contribution to our historical Literature. Displaying the same patient investigation and honesty of judgment, it meeted out with an even hand, the praise and blame which are due to the several parties whose struggles it records. A safer and better book cannot be put into the hands of intelligent young men. Free from the faults of our common histories, it does justice to the puritans and commonwealth-men without betraying an insensibility to their faults.—Eclectic Review, vol. 4, New Series.

"He possessed very considerable powers, and ought to be ranked, I think, the next below Ford. With less poetic grace than Shirley, he had incomparably more vigour; with less of nature and simplicity than Heywood, he had a more elevated genius, and a bolder pencil. But the deep sorrows and terrors of tragedy were peculiarly his province. 'His imagination,' says his last editor, 'had a fond familiarity with objects of awe and fear.' Webster has a superiority in delineating character above many of the old dramatists; he is seldom extravagant beyond the limits of conceivable nature; we find the guilt, or even the atrocity, of human passions, but not that incarnation of evil spirits which some more ordinary dramatists loved to exhibit. Webster is not without comic wit, as well as a power of imagination; his plays have lately met with an editor of taste enough to admire his beauties, and not very over-partial in estimating them." —Hallam's History of Literature, vol. 3.

Wieland, ——, Oberon, a Poem, translated by Wm. Sotheby, 2 vols, 12mo., London, 1826.
"Wieland first restored to German Poetry the free and fearless glance of a child of the world, a natural grace, a taste for cheerful merriment, and the power of affording it. To assign to grace its due place and importance a genial spirit was required, in whom this tendency should be exclusively developed. Wieland appeared, the cheerful, amiable, refined Wieland, a genius exhaustless in grace and lightness, in wit and jest. We must first be acquainted with the stiff, disjointed, mannered, and puling period which preceded him, ere we can appreciate the free movement of his genius.
The genius of Wieland was most strongly attracted towards Greece. There he found the ideal of his graces; there he imbibed the clear stream of life and nature. He made the harmony and grace by which the whole life of Greece was inter-penetrated his own. What Winckelmann did for the plastic Arts, Wieland achieved for Poetry. He taught us, by the example of the Greeks, to re-acknowledge and to reproduce the beauty of Nature."—Menzel, History of German Literature.
